BY BLIZZARDS

Nfld., Sask. Paralyzed

By The Canadian Press

Blizzards swept into Saskatchewan and parts of the Atlantic provinces Sunday in a two-fisted wintry wallop. Elsewhere in Canada the sting was mild by comparison.

The raging blizzard that has battered eastern and central Newfoundland for 30 hours continued unabated today. Gales were reaching 85 miles an hour.

The weather office here said more than 15 inches of snow had fallen since the storm began at 4:30 a.m. Sunday. Another four to six inches was expected today.

Most of St. John's was blacked out by a power failure shortly after midnight Sunday night. Although electricity was restored to some blocks of the city by mid-morning there was doubt whether the wires would hold under the fierce gales.

There was no transportation of any kind in the eastern and central part of the province. A few main streets in St. John's were cleared for one-way traffic. A 300-mile stretch of the Trans-Canada Highway between here and Grand Falls was blocked.

TRAVEL IN SNOWPLOW

Hospitals were operating under auxiliary power systems. Only one ambulance was called out and it was accompanied by a snowplow. When the ambulance became hopelessly stuck, the patient, not seriously ill, was taken the rest of the way in the plow.

The city's fire alarm system was disabled. Most homes in the city are heated by oil furnaces. Most cooking is done on electric stoves.

Most radio stations were on the air only intermittently. The St. John's Telegram was prevented from publishing by the power failure.

All schools and most businesses were closed. Memorial University cancelled classes. Mayor William Adams asked people to remain in their homes and Premier J. R. Smallwood called only a skeleton staff into government offices.

Winds whistled at 80 miles an hour in Regina; higher temperatures returned to Alberta and southern Ontario and Quebec while more seasonable rains continued to wash away snow in British Columbia.

Five persons died in two fires during the Maritime storm and in B.C. two persons were killed under a snow slide.

The Saskatchewan storm was moving into Manitoba today bringing cold air and light winds.

In Regina Sunday the only vehicles capable of moving were motor-driven toboggans as high winds drove powdery snow into drifts and cut visibility to zero. All air flights were cancelled.

Twenty cars were abandoned in a one-mile stretch of road near Moose Jaw and in Swift Current police ordered people off the streets.

MANY STRANDED

Many people were stranded but no deaths were reported in the Prairie blizzard.

Four children were killed in a house fire near Halifax and another blaze in Liverpool, N.S., took the life of a seven-year-old boy and injured a man. Road accidents blamed on weather conditions injured at least 11 persons.

ROAD, RAIL LINKS RE-OPENED IN B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Rogers Pass section of the Trans-Canada Highway in eastern British Columbia was re-opened late Sunday night after a two-day closure because of snow slides.

The Fraser Canyon section of the same highway was re-opened late Saturday after a four-day closure.

Two Department of Northern Affairs employees were killed near the summit of the Rogers Pass Saturday when they were caught in a slide.

The bodies of Walter Green, 50, of Revelstoke, and Howard Scovil, 50, of Glacier, were recovered Sunday.

STEP TOWARD KASHMIR PEACE

India, Pakistan Pull Troops Back

Kosygin Scores As Peacemaker

TASHKENT (UPI)—The Soviet Union scored its first diplomatic triumph as an international peacemaker today when the leaders of India and Pakistan agreed to pull back troops from the front lines of disputed Kashmir.

In a nine-point communique signed at the end of week-long peace talks in this Soviet Central Asian city, Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri and Pakistani President Mohammad Ayub Khan also agreed to exchange prisoners and continue efforts toward peaceful relations.

The document was viewed here as an important step toward ending the 18-year feud between India and Pakistan over Kashmir, as well as a triumph for the Soviet Union in its unprecedented effort to mediate peace between two non-Communist nations.

Diplomats said Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, through hours of behind-the-scene efforts, had saved the conference from foundering.

"Kosygin gave the conference a blood transfusion," an Indian spokesman said.

(In Washington, President Johnson welcomed the agreement and said it was a step in the right direction toward peace. Some American officials believed the pact would boost Russia's stock in its struggle with China for influence in Asia.)

'Mediation Behind the Scenes'

Pakistani spokesmen said Kosygin's intervention in the conference "amounted to mediation—but it was mediation behind the scenes."

It was the first admission by either side that Kosygin expanded his role from "good offices" to "mediation." But there was no hint he actually offered concrete proposals.

Aziz Ahmed, the Pakistani spokesman, said the agreement was "a great achievement as far as it goes," but "it did not go far enough."

Ahmed indicated Pakistan had hoped for more detailed arrangements for permanent machinery to settle the Kashmir problem, although the machinery envisaged in the document "may be sufficiently effective."

The spokesman revealed the communique was approved only at 1:30 a.m. today, after Kosygin's final midnight meeting with Shastri.

Ahmed indicated future meetings between the two nations may be held on Soviet soil when he referred to the summit as the "first Tashkent conference."

Viet Cong Necessary To Talks

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today there has been direct contact with Hanoi on the Vietnamese situation. There was no further elaboration.

TOKYO (AP) — Soviet trouble-shooter Alexander N. Shelepin has called on the United States to agree to meet with the Viet Cong to end the war in Viet Nam.

Shelepin, who headed a Soviet mission to Hanoi, told a rally there Sunday: "Now is the time for the U.S. to realize it is impossible to settle the Viet Nam question without the participation of the South Viet Nam National Liberation Front (the Viet Cong)—the authentic representative of the South Vietnamese people."

The Soviet leader, reputed to be the No. 2 man in the Soviet Communist party, said American acts do not prove that the United States is willing to recognize the four-point stand of North Viet Nam. He said this stand "serves as a basis for the solution of the Viet Nam problem."

North Viet Nam's four points include a demand that the political future of South Viet Nam be settled "in accordance with" the program of the Communist Viet Cong. The United States has asked for clarification of this point and has said it would reject any political settlement allowing a Communist takeover in South Viet Nam.

MAKES CONCESSION

The United States also has indicated it is not willing to negotiate directly with the Viet Cong to end the Viet Nam war but would be willing to let the Viet Cong be represented at the conference table by North Viet Nam.

Shelepin arrived in the North Vietnamese capital Friday as the head of a high-ranking Soviet delegation.

In an indirect attack on China's policy of advocating all-out war if necessary, he emphasized what he called the peaceful aspects of Soviet policy and its objective of "preventing a new world war."

Apparently replying to Peking's charge that the Russians are only half-heartedly supporting North Viet Nam and trying to make a deal with the United States to end the war, Shelepin emphasized the "sacred duty" of all Communist nations to give North Viet Nam all possible help.

Observers assume that the Russians are trying to outbid Peking's influence in North Viet Nam with offers of more aid.

Shelepin also attacked U.S. policy toward West Germany, saying the ". . . plan of the imperialists is to turn West Germany into a shock force to oppose the Soviet Union, the whole socialist camp and the liberated countries."

INDIAN Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, 61, died of a heart attack in Tashkent, USSR late today shortly after the windup of his week-long summit conference with Pakistan President Ayub Khan.

Slander Action Dismissed

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Supreme Court today dismissed a slander suit against Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

The writ of slander brought against the premier by George E. P. Jones, former chairman of the B.C. government purchasing commission, was dismissed by Mr. Justice H. W. McInnis in a 19-page judgment.

Mr. Jones, forced by legislature bill to retire as head of the commission, had charged he was slandered by the premier in a speech March 5, 1965.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice McInnis ruled that the words Mr. Bennett was said to have used in his speech "were not capable of containing slander."

Mr. Jones' lawyer, Tom Berger, told the eight-man jury at the start of the action Dec. 20 that Mr. Bennett had made the remarks at a Victoria Social Credit Association meeting at which more than 150 people, including reporters, were present.

Mr. Berger said the remarks contained "an innuendo which left Jones the victim of rumor and speculation."

He quoted Mr. Bennett as saying:

"I'm not going to say anything about the Jones boy. I'm not going to talk about it. But I could say a lot.

"I just want to assure you that the position the government has taken is the right one."

WAS SHORT HEARING

The hearing of the action in Supreme Court took only two days.

In March, 1965, the B.C. legislature approved a bill retiring Mr. Jones.

2 Men Killed In Air Crash

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (UPI) — Two men were killed and the pilot injured Sunday when their Cessna 180 aircraft crashed on landing 250 miles northwest of Hay River in the Northwest Territories.

The aircraft, owned by Keir Air Transport of Edmonton, crashed while attempting to land at Blackwater River. It was under charter to Calgary Exploration Services Ltd.

Killed were Ronald Schmitke, 34, of Calgary, and John Browning, 28, of Fort Simpson, N.W.T. Both were employed by the Calgary firm. Schmitke was vice-president.

Dominican Violence

SANTO DOMINGO (CP) — Leftist-inspired violence erupted in parts of downtown Santa Domingo today. One man was shot and reported seriously wounded after an incident involving U.S. paratroopers. (See earlier, Page 3.)

Gov't Car Insurance New Goal for Labor

OTTAWA (CP) — A major campaign to promote the idea of government automobile insurance will be mounted next month by the Canadian Labour Congress, President Claude Jodoin announced today.

It will be the theme for this year's Citizenship Month observance by the 1,200,000-member labor body. Last year's topic was medicare.

Mr. Jodoin said in a statement that the mounting toll of deaths, injuries and damage on Canadian highways has become a problem of major national importance.

The CLC proposes that the provinces establish commissions to collect and administer auto insurance funds and deal with accident claims.

Cong Guerrillas Flee U.S. Knockout Drive

SAIGON (CP) — The largest U.S. fighting force of the Vietnamese war demolished a honeycomb of Viet Cong fortifications on the edge of the Iron Triangle 25 miles northwest of Saigon today, but the Viet Cong ducked the knockout punch.

Most of the guerrillas kept away from the U.S. and Australian troops as they scorched the Communist stronghold on the third day of the operation.

Australians operating with the U.S. troops uncovered a big weapons cache left by the fleeing guerrillas.

There were more than 8,000 men in the allied force, but U.S. military spokesman reported only light contact with the enemy, a regiment-sized force thought to be holed up in the 12 square miles of jungle and marshland.

The spokesman reported 22 Viet Cong killed, 38 captured and 269 suspects, mostly women and children, detained. Allied casualties were light, they said.

The Viet Cong units they are chasing are probably less than one-third their number.

Military sources said the troops are clearing the tunnels with tear gas and then blowing them up.

The tunnels are a labyrinth of arsenals, caverns and concrete-lined bunkers below dense jungle territory.

MAKE LIGHT CONTACT

U.S. and Australian troops, supported by a New Zealand artillery battery, have skirmished only lightly with guerrillas since their joint push began two days ago.

This was because the Viet Cong had fled from their subterranean maze "like rabbits from a warren," the sources said.

In one underground Viet Cong hospital, the Australians found food still fresh on the tables. Abandoned guerrilla fortifications were littered with mines and booby traps, hastily planted.

The tunnels uncovered so far are fewer than 20 miles from the Cambodian border. The caverns are stacked with weapons, ammunition, medical supplies and clothing.

The area of the operation, in Hau Nghia province, has been dominated by guerrillas since the days of French rule.

Jets have been making round-the-clock bombing raids, strafing the guerrillas as they emerge.

COMMONWEALTH MEETING ON RHODESIA OPENS TUESDAY

Big Selling Job Faces Wilson in Nigeria

By IAN MACDONALD
Times Ottawa Correspondent

LAGOS, Nigeria—The Commonwealth is at a crisis crossroads in this sweltering African city. What happens here in the next 48 hours could snap the already strained ties that hold together the 22 member countries.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson arrived from London today on one of the biggest selling jobs of his career. He has to convince the angry, resentful African members that the Rhodesian rebels are on their last legs.

Wilson has to show them that Prime Minister Ian Smith's regime will topple through economic sanctions and without the neccessity of armed intervention.

There is an air of tension in Lagos, the Nigerian capital, and security is tight. armed policemen and troops are to be seen all over the city of about 700,000 people.

Soldiers in colorful costumes but with a down-to-earth arsenal are guarding the federal ~~Palace~~ Hotel, scene of the conference Tuesday and Wednesday.

Prime Minister Pearson checked in there Sunday after a wearying 13-hour flight from Ottawa. He left the capital by Air Canada chartered DC-8 jet at 4 p.m. Saturday and arrived here close to 11 a.m. local time after an unscheduled stop at Ghana.

Pearson told newsmen at the airport, "I am here to listen and help. I have nothing to pull out of the hat at the moment." The prime minister reserved his view when asked about the use of force in Rhodesia.

Pearson said he would have to hear what Harold Wilson had to say before he could say if there was any need for Britain to revise her policy.

The prime minister got President Kwame Nkrumah out of bed when the plane, with 14 in the official party and four reporters aboard landed at Accra to wait for fog to clear at Lagos.

Ghana and Tanzania have both broken off diplomatic relations with Britain and are boycotting the conference called by Nigerian Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa.

Nkrumha rushed from his residence in casual clothes after he was notified of Pearson's unexpected visit. The prime minister talked to Nkrumah and Ghana's foreign minister Alex Quaison-Sackey for about an hour at Accra airport.

Pearson declined to say what they talked about but Nkrumah apparently renewed his attacks on Britain for its CASSANO D'ADDA, Italy — A mystery about missing Chirstmas cards was solved here today. Mailman Antonio Carlotti, 56, was accused of dumping the cards in a canal because he got tired of carrying them.

"There was too much work," police quoted him as saying.

"I had been working like a mule during the Christmas period. I did my best to deliver the important letters and parcels in due time. But, gentlemen, let's try to be sensible. Those damned postcards are certainly not very important things. So I threw the lot into the canal. I certainly never thought there would be somebody with the hobby of letter-fishing."

Investigation began last week when residents along Carlotti's delivery route in this north Italian town grew alarmed at the sight of mail floating in a canal.

BONN—The most successful bank robber in West Germany since the war has been unmasked as a policeman.

Police last week went to a bank in Delmenhorst, near Bremen, to pick up a robber overpowered by bank clerks. He was Sergeant Hugo Alffcke of Hamburg.

They were even more amazed in the next few days as Alffcke disclosed he was responsible for 10 bank holdups in small towns around Hamburg and other thefts, including cars and burglaries in jewelry shops.

His escapades brought him a postwar record for robberies and about $62,000 in loot.

LONDON—Angry city-bound businessmen today left their cars—jammed nose-to-tail in a giant pileup—to tangle with crusading housewives and their husbands whom they blamed for the chaos.

Four lanes of rush-hour traffic from different directions were brought to a standstill at suburban Northcolt, near London Airport, when 150 wives stood in the street with placards. They were demanding traffic lights be installed at a pedestrian crossing.

Motorists, late for work, left the mile-long lines of cars. Fighting broke out with sympathetic husbands of the women demonstrators.

Police ended the chaos after an hour. The women went home and the traffic slowly moved on into central London.

. . . BLIZZARDS

Seventy-mile - an-hour winds piled huge drifts on highways in Cape Breton, catching 400 troops and army vehicles en route from Camp Gagetown, N.B., to Newfoundland for a winter training exercise.

At sea, fishing draggers and freighters were hove to in extremely heavy seas. High tides damaged waterfront installations on Newfoundland's south coast.

British Columbia, after a series of blizzards, was having a return to more normal winter precipitation—rain.

Warming chinook winds were to bring some snow and 30-above temperatures to southwestern Alberta today. Most of the rest of the province was to have above-zero temperatures after days of bitter cold.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Rain was general over the south coast today with a disturbance over Vancouver Island. It has given up to three inches of rain to the west coast of Vancouver Island in the last 24 hours. Snow was to spread across the interior this morning as the system moved inland. A ridge of high pressure will move to the coast later today and clearing is expected in coastal areas this evening. As a result, slightly colder temperatures will occur tonight on the lower mainland. However, the clearing will be of short duration since another Pacific storm is expected to reach the coast late Tuesday. It will bring more rain and strong winds to coastal areas.

Six People Injured In Car-Bus Accident

Seven persons were taken to hospital following road mishaps in the Victoria area Saturday.

Most serious accident involved a new car and a bus at Belmont and Highway 1A at Colwood.

All six persons in the auto were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital but bus occupants were uninjured.

They were 30 children being transported to the Belmont Park naval housing development and driver Robert Maltby, 46, of 921 Pandora.

The car, driven by Kenneth Cooper, 26, of 1000 Brock, struck the side of the bus as it turned off the highway onto Belmont Road, police said.

Mr. Cooper has been released from hospital but his wife, Merna, 19, remained and is in fairly good condition with head and neck injuries.

Other passengers in the car are reported in good condition.

They are Mrs. Madelaine Munroe, 37, chest injuries; Colleen Cooper, 7, Denise Cooper, 4, and Tom Edwards, 12, all with head and leg injuries.

Mrs. Munroe and the three children are from Browning, Montana.

Ronald J. Lamontagne, 2632 Douglas was treated for arm injuries and released from hospital after his auto struck a power pole at Marigold and Burnside Saturday night.

The car sheared off the pole and caused power outages in the area for up to two hours.

The collision caused an estimated $1,175 damage, police said.

handling of the affair.

A few hours later the Ghana government releasd a statement criticizing the British government. It charged that if economic sanctions were to be applied against the illegal Smith regime "this can only be done effectively under the charter of the United Nations."

The statement noted that Britain had opposed the Rhodesian situation being dealt with under the charter. It claimed that the sanctions advocated by Britain, which Canada backs along with almost every other country, are inadequate to deal with the situation.

Ghana also charged that the only effect of the British policy would be to "substitute another settler regime in place of the existing one".

Ghana has a loud voice in the Organization of African Unity which has demanded military action.

Pearson later was taken for a siren-screaming car ride through part of Accra. Along many of the streets were signs berating colonialism and stating that African unity is inevitable. Nkrumah, who rules Ghana with an iron fist, didn't go along for the ride.

Pearson landed at Lagos after 45-minute flight from Accra. He was met by the Nigerian foreign minister and later met Prime Minister Balewa.

The conference is the first major test for the secretary-general of the Commonwealth, Canadian Arnold Smith who was appointed last summer to the newly-created post.

Smith and a staff of about 30 came from London to Lagos a few days ago to help organize the conference.

A spokesman for the secretariat said he did not think some of the Africans are as angry about the Rhodesian situation as they were a few weeks ago, but said they will needs lots of convincing as to the appropriateness of Britain's stand.

The conference was put together in a hurry and some of the arrangements show it. Nigeria has clamped on security that makes getting information difficult.

The Federal Palace—a new six-storey hotel on the Lagos waterfront—is supposed to be out of bounds to all reporters until Tuesday when they will be allowed in briefly.

I talked my way into the lobby Sunday night but was on the verge of being thrown out when Prime Minister Pearson came in and saved the day.

Commonwealth leaders and officials are arriving in Lagos by the hour. About 10 leaders are expected, the other countries being otherwise represented. Apart from the two countries boycotting the session, Australia has only an observer attending. Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies contended the Rhodesian affair was between that country and Britain.

There is disappointment expressed here at the Australian attitude, the Africans being particularly touchy about everything.

'Principal Secretary' Appointed

OTTAWA (CP) — John S. Hodgson, 48, has been appointed "principal secretary to the prime minister," Mr. Pearson has announced.

An economist and career civil servant, Mr. Hodgson has been assistant deputy of defence for the last 30 months, concentrating on financial administration. Mr. Pearson said in a statement that the post of principal secretary has not been occupied in recent years but that it existed before in Canada. Mr. Hodgson will co-ordinate all programs and activities of the prime minister's office.

The appointment follows the departure of Tom Kent who as policy secretary to the prime minister had duties similar to those now assumed by Mr. Hodgson.

Mr. Kent, whose salary was $25,000 annually, became deputy minister of immigration Jan. 1 and will become deputy minister of manpower when that department is created by parliament.

TRANSIT STRIKE

Negotiations 'Completely Meaningless'

NEW YORK (AP)—Marathon negotiations to end the city's 10-day-old bus and subway strike recessed just before dawn today, and the chief union bargainer said they had been "completely unproductive (and) meaningless."

Even as the weary negotiators were leaving, the rumble of converging traffic was building in Manhattan's canyons, City officials said the commuting millions, with a week's bitter experience behind them had started earlier on this second work week of the strike.

The recess ended a bargaining session that started Sunday morning.

Thus, the strike continued with these developments:

—Low temperatures piled added misery upon tens of thousands of commuters forced to walk the windswept bridges into Manhattan;

—Traffic experts invoked new emergency rules to speed the flow of nearly 800,000 cars;

—The Transport Workers Union called for a mass picketing demonstration at city hall;

—Shopkeepers in crisis surged on small business loan centres authorized by President Johnson;

—Leaders in Harlem and other poverty areas organized car pools to transport workers unable to pay cab fares.

—A Democratic state leader said Republican Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller can put up $10,000,000 to help pay New York City transit costs.

—The transit authority resumed its court effort to collect $322,000 a day in damages from the union.

The 34,400 members of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union walked out New Year's Day over wage and fringe benefit demands in a new contract which the transit authority estimated would cost $680,000,000 over two years.

The authority offered a package estimated at $29,000,000, which it said was within the 3.2 per cent non-inflationary limit set by President Johnson.

The union came back with scaled-down demands which totalled $216,000,000 — a sum termed still unreasonable by the authority.

No public announcements have been made on any further narrowing of the gap.

President Johnson, in response to an appeal by Rockefeller, last Friday announced that $20,000,000 would be set aside for the small shop proprietor, who could receive individual loans up to $15,000 at 5½ per cent interest for three years. No collateral is required and hundreds thronged bureaus Sunday to make application.

The union seeks a 30 per cent pay hike, and a reduction in the work week to 32 from 40 hours.

Present pay scales range from $2.75 an hour for change booth clerks to $3.50 an hour for signal maintainers. Subway motormen get $3.46 and bus drivers receive $3.22 an hour.

HOME GARDEN

Herb Book Gourmet's Delight

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

Culinary, or cooking, herbs are closely associated with vegetables.

If a gardener cares to grow vegetables to please his gourmet palate it is more than likely that a few herbs will also be grown for experimenting together with the vegetables either in raw salad form or when cooked.

Recipes for using these delicacies, as they may well be described, are sadly lacking in modern periodicals, fortunately some excellent books have been published in recent years on the growing and the use of herbs.

One which I have had loaned me for winter reading has the title The Gourmet's Garden, written by Douglas Bartram.

As an Englishman he uses a few words puzzling to Canadian minds such as a tart, which corresponds roughly to a rather shallow pie although usually a tart has an open or latticed top. A flan, I think, is a puff pastry shell to be filled with a mixture after it is lightly baked.

UNUSUAL RECIPES

The book makes really delightful reading, combining the essentials of growing all the well-known vegetables, herbs, tree fruits and bush fruits with a variety of unusual recipes for each kind.

Being written by a man the book is less likely to be dismissed lightly by men readers, for the world's most renowned chefs have, somewhat unaccountably, been men.

Articles and recipes on such subjects as figs, artichokes, leeks and the lowly potato as well as all the cooking herbs to go with them are enough to make all gardeners eager to plan the spring layout.

Varieties in many cases must be adjusted to suit our different climate, soil and growing conditions, but the general information is so complete that it can readily be revised by the average hobbyist, making good reading for January.

Contractor's Bride Wounded

VANCOUVER (CP)—A contractor was killed and his bride of three months suffered a throat wound in a shooting affray in a south-side home here Sunday night.

Police who surrounded the house following the wounding of Mrs. Peter Van Eynsbergen, about 45, heard a shot and found Peter Van Eynsbergen, 50, dead. A rifle was beside the body.

Police said Mrs. Van Eynsbergen was shot in the throat and hand and ran screaming from the house.

Neighbors said the Van Eynsbergens had just returned from a honeymoon in Mexico. He was operator of Peter Van Construction Ltd.

Car Ferries Freed From Ice

SOREL, Que. (CP)—Two car ferries stuck in heavy ice on the St. Lawrence River since Sunday afternoon with 85 passengers and 28 cars aboard were freed today by two federal government icebreakers.

A spokesman for La Compagnie de la St. Laurent, owners of the ferries, the Napoleon L. and Pierre de Sorel, said the ferries reached shore safely with no ill-effects among the passengers despite their 14-hour ordeal.

Temperatures were freezing during their stay in mid-river. A Quebec Provincial Police spokesman said many aboard were driven by hunger to fill up from shipboard stocks of candy bars, cakes and soft drinks.

The boats ply the river between Sorel and Ile St. Ignace, a distance of about one mile. Sorel is 40 miles northeast of Montreal.

The spokesman for the ferry company said the Napoleon L., with 50 persons and 20 cars aboard, became stuck some 1,500 feet from the shore.

The Pierre de Sorel, with 35 persons and eight cars aboard, was stuck some 150 feet from the shore.

IN NIGERIA

Terror Wave Increasing

LAGOS, Nigeria — The wave of violence, looting and arson that has plagued Nigeria's western region for the past three months appears to be gathering new momentum.

In the last two weeks, the regional government has been forced to adopt increasingly strict security measures to deal with the disorders. Meanwhile, demands are mounting for federal intervention to restore the rule of law in the west. Roving bands of thugs have created reigns of terror in some villages, killing and kidnapping police constables, murdering local chiefs or political leaders, extorting money from homeowners and businessmen.

In the crowded, sprawling satellite towns around Lagos, police reported 110 cases of arson last week. Property owners say they have been ordered to pay "protection" gangs $30 or face the loss of their houses. A special 50-man mobile fire brigade was dispatched to the affected towns this week.

Road Travel Is Risky Business

Travel on some of the main roads outside Lagos has become a risky business. Some motorists are attacked indiscriminately. Others are forced to halt and are relieved of their wallets.

A Peace Corps doctor, an aid official, and Rep. Charles C. Diggs (Democrat—Mich.), who was returning to the airport in an American Embassy car after a brief fact-finding mission in Nigeria, have been the targets of these modern highwaymen. Some embassies and private organizations here are encouraging employees who must travel from Lagos to Ibadan, the regional capital, to make the 90-mile trip by train or plane.

Large contingents of federal police and some army units have been sent to trouble spots to quell the disorders. It is the largest security operation ever mounted in Nigeria. This week the regional government launched "operation curb thuggery," dispatching special teams of police on a series of raids. One swoop led to 200 arrests. Groups of 30 and 50 have been rounded up in other operations.

Opposition Claims Vote Rigged

The violence erupted after a regional election Oct. 11 in which the government was returned to power over opposition protests that the poll was rigged. The government first claimed that the reports of bloodshed and widespread disorder were vastly exaggerated. But recently it has had to acknowledge that a serious security problem exists. It has insisted, however, that troublemakers from other regions are to blame.

There are several reasons for the continuing lawlessness. Resentment over the election results, which touched off the first disturbances, still plays a part. It has been fed by economic discontent. Farmers are angry about the 50 per cent cut in the price of Cocoa, their major money earner. Workers around Lagos, where there is a growing pool of unemployed, resent the growing gap between the new rich and the old poor.

Once violence breaks out in a community it may become self-sustaining. Some see an opportunity to settle long-standing feuds over land rights. Others see an opportunity to loot.

There are no accurate statistics on the number of dead and injured in the west in the past three months. One newspaper, which supports the opposition party, puts the total at more than 500 dead. Another gives a figure of 200, which is probably more accurate.

Garcia-Godoy Gets Support From Church

SANTO DOMINGO (Reuters) The beleaguered provisional government of President Hector Garcia-Godoy, threatened by the Dominican Republic's own armed forces, today found an ally in the Roman Catholic church.

Bishop Hugo Eduardo Brito of Santiago, in the name of the Catholic church here, issued a statement Sunday night calling for support of the provisional government which is scheduled to carry the country to free elections in June.

The statement was believed to have come as a blow to the rebellious armed forces chiefs who have rejected a presidential order to leave the country.

Though the armed forces clash with the provisional government appeared no nearer solution today, Garcia-Godoy, with no military power to back his government seemed to be winning a psychological war against the military chiefs.

The church's statement, coupled with the return of Radio Santo Domingo to government hands after it was occupied by the army, represent tactical advantages for the president.

U.K. Pilots Protest New Rules

LONDON (Reuters) — British airline pilots Sunday night warned of the possibility of giant transatlantic jetliners colliding in the air because of new regulations allowing more aircraft to cram the busy North Atlantic routes.

The 3,000-strong British Airline Pilots' Association protested at the internationally agreed decision to reduce the permitted distance between aircraft flying parallel course on transatlantic routes from 120 miles to 90 miles.

The new regulations, drawn up by the International Civil Aviation Organization to ease congestion over the Atlantic, are due to come into operation Thursday.

The International Federation of Airline Pilots' Associations has protested to the ICAO over the regulations, agreed in Vienna in October.

The pilots have not objected to another regulation cutting down the time separation of aircraft on North Atlantic flights from 20 minutes to 15 minutes.

But they have expressed fears about a proposal to cut down the minimum altitude separation between aircraft flying above 29,000 feet to 1,000 feet from 2,000 feet.

At peak hours it is estimated that more than 100 aircraft are crowded into the 500-mile-wide trans-ocean flight path.

DEMOCRAT CLAIMS:

N. Viet Nam Not Entitled To Holiday From Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the House of Representatives armed services committee said today "an early decision must be reached" on ending the pause in U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam targets. Two key Republican congressmen agreed.

"I don't see any reason to continue to keep giving them this respite," said Rivers, a South Carolina Democrat, in an interview as the 89th Congress reconvened here. "They're not entitled to this holiday."

U.S. planes have not bombed North Viet Nam since before a 30-hour Christmas truce as part of President Johnson's efforts to convince Hanoi of U.S. sincerity in seeking a negotiated settlement of the Vietnamese war.

Although he emphasized he supported the president's peace efforts, Rivers said "the American people want to win this thing or get out."

TWO DISSENT

Two Democratic senators disagreed.

Alaska's Ernest Gruening, a leading critic of the Johnson administration's policies in Viet Nam, said, "I think the pause should continue.

"I don't think there were any results from the bombing. This has been at least as successful if not more so. We're killing fewer people. That's an improvement."

Frank Church of Idaho, a foreign relations committee member, agreed with Gruening. "We have to wait and see what will happen," he said.

PM SHUFFLES SECRETARIES; DAVIS SWITCHED TO MINES

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — A major shuffle of parliamentary secretaries was announced Sunday by Prime Minister Pearson.

Eight new faces including a woman were brought in, four parliamentary secretaries in the last Parliament were dropped and eight others switched ministers.

In a statement issued after his departure for Nigeria, Mr. Pearson also announced that Parliament will be asked to authorize appointment of six more secretaries, bringing the total to 22.

The list includes one freshman MP, Pierre-Elliott Trudeau, 45, a law professor elected in Montreal Mount Royal Nov. 8. He and John Matheson, 48, MP for Leeds, become parliamentary secretaries to Mr. Pearson.

Retiring Liberal Whip James E. Walker, 54, MP for York Centre, becomes secretary to Revenue Minister Benson. The new whip will be named shortly.

Mr. Pearson left Saturday for Lagos, Nigeria, and plans to return here Thursday. Parliament convenes Jan. 18.

Parliamentary secretaries help ministers with questions and office work, receiving $4,000 annually on top of their $18,000 as MPs. Some wield influence on policy-making within their departments.

TEST FOR CABINET

Appointments to this unofficial junior ministry traditionally have been used to test cabinet prospects in the hurly-burly of Commons debates and to pacify rival factions—regional or ideological—in the government caucus.

Since Mr. Pearson took office in 1963, six parliamentary secretaries have been promoted to the cabinet.

A surprise appointment went to Margaret Rideout, 42, MP for Westmorland, who will second Health Minister MacEachen.

Albert Bechard, 45, MP for Bonaventure, will aid State Secretary LaMarsh.

Charles R. Granger, 53, MP for Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador, will assist Fisheries Minister Robichaud.

Bruce Beer, 55, MP for Peel and former parliamentary secretary to former agriculture minister Hays defeated Nov. 8, becomes secretary to the new agriculture minister, J. J. Greene.

Jean Chretien, 31, MP for St. Maurice-Lafleche, becomes secretary to Finance Minister Sharp. Only last July Mr. Chretien had been named secretary to the prime minister.

GETS VARIOUS JOBS

Jack Davis, 49, MP for Coast-Capilano who also was prime minister's secretary, becomes secretary to Mines Minister Pepin, chairman of the committee of parliamentary secretaries and co-ordinator of legislative study committees of the government caucus.

James Byrne, 54, MP for Kootenay East, shifts from labor to transport.

Jean-Charles Cantin, 47, MP for Quebec South, shifts from justice to trade.

Stanley Haidasz, 42, MP for Toronto Parkdale, shifts to northern affairs from external affairs.

Donald S. Macdonald, 33, MP for Toronto Rosedale, moves from finance to external affairs.

Bryce Mackasey, 44, MP for Montreal Verdun, moves to labor after serving briefly in the health department.

John Munro, 34, MP for Hamilton East, moves from trade to immigration.

John B. Stewart, 41, MP for Antigonish - Guysborough, moves from state secretary to public works.

Mr. Pearson said six other ministers in his cabinet have portfolios and should have parliamentary secretaries.

Ministers without secretaries now are Defence Minister Hellyer, Associate Defence Minister Cadieux, Veterans Affairs Minister Teillet, Industry Minister Drury, Privy Council President Favreau, Forestry Minister Sauve, Postmaster - General Cote, Solicitor-General Pennell and two ministers without portfolio—John Turner and Senator John Connolly.

Four secretaries, all aged 60 or more, were not re-appointed. Mr. Pearson said they would be "available" as chairmen of parliamentary committees. Chairmen are elected by committee members.

They are Hubert Badanai, 70, MP for Fort William; Alexis Caron, 66, MP for Hull; C. W. Carter, 63, MP for Burin-Burgeo; and G. Roy McWilliam, 60, MP for Northumberland-Miramichi.

By provinces, Ontario has six parliamentary secretaries, Quebec five, British Columbia two, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick one each.

The Liberals elected only one MP on the Prairies, Veterans Affairs Minister Teillet, and none in Prince Edward Island in the last election.

To Find the Point

THE LONG WAIT FOR THE report of the Bilingual and Bicultural Commission — which will probably be out of date even before it is issued—and the post-election lull in national affairs, have served to obscure for a while Canada's continuing problem: the urge of Quebec for a new place in Confederation. But it is a problem which will have to be faced anew in 1966, and it no doubt will overshadow all the other questions of welfare, economics and parliamentary programs which will confront us.

We are entering phase three of the Quebec "problem". First was the period of outcry, of protest and even of violence which marked the resurgence of Quebec's consciousness of a distinct individuality and destiny in this half-continent. Then after a shocked silence throughout the rest of the country came the second phase: a time of recognition of the French viewpoint, of efforts — sincere even if misdirected — to meet what was understood of the Quebec demands and to assure everyone — the assurers included — that there was no thought of discrimination or domination or exploitation or anything else.

This has been followed by a lull, with many non-French-speaking Canadians feeling virtuously that they have done what was required, pacified the complainers, and wrapped the whole problem up nicely.

Nothing, if we are to believe the statements of Quebec leaders, could be farther from the truth. For phase three, which is now beginning, will find Quebec attempting to move on from the mere recognition which it has won to the concrete achievement of a special status within Confederation.

The term "special status" is one which no one can define with exactitude at this point. But it almost certainly will include complete control by the Quebec provincial government of all welfare and social security expenditures, complete control of all development of resources, a substantial measure of initiative in dealing with foreign countries, and a widespread infusion of French language, culture and interests in federal administration and the federal courts.

Mr. Lesage speaks of his provincial government as being "the instrument for the affirmation of the French community", and he warns that "it is useless to think that one will succeed in containing modern Quebec within an administrative, political or constitutional framework where it feels itself braked in its efforts to affirm itself and expand . . ."

Following on the last two years of Canadian domestic events, these words cannot be taken as mere rhetoric. They must constitute a considered statement of the aims of French Canada. The problem of phase three will be to see how far they can be realized with non-French acquiescence; how far they can be carried without crossing the as yet indefinable line beyond which this country will cease to exist as a nation sea-to-sea and become a nine-province state with an unassimilable and almost fully autonomous French enclave.

In other words: how fully can Quebec become independent without becoming an attachment to Canada instead of remaining an integral part of the nation?

That will be no mean question to answer. It may never receive a final answer—and this might not be an unwelcome situation.

Premier Robarts of Ontario has outlined some of his thoughts on the problem. His feelings may well be those of many non-French Canadians across the country. He recognizes that one province may have different goals and objectives from another, and he sees that the future of Confederation depends on an amicable reconciliation of these differences.

But while acknowledging that the provinces require adequate revenues and revenue sources to carry out their proper functions, he says these desires must be "tempered by the knowledge that the federal government must maintain control over the national economy for national purposes and to maintain national standards . . . In my opinion the combination of a bicultural country and national economy diluted into regional economies would effectively destroy any chance of maintaining a united Canada."

In other words: provincial rights to a point, but not to the point of damaging the national entity. Determination of that point will be a pressing task for this year—perhaps for this generation.

Junior Partnership

EXAMINING THE PERSISTENT gap between Canadian and American living standards in its second annual report, the Economic Council of Canada has ploughed up a field of subjects for economic and sociological study and speculation.

The council's estimate that the average real income here is at least 25 per cent below that in the United States is likely to startle quite a few people. Most would not have thought the gap so great. But aside from this, the puzzle is why there has been no narrowing of the gap in the past 20 years of Canadian industrial development.

Logically the United States and Canada should have drawn closer in living standards since the Second World War. There has been a higher level of investment in this country, greater growth of capital per worker and a higher percentage population gain. Additionally, the Canadian domestic market has grown at a more rapid rate.

None of these factors, however, has been reflected in per capita income improvement relative to the United States, says the economic council report. There are several important reasons. One of these is the lower proportion of people of working-force age in Canada, which means that a smaller number of producers share their income with the whole population. Fewer Canadian women than American women are in the working force—32 per cent compared with 43 per cent.

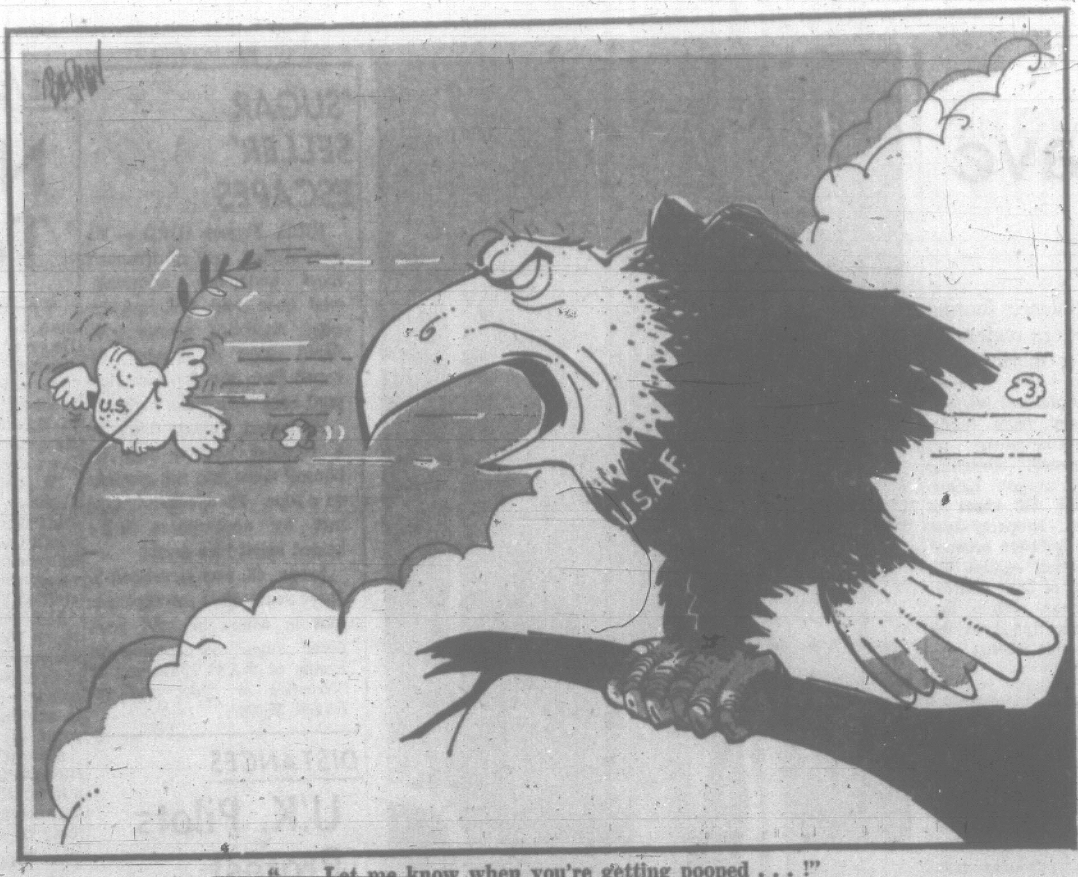
Probably most important — and this again reflects the report's urgent plea for more intensive education of all kinds—the Canadian labor force as a whole is of lower quality in terms of educational attainment than the American.

This lower quality extends, the council says, right from the bottom levels of the working force to the top levels of management. When it comes to working in or running business and industry, Americans are simply better than Canadians because they have been better trained and educated to do their jobs.

The council's conclusion on this point is certain to be challenged—if on no other grounds than nationalistic pride. But it is hard to refute its figures on this as well as the fact that despite a higher investment of capital per worker in Canada than in the United States, productivity in this country is lower.

Labor and management often argue over where the fault for this lies but the council is inclined to apportion the blame. "There is evidence to suggest," the report says, "that the educational attainment of the . . . management group is very significently lower in Canada than in the United States." As for labor, quite apart from the low average level of education, it appears that "workers are not adapting adequately to opportunity for more productive employment."

Significantly, the council found that there was no strong or clear-cut evidence that there are general and significant differences between Canada and the United States in attitudes to work, risk-taking, innovation, expansion and pursuit of efficiency. And if the council can succeed in knocking out that time-worn excuse for the lower level of Canadian productivity — which can be labelled generally as incentive—it will be hard to escape the conclusion that education in all its forms and at all levels is the answer to the standard-of-living gap.



". . . Let me know when you're getting pooped . . . !"

Quebec: A Year of Strain in Prospect?

THE curtain is going up on another jurisdictional struggle between Quebec and the federal government. In his searching speech in Toronto recently, Mr. Mitchell Sharp dealt at length and sympathetically with Queebc's general stand on federal-provincial issues. He noted particularly the concern expressed by Mr. Lesage about the implications of shared programs and the manner in which the federal medicare proposals skirted this difficult problem. He said, in summing up:

Western

"In so far as it lies within my power, we will approach the task of improving our arrangements and relations with the provinces with a full recognition of the responsibilities of the provincial governments and of the role which they can and should play under our constitution and traditions. At the same time I proceed from the assumption that the Government of Canada must be in a position to lead and to play a unifying role in our federation, as well as to discharge the responsibilities placed upon the federal authority by our constitution."

On the following day Mr. Rene Levesque, the Quebec social welfare minister, made public his government's submission to the recent "War on Poverty" conference. The general contention is that the federal government should remove itself from the welfare field, permitting Quebec to develop its own fully integrated welfare and economic program.

Opting Out

Specifically, Quebec proposes to "opt out" of the universal old age pension and family allowance schemes. Mr. Levesque evidently has his eye also on unemployment insurance. He is highly critical of a variety of federal programs (winter work, designated areas, labor mobility assistance) and insists that Quebec must have her own manpower policy co-ordinated with provincial economic planning.

This is a very ambitious program. The two items of pensions and family allowances would involve a transfer of approximately $525,000,000 from federal to provincial control.

It is a program which invites a number of comments. The first is that Mr. Levesque can make a respectable case against a number of federal policies as they are presently designed. It is certainly arguable that the vast amounts now spent on family allowances would accomplish more if payments were graduated to take account of need. But it does not follow that this is a case for provincial intervention; it is more obviously a case for better federal policies.

The second point is that old age pensions, family allowances and unemployment insurance are not shared programs.

Thirdly, old age pensions and unemployment insurance are clearly, in Mr. Sharp's words, "responsibilities placed upon the federal authority by our constitution." They were not in 1867 specifically entrusted to the national government because they were not at that time considered normal and proper responsibilities of any government. But they have been firmly embedded in the constitution as federal responsibilities by subsequent amendments (unemployment insurance in 1940, old age pensions in 1951—with survivors and disability benefits added in 1964).

In the case of unemployment insurance, the federal government obtained the consent of the Quebec government; in the other two cases, there was also formal concurrence by the Quebec legislature.

Basic Confederation

Innocent as they undoubtedly were of the modern economic arts, the Fathers of Confederation clearly intended to create in this country a free trade area with unfettered movement of goods and persons. They accorded the federal government wide economic powers through the regulation of trade and commerce, the control of credit, unlimited taxing powers and so on. As noted above, the federal government for the last quarter of a century has also been responsible for unemployment insurance. It seems reasonable that it should be in a position to keep this burden manageable and at the same time to encourage commerce and to protect the public credit by the development of intelligent manpower policies.

This is not to suggest that the present manpower mobilit policies are sound; the Economic Council found them deficient in various respects and recommended improvements. But there is certainly nothing in the council's report which could be cited in justification of go-it-alone provincial labor mobility policies.

Language Problem

Mr. Levesque justifies provincial control by pointing to the problem of language, which allegedly restricts most workers to Quebec and by specific criticisms of the federal aids which tend, in his view, to drain workers away from potential growth poles. But language has not prevented the movement of perhaps half a million French-speaking workers into eastern and northern Ontario. It is not surprising that there are shortcomings in the mobility program; after all it is not yet a year old. But again this is a case for amendment of federal policies unless the thought is that mobility should be restricted by provincial boundaries.

Only a few weeks ago the argument was heard that Quebec is entitled nowadays to one of the economic ministries at Ottawa. Mr. Levesque presumably did not share this opinion. For the new manpower department is to be entrusted to Mr. Jean Marchand, a distinguished newcomer prominently identified with Quebec's new wave. It seems rather hard that Mr. Levesque at the first opportunity should propose to deprive Mr. Marchand of his new, and very important, responsibilities.

There is, of course, a rather general expectation that 1966 will witness a provincial general election in Quebec. Mr. Levesque may have other than economic reasons at this time for posting his "Ottawa Go Home" signs. The number of them is impressive and the scope of controversy great enough to guarantee a year of strain in federal-provincial relations.

Saanich Taxes

Saanich property owners recently received their 1966 tax assessments with land values increased all the way from 25 per cent to over 60 per cent. Assessed values are calculated to be 50 per cent of estimated market value of the property.

This is an insidious device to bring in more taxes without unduly raising the mill rate, and its significance does not become apparent to many people until their tax bills arrive in June. In computing your tax, 80 per cent of assessed values are multiplied by the mill rate. In addition to these increased assessments we now learn an extra two mills will likely be levied over last year's rates. A little simple arithmetic will provide the news, loud and clear.

For retired people on fixed incomes this mounting burden of taxes presents a serious problem. They simply cannot afford to keep up with it. Similarly municipal councils must recognize there are facilities, however nice to have, that residents of Saanich cannot afford to buy.—Perturbed Home Owner.

Strictly for the Birds

We are continually being told what a wonderful and prosperous province we live in under our present government. Perhaps this is so. Unfortunately our feathered friends are not finding this to be true during this spell of unseasonable weather. They have been having a rough time trying to find enough to eat to keep them warm. Luckily there are some of us who feel we have an obligation to try to help by putting out grain and pellets of fat and other edibles

Is it really necessary for our government to demand its five per cent "pound of flesh" when we are willingly trying to help our feathered wild life? The amount of the tax is small and hardly worth mentioning excepting that there is a principle involved here.

I do not think it is right that any kind of food purchased to help sustain life in our feathered friends should be taxable and I am sure there are many who will agree with me. Perhaps the government might be persuaded to agree also.—John R. Turner.

Continuity of Employment

One point being overlooked in the B.C. Ferry Authority-employees controversy is the concern of the Authority for maintaining continuity of employment.

Their good efforts in this direction are rebounding in the BCFA being classed as a selfish industrial monster.

There is no doubt that the seasonal fluctuation in service presents an operational problem. However, it is to mutual advantage to retain the same employees. The problem is resolved by working the employees longer hours when the need is greater and granting holidays during slack periods. I believe this is the practice followed by most of the maritime industry at present.—R. Rodger, 124 Maddock.

"Peace or War?"

Isn't it strange that so many politicians are rushing here and there to stop the war in Viet Nam, while almost as many are rushing here and there to start one in Rhodesia? Crazy world, isn't it?—E. W. Abraham, 1125 Faithful.

Tawdry Doggerel

I am appalled at the cheap, tawdry bit of unsingable doggerel that is being shoved down our throats for a Centennial song.

Are we so bereft of musical talent in this province that we must accept this juvenile drivel?—Disgusted.

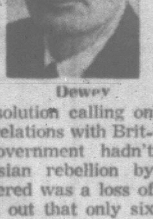
Commonwealth: Priced Out of the Market?

IF the nine Commonwealth governments in Africa made any New Year's resolutions, they couldn't have done better than start with the vow that never, never again will they allow themselves to go off half-cocked as they did early last month at the Addis Ababa conference of the Organization for African Unity. It was bad enough for the organization's non-Commonwealth participants to approve a resolution calling on all members to break relations with Britain if the Wilson government hadn't "crushed" the Rhodesian rebellion by Dec. 15. All they suffered was a loss of dignity when it turned out that only six members were ready to carry out the resolution by the time the deadline rolled around.



Dewey

But for the nine Commonwealth members of the OAU, the decision to approve the resolution was a dismal blunder that could have graver consequences than ever for themselves and for the Commonwealth as a whole. Perhaps there have already been too many false alarms for anyone to say with confidence that this or that action will be the death of the Commonwealth, but it is not too much to say that the action of the nine African governments is a better candidate than most for that dubious honor.

At the very least, it has ensured that relationships within the Commonwealth can never be quite the same again. After years of threatening to break relations with Britain or to leave the Commonwealth the two deserve to be regarded as virtually the same thing.

The Africans finally brought themselves to setting a date—only to find that no one really cared. Their diplomatic super-weapon has turned out to be a pop gun. Certainly the British government gave no sign of being greatly perturbed even when it appeared that all nine African governments were resolved to break relations.

Wilsonian Yawn

Asked in a television interview whether he thought that the break-up of the Commonwealth was imminent, Prime Minister Wilson seemed almost to be stifling a yawn as he answered that he hoped the Africans wouldn't be too rash.

Speaking to the United Nations, Mr. Wilson made it clear that African anger at Britain, understandable though it may be, would not be allowed to deflect his government from its chosen course. This hardly conciliatory attitude appeared to harden, if anything, after two of the nine Commonwealth governments, Ghana and Tanzania, actually carried out the Addis Ababa resolution. Asked in another television interview whether he would attend the proposed Commonwealth conference in Lagos, he said he "might look in" so long as everyone was prepared to adopt a constructive approach to the Rhodesian problem.

Hardly Conciliatory

This didn't sound much like a prime minister desperately eager to mend his African fences or even to bother trying to coax back the two strays.

So much for the attempt to twist Mr. Wilson's arm. However, something else that the African leaders couldn't have bargained on was the reaction of the British public and press to the Dec. 15 deadline, which was not far from the reaction of a long-suffering husband to the news that a shrewish wife was going home to mother.

Tom Stacey, a veteran Commonwealth commentator who describes himself as an ardent and long-standing proponent of the Commonwealth idea, saw fit to reveal his personal disenchantment in an article in London's Evening Standard under the heading: "We know what's in it for them, but what's in it for us?"

Sadly concluding that the Commonwealth connection has become an encumbrance for Britain, he wrote: "What can lead to catastrophe is if, for fear of facing the facts we all privately admit to be true, we allow the Commonwealth seriously to interfere with our freedom to act as we think right, or else allow it—to our ignominy—to break up on its own. For heaven's sake, let us now give the subject the airing it deserves."

Quick to take up the suggestion was Nigel Lawson in his last contribution as a Financial Times columnist before replacing Iain MacLeod as editor of The Spectator: "Perhaps the clearest lesson of 1965," he wrote, "has been the illusion of our notion of the Commonwealth. The Commonwealth peace mission to Viet Nam, of course, was the great non-event of the year. But in its way even more telling has been the action of two Commonwealth countries in breaking off relations with Britain because we are not prepared to act in an irresponsible manner over Rhodesia.

"It is evident that the Commonwealth has ceased to have any meaning except in terms of a special relationship between Britain and some of its members, a special relationship that would continue to exist whether there were a Commonwealth or not. We shall not regain our freedom of action until we resolve to be in no way inhibited in any action we may contemplate by the fear that the 'Commonwealth may break up.'"

Disenchantment

Unfortunately for those who believe that something worthwhile might still come from the Commonwealth experiment, these are not voices in the wilderness. Indeed, a general and growing sense of disenchantment seems to be settling over this country.

Painfully aware that Britain's attachments were a hindrance to the pursuit of self-interest during the Brussels negotiations for entry into the European Common Market, disturbed by the spectacle of British governments having to walk a tightrope at successive prime ministers' conferences, annoyed by the Afro-Asian grumblings that have served as a backdrop for Britain's attempts to deal with the Rhodesian challenge, and constantly mindful that the Commonwealth costs the country a great deal of money, the British people seem to be concluding that this strange and unwieldy association isn't worth the trouble.

What seems to have happened, in short, is that Britain's African partners have finally placed a political price tag on the Commonwealth and the British have demonstrated that they just aren't willing to pay.

Looking Back

From The Times of Jan. 10, 1906:

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Devall, 44 North Park St., passed away this morning under peculiar circumstances. The baby had not been ill. A cursory examination plus the fact that the baby had just been dosed with a patent medicine has led Coroner Hart to arrange for an inquest.

The fatality resembles in all respects the death of another child recently as a result of the accidental poisoning from an overdose of Chamberlain's Colic and Cholera remedy.

The Ice-Cold Satire Of George Axelrod

By LEE LANGLEY
Manchester Guardian

George Axelrod is tall, amiably fleshed, and an easy smiler. He also looks boyish, impressionable, and innocuous.

He is none of these. Mr. Axelrod is a destroyer; a smiler with a knife: a tireless Pygmalion who unveils each new goddess with the leery grin of a man who knows he has created a monster.

Masquerading as a comedy writer, he is an ice-cold satirist who has blown a number of chill draughts through the chinks in the American social armour. He is fighting the image of the American male as a simple-minded, wife-ridden boob perpetrated by comic strips, television shows, radio serials, Hollywood movies — "just about every medium except skywriting."

Making Love

It was Axelrod who pointed out that the only time the male wears the trousers in American sex-comedies is while making love . . .

In the context of American humor he hovers midway between Thurber and a "Playboy" foldout — "there aren't pinups any more, only foldouts, and the girls don't have navels, they have staples in their stomachs."

He shares the apprehensive Thurber flinch from the female of the species, but insists that he writes about all his women with great affection. "You don't trouble to attack things you don't care about. I don't really destroy- . . . anyway, the destruction is so gentle you hardly feel it."

George Axelrod is the man who wrote "The Seven-Year Itch," that sad, hilarious fable which pinpointed the situation of the middle-aged married man abandoned by his family to the long, hot, city summer and the advances of any unattached blonde loose in the vicinity.

Women Booed

Most recently, in "How to Murder Your Wife," Axelrod built up a sourly convincing picture of conjugal bile that shook audiences looking for no more than a domestic laugh. At its early showings in the States men broke into spontaneous applause, women into equally spontaneous boos.

"It's hard to explain how the women were allowed to take over in America. The situation sort of snook up on us. First they got the vote, then . . ."

Since Axelrod can clearly write comedy which is not only funny and intelligent but good box office, Hollywood has welcomed him warmly.

He has written, or adapted from his own stage plays, several films, including "Phfft," "Bus Stop," "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" which introduced Jayne Mansfield to a wondering world and which Axelrod disowns as having nothing to do with his play at all. He adapted Truman Capote's "Breakfast at Tiffany's" for the screen, and he also wrote a political melodrama, "The Manchurian Candidate," which was not altogether a comedy and which a number of people, including Axelrod himself, believe paved the way for films like "Dr. Strangelove."

Not Quite Same

"I'm completely uninterested in politics; politicians in general are just power-oriented creatures trying to tell us what to do. It would be nice to have a sane president of the United States, but for a man to want to be president means of a necessity that he's not quite sane."

Axelrod admits that he participates in the social rituals he pillories so accurately in his writing:

" 'The Seven-Year Itch' had a lot of me in it, and my guilt feelings. Sure, I'm riddled with guilt feelings, any American male over 25 is. I act like I'm a nonconformist, but scratch the surface and you'll find it doesn't go very deep. They get you young and condition you: this present generation is the first to have escaped.

Seen Threat

"Actually, the new threat is the teen-age one. The kids run things as even the women never have. Do you realize that in 20 years' time two thirds of the population of the United States will be under 25? I guess we'll have to figure out a way to keep the old ones going to maintain some kind of balance . . ."

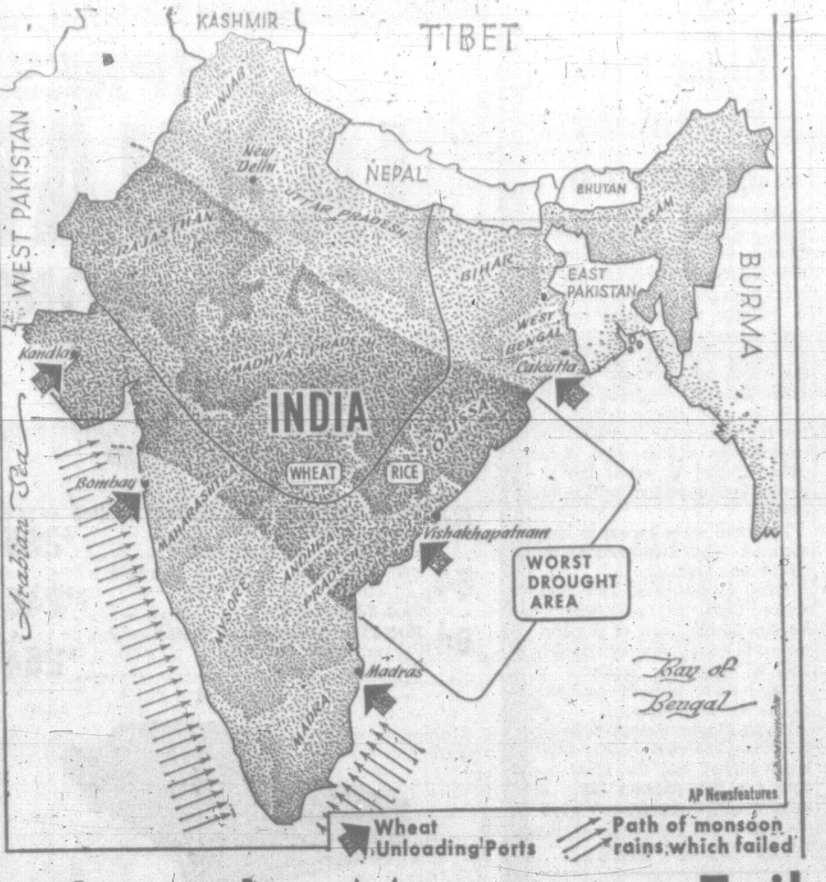
By way of scoring first blood in the battle, Axelrod has just directed his first film, "Lord Love a Duck"—"a cross between Andy Hardy and Dr. Strangelove."

"It's a savage, savage black comedy about teen-age mores in Southern California. I have a theory that America embodies almost everything that's wrong with the Western world, and California embodies almost everything that's wrong with America. That's where we start from.

"We're being very factual. We've got conversation pits, for instance. Do you have conversation pits here? Then there's a drive-in church—'Worship in the privacy of your own automobile'—I saw that sign up once by the highway, and it occurred to me that if you wished to kneel and you had a sports car, you'd have a pretty difficult job . . ."

Passion for Vulgar

One of the stars of the film is a young Hollywood actress called Tuesday Weld. "She plays a High School girl who dreams with an almost lyric passion for everything that is vulgar. Her punishment is that she gets it; she ends up the cause of an hilarious (I hope it's hilarious) mass murder, and goes off to be a movie queen in a film called 'Bikini Widow' . . ."



When the Monsoons Fail Famine Threatens India

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI — Suddenly, Mother India's cupboard was nearly bare and her 480 million already hungry children feared for the future.

Drought, the worst in a century, was blamed, along with the government's failure to improve agriculture while the population increased by 12.5 million people a year.

Critics said Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri's predecessor, the late Jawaharlal Nehru, was an economic stargazer—a man who dreamed of bigger, better steel mills and dams while his people spent malnourished lives looking for their next meal.

Farmers scratched at the tired, hungry soil with the same tools and techniques their forefathers used centuries ago. India had no "fat" for use in bad crop years. And when the rains failed to come in 1965, the hungry trembled.

Last spring, in Rajasthan state, in western India, man and beast hung on, waiting for the rains. But the rains didn't come.

To the uninitiated, this was the first ominous sign of trouble—thousands of Rajasthanis on the move, trekking east, driving their cattle before them in search of food, water and jobs.

By June, it was clear that only the monsoon—that seasonal deluge of life-giving rain—could save crops in vast sections. But the monsoon didn't come.

The summer monsoon, which normally brings 75 per cent of India's rainfall, was a disastrous failure. A great drought belt extended from Rajasthan state southeast across the Indian midlands to Andhra Pradesh and Orissa states on the shores of the Bay of Bengal. In the northeast, the rains failed in West Bengal and Bihar states.

Worried officials tallied crop reports from around the nation. No matter how they were added, the figures came nowhere near the record production figure of 88 million tons for all foodgrains in the 1964 season.

In fact, Food Minister Chidambaram Subramaniam predicted India's own crop might be as much as 14 million tons short of its own need.

Plain Answer

Where to get the rest? The food minister told Parliament in November the answer is "a plain and simple one."

"America," he said, "is the only country which can supply the quantity we need—no other country can."

There were immediate howls from leftists and nationalists of all political hues.

After all, they said, India already had accepted $3 billion worth of American food, along with $6.1 billion in economic aid. American wheat was at that very moment pouring into Indian ports at the rate of 20,000 tons per day.

When, they asked, is India going to stand on its own feet?

Subramaniam was adamant. Don't play politics with people's lives, he said. Accept American wheat regardless.

Wheat actually is the primary food for northern Indians. They eat it in a form of pancake called chappatti. This is all many ever eat.

Rich In South

In the south, rice is the most important food. People in both sections of the nation eat various millets and pulses (dried beans and peas.)

One great problem faced in increasing wheat shipments is unloading and distributing the grain.

India's stevedores depend primarily on straining human backs for the work turned over to machines in most countries.

In May, 1965, 840,000 tons of American wheat were unloaded in all of India's ports. It was an all-out, emergency effort.

But, now, as much as one million tons of wheat could arrive in the ports in a given month. Can it be unloaded? Can it be distributed over an already over-loaded railway net? No one knows.

American experts feel that if U.S. wheat arrives in unprecedented quantities and if no strikes or breakdowns hamper unloading, and if rationing in the cities works—if everything works, all but "localized famine" in small, backward rural pockets, can be averted.

As for India's long-range prospects, the experts say it will take massive doses of irrigation, improved farm techniques, fertilizer, land reform and hard work to make India self-sufficient.

A Midnight Stroll Through New Delhi

By CYRIL DUNN

NEW DELHI—If a poor Indian is homeless, is it sometimes his own fault?

This startling question may not crop up very often abroad, where most people assume that the hungry and shelterless multitudes in India's cities rightly command the world's sympathy. But it has just been raised here in India by none other than Home Minister Gulzarilal Nanda, thought one may doubt if he meant to do so.

With a muffler around his neck, and his shoulders hunched against the cold, Mr. Nanda has taken a midnight walk through the poorest streets of this city to talk to the people who habitually sleep on the pavements. Their plight excites a modified public interest here each winter, when for a short while India is a cold country and some of the homeless die of its rigors.

For using his feet in this way Mr. Nanda is entitled to far more credit than he could claim for it in other lands. Indian political leaders do not as a rule mix with the common people, and for doing so Mr. Nanda has previously invited only derision. But this time he seems to have set out with certain assumptions, which have led Indians to question his kind intent.

'Psychology'

Mr. Nanda let it be known in advance that he was interested in "the psychology" of those whose only home is the sidewalk. As he walked about he woke up sleepers bedded on the concrete and asked them leading questions. As a result he soon confirmed what he seemed to suspect—that many of them prefer these austere quarters to the night shelters allegedly provided for them by the municipality. They protested that the shelters were bug-infested, overcrowded, unhealthy and hedged about by rules ill-suited to the way of life acute poverty dictates.

Legal Ban

These answers did not seem to satisfy Mr. Nanda. At all events he told the reporters who were following him that he would impose a legal ban on side-walk sleeping, and so force the homeless to go indoors each night.

Had he gone through with this, it wouldn't have been the first time in world history that the homeless have found themselves treated as miscreants. For centuries in England they were hounded by a series of Poor Laws. And when a change in human attitudes demanded it, both in Britain and in the United States, Christian dogma was invoked to justify wealth as the reward of virtue and to condemn poverty as the natural result of improvidence.

Shiftless Gaiety

However, it turned out there were legal impediments to Mr. Nanda's idea for a ban on sidewalk-sleeping. On reflection, he may be glad that this is so. For though each year many homeless die of cold, it would be wrong to suppose that most of those who survive are discontented with their lot. Indeed, in their society you often find the sort of shiftless gaiety, the sense of total and irresponsible freedom, which were also enjoyed for example by Francois Villon and his wild friends in medieval Paris. It might well be fatal to disturb this equanimity before India can afford to spend more on housing the poor than she spends now on building fine Government office blocks and flats for Members of Parliament.

It might, on the whole, be prudent to let sleeping sidewalk dwellers lie.

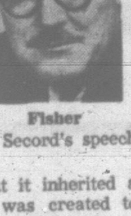
Canadian Labor's Frailty Begins in the Centre

By DOUGLAS FISHER
Former NDP MP for Port Arthur



Fisher

Donald Secord is a unique specimen among Canadian labor executives. He is the only elected leader in the last decade to speak out on the central problem of Canadian labor, that is "the structural and psychological fragmentation imposed by international unionism."

The statement referred to is an address delivered in November, 1960, to the London Labor Council by Mr. Secord, who is national secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers. Representative quotations from Mr. Secord's speech are reproduced below:

"Canada is unique in that it inherited a trade union structure which was created to meet problems in another country with an economy markedly different and immensely larger and more diversified than our own . . .

"Basically, the Canadian trade union movement consists of a weak centre—the Canadian Labor Congress—which is a sort of United Nations in which are associated some 300 unions, ranging in size from the powerful 90,000-member United Steelworkers, down to unions of 200 or 300 members. All but a few of these unions are international—that is they have their head office in the United States, and a constitution drawn up at conventions where an overwhelming majority of the delegates are American . . .

"A few international unions are doing an excellent job. Their Canadian sections are moving towards a kind of 'dominion status' on the path to autonomy. They are producing Canadian publications and allowing Canadian members to express themselves in Canadian conferences . . . On the other extreme there are unions like the Operating Engineers where, in the 1960 convention, Canadian members who tried to have a Canadian vice-president elected from the convention floor were crushed by an iron heel.

"The hierarchy of that union chose as its spokesman on the motion, a man described in evidence before the McClellan Committee as a New York gangster.

"I believe it is unfortunate that a country the size of Canada has inherited a union structure evolved in a much more populous country . . . It seems obvious to me that unions below a certain size do not have the resources to function with maximum efficiency . . .

"I suggest to you that instead of 300 unions, we should have approximately 25, and that within these 25 separate industry and trade bargaining groups should exist. I further suggest that Canada requires a much stronger central labor body than the AFL-CIO or the CLC. Ultimately, the CLC should have sufficient prestige to co-ordinate the collective bargaining policies of affiliates . . .

"I do believe that we should have fewer unions and larger ones and, if international unionism is the reason we can't have them, then to this extent I am opposed to international unionism . . .

* * *

"The only way to improve the image of the labor movement is to improve the labor movement and the only way to improve the labor movement is to locate and identify its frailties, its iniquities and its perversities and to do so with objectivity and with candor.

"I stand by the necessity of a continuing examination and debate, in the full view of the millions of Canadian workers, of the principles and the objectives, of the methods, of the accomplishments, and of the weaknesses of the trade unions of this country. And I have not the slightest doubt that as we set about this task, we will rally to our support a greater measure of public understanding than the labor movement of this country has yet experienced."

The "examination and debate," alas, did not take place. Frank Hall gave the word that all this was heresy, anti-union and anti-American. On the other hand, Mr. Secord was not the head of his union, and therefore not in the best position to force an exchange with defenders of the status quo. Also, national and international unions were soon fated to unite their efforts to deal with the ugly problem of Hal Banks and the Seafarers' International Union.

It is worth noting that from the earliest stages of the struggle against the SIU through to the Norris Industrial Inquiry the main leadership of the forces of decency in the labor movement came from Elroy Robson, now retired, but at the time vice-president of CBRT, and supported throughout by Mr. Secord.

China-Japan Draw Closer Through Growing Trade

By STANLEY KARNOW
The Washington Post

HONG KONG—Japan is expected to become Red China's principal commercial partner this year—a marriage between Asia's chief capitalists and paramount Communists that promises significant political consequences for the future.

Over the past four years, Sino-Japanese trade has soared more than five-fold to an estimated 1965 total of $470 million. Analysts here conservatively predict that it will jump at least another 15 per cent in 1966, with Japan replacing the Soviet Union as China's primary trading associate.

This boom has largely evolved from political and economic factors that, among other things, again testify to Peking's skill at mixing dogmatism with pragmatism.

Its ideological dispute with Moscow, which caused the Chinese a good deal of economic grief, has caused Peking to reduce its dependence upon the Soviet Union. Thus Sino-Soviet trade has dropped from $740 million in 1962 to less than $500 million last year.

Courted Business

At the same time, Peking has courted Japanese businessmen while vilifying Japan's foreign policy. In Hong Kong last Tuesday, for example, a Japanese trade mission just down from China disclosed that it had signed a contract to sell the Chinese $8.6 million worth of steel. The next day, responding to a Japanese journalist, Chinese Communist Foreign Minister Chen Yi called Premier Eisaku Sato's government a "cat's paw of U.S. imperialism."

Though trade with China amounts to barely 3 per cent of Japan's total foreign trade, it is crucial to certain Japanese industries.

Last year China bought about 30 per cent of Japan's chemical fertilizer production. China is also an important market for Japanese steel, machinery and synthetic fibres. Perhaps more important, Japanese businessmen are impressed by China's potentialities—an Eldorado of 700 million customers.

Bulwarked

These businessmen are bulwarked, moreover, by influential figures within Japan's ruling Liberal Democratic Party such as the octegenarian Kenzo Matusmura. He believes that China's revolutionary rigidity can be softened by trade and prosperity.

Actually the Chinese profit more significantly than the Japanese from their trade. Their commerce with Japan represents some 15 per cent of China's total foreign trade. In addition, the Japanese buy rice, soya bean, minerals, hog bristles, low grade iron ore and other products that the Chinese might not sell as easily elsewhere.

These advantages are a reason why, despite occasional lapses, the Chinese have subordinated politics to business in their dealings with Japan. They have learned that politics does not pay.

In late 1960, the Chinese selected 50 "friendly" Japanese companies considered politically sympathetic, vowing to trade only with them. Of course, several of these firms were dummies for Mitsubishi, Mitsui and other big Japanese corporations.

By November, 1962, the late Tatsunosuke Takasaki, a prominent Liberal Democrat, was able to negotiate a private trade agreement with Liao Cheng Chih, president of the China-Japan Friendship Association. This accord called for $1 billion trade between 1963 and 1967.

In accepting the Liao-Takasaki agreement, moreover, Peking dropped demands that Japan support Red China's admission to the United Nations and break its relations with Taiwan. In short, Peking separated business from politics.

But this separation of Mammon from Mao Tse-tung has not entirely held up. It broke down, at least temporarily, from an incident whose origins reach back to 1962.

In that year a Japanese company sold a $20 million synthetic textile factory to China, financing the deal with a low-interest, long-term loan from Japan's Import-Export Bank. This deal aroused the indignation of the Chinese Nationalists who then had other grievances against Japan.

Japanese leaders have a certain respect for Nationalist China's President Chiang Kai-shek, who was himself educated in Japan. Chiang has waived Second World War reparations from Japan. He has also encouraged Japanese investment on Taiwan, a former Japanese colony. Furthermore, Japan's annual trade with Taiwan of over $250 million is substantial.

In response to the Nationalist's outcry, therefore, former Japanese Premier Shigeru Yoshida privately promised Chiang that the Import-Export Bank would henceforth refuse credit for sales of plants to Red China. The present premier has not repudiated Yoshida's promise.

Refused Loan

Thus early last year, when the bank declined to finance the sale of another synthetic textile plant as well as a freighter to China, Peking charged that Japanese policy was being dictated by Chiang Kai-shek. Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai further demanded that Yoshida's promise be formally repudiated.

But Peking has not committed the same error twice. Despite its political attacks, it has steadily contintinued to trade with Japan. And in the process it has inevitably drawn Japan closer to China.

After setting quotas on Japanese imports, the U.S. cannot effectively plead for restricting Japan's China trade as well.

Western specialists here acknowledge that ultimately the Japanese may not be able to resist pressure to turn their trade patterns into diplomatic relations—a prospect that would vastly alter the Far East political balance.

SIGN OF MODERN POET

By NANCY ROSS

WASHINGTON—"When people come up to me and say, 'I write poetry too'," said Stephen Spender, "it's like saying 'I have a cold too.' The obvious answer is 'If you write poetry, then I don't'."

The English poet and critic, consultant in poetry in English to the Library of Congress for this academic year, addressed the Arts Club of Washington and discussed the role of the modern poet.

"Very few write poetry. One sign of being a poet today is that you have no confidence that you do write poetry at all."

He went on to explain that poets of the Old Testament were inspired by God; Renaissance poets by patrons. Moreover, according to Spender, there is no longer a concept of organic society as existed in Elizabethan times.

Shakespeare depicted the cruelty of children as an unnatural act. In King Lear, the ingratitude of Regan and Goneril "who might have gone to Sarah Lawrence," he said, is reflected in nature itself, a storm on the heath.

"But," said Spender, "modern poets don't live in the kind of society in which inspiration can be taken for granted." The Beatles and Alan Ginsburg might be called inspired writers, he said, "although I don't know whether their inspiration doesn't come more from demonology than theology.

"No modern poet," said Spender, citing T. S. Eliot and Ezra Pound, "has felt certain that he is as great a poet as poets of the past. He may have had moments of elation, but he accepts this as part of meglomania."

DETAILS WORKED OUT

Welfare Plans Now Packaged

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Add to the list of items for the next parliamentary session a packaged approach to shared-cost welfare programs.

Federal and provincial welfare ministers Saturday concluded a two-day conference at which they agreed on some existing and some new welfare programs to be grouped under the name Canada Assistance Plan.

Federal Health Minister MacEachen said he hopes the final touches will be put on the plan in time to get it into Parliament early in the session which starts Jan. 18.

The price tag for the federal government will range between $185,000,000 and $250,000,000 a year, depending on the number of optional programs the provinces want included in the welfare package.

Generally speaking the federal government continues to pay half the cost of provincial payments to the needy unemployed and for the first time assumes half the cost of provincial payments to mothers with dependent children and for medical care to welfare recipients.

WILL PAY HALF

If the provinces individually request it, Ottawa also will pay half the cost of provincial payments to the needy between ages 65 and 69 and of blind and disabled allowances.

Mr. MacEachen told a press conference he expects some provinces will want to continue present blind allowance cost-sharing under which Ottawa pays 75 per cent of the cost.

While cost-sharing on a 50-50 basis now is in effect for such programs as aid to the needy unemployed and to the needy aged 65 to 69, the Canada Assistance Plan will provide a different system of determining need.

Some existing programs have ceilings on additional income for recipients which, if exceeded, scale down the amount of monthly welfare payments. Under the new plan, the ceilings disappear in favor of more flexibility in determining individual needs.

Under the new plan, Ottawa also will make contributions towards strengthening public assistance administration and the cost of extending welfare services.

PLANS FURTHER STUDY

The conference put down for further study the question of increasing family allowances, now paid exclusively by the federal government.

In agreeing on 50-50 cost-sharing on programs under the plan, the conference turned down the request of Ontario Welfare Minister Louis Cecile that the federal share be 75 per cent.

The conference communique said consideration will be given to integrating child welfare and welfare grants programs into the plan and providing special aid for low-income provinces.

The Atlantic provinces had made a pitch for a special cost-sharing arrangement on welfare programs to ensure they can provide adequate levels of assistance to their residents.

He was a member of Christ Church Cathedral and a past president of the B.C. Retired Civil Service Association.

Charges Dismissed Over Identity Lack

Lack of identification of either car or driver resulted in dismissal of two traffic charges against a man in central court last week.

Kanzimierz Potasinski, 220 Linden, was acquitted of failing to remain at an accident scene and careless driving.

The charges arose out of an accident last month when a car similar to that of Potasinski's was seen leaving the scene.

Witnesses only got the last three digits in the licence number of the offending vehicle and they corresponded with the last three of Potasinski's car.

Magistrate William Ostler noted the defendant's car was of "similar color and model" to the one described by witnesses to the mishap.

He said the Crown's case was built around "circumstantial evidence which bristles with suspicion."

But he said the vehicle in question was not positively identified and neither was its

CEDAR HILL SAFE SAYS CURTIS

Golfers Won't Be Stymied

Saanich has no development plans for Cedar Hill golf course, Reeve Hugh Curtis said today.

He said it is doubtful the present council, or another council in the near future, will interfere in a major way with the golf course.

The capital budget plan approved by ratepayers last month provides for purchase of the 100-acre McRae estate which includes the golf course. Purpose is to ensure its continuation as open space.

The reeve hoped the attitude of council will be to retain the golf course although there would be some alteration of holes and fairways when Tattersall Rd. is pushed through.

"One rumor currently at large is that Saanich has plans for exhibition grounds," he said. "This is completely untrue."

PHILLIPS
. . . battles poverty

Money Spent On Pet Food, Not Housing

VANCOUVER (CP) — This may be the year of Canada's greatest prosperity, the year of the affluent society, but a quarter of the country's population exist at the near-poverty level, says R. A. J. Phillips, the man who is spearheading the federal government's war on poverty.

The 43-year-old former Canadian diplomat in Moacow told the Vancouver Institute Saturday that of the 25 out of every 100 Canadians regarded as "poor," most are living "in anything from run-down dwellings to outright hovels." This was partly due to the fact Canada spent so little on public housing.

Some $8,000,000 was spent for public housing in 1964. Yet Canadians spent $297,214,000 on tobacco; $1,079,000,000 on legal liquor, more than $430,000,000 on the horses, both legally and illegally.

On tinned cat and dog food they spent $30,000,000 that year. But on public housing only $8,000,000 when conservative surveys showed Canada's housing deficit at not less than 300,000 units.

"We are building housing units at the rate of 1,100 units a year," he said. "That's why Canadians still live in slums."

Another aspect of poverty was the fact that in Canada, "with one of the highest per capita investments in education in the world, we still have a million people who for practical purposes cannot read or write." They represented "human resources that Canada is wasting." Quite apart from the barrenness of their own lives they are "a drag on Canadian society in both the physical and cultural sense."

Blast In Church

WASHINGTON (AP) — One woman was killed and several persons injured Sunday night when an explosion, believed caused by a gas furnace, blew out the rear of a brick church in a Negro section of the U.S. capital.

IN VERDUN

Blast Kills Prominent Sportsman

MONTREAL (CP)—A prominent sportsman from suburban Verdun was killed and a second man injured today when an explosion caused a concrete wall to collapse at a sports project under construction in Verdun. Rescue workers were digging in the wreckage for other possible victims.

Police said between five and seven men were working on construction of the project, called Chalet II, when the explosion of unknown origin occurred.

Two men were known to have escaped. What happened to the others was unknown.

Killed in the blast was Alexandre Viau, 52, president of Verdun Maple Leafs of the Metropolitan Junior Hockey League. He was reported to have been placing concrete blocks for the project.

Verdun Mayor George O'Reilly said the toll could have been much higher had the blast occurred a few minutes later. A large number of day-shift workers were just arriving at the scene when it occurred.

PIRANHAS DOWN REBELS

CARACAS (AP) — Man-eating piranha fish devoured 21 guerrillas in the Arauca River in southwest Venezuela, the newspaper La Religion reports. The paper, a Roman Catholic Church organ, said the victims were among rebels on a raft who were surprised by a national guard patrol and jumped into the river in a bid to escape.

THAT TIME OF YEAR

Pamper Officers . . . It Pays Dividends

By ELIZABETH FORBES

It's that time again! When clubs and organizations, big and small, arrange annual meetings.

Annual meetings mean elections. That is, if enough willing members can be found to fill the various executive positions.

Forbes

In some instances, elections have to be cancelled for lack of officer material. Then, present executives must go on for another year in order to keep their various clubs and organizations afloat.

* * *

This state of affairs does not necessarily apply to those groups with limited memberships. Strange as it may seem, it is the larger clubs and organizations that more often run into difficulties.

Their memberships do not wish to take a really active interest. They want to remain members and they continue to pay their fees but they have no desire to take office of any sort.

Clubs and organizations have met this situation and overcome it, are those that have a definite system of promotion so that they always have a group from which to choose leaders.

And, they have learned (perhaps through bitter experience) to give all the glory they can to anyone who accepts office.

* * *

In the services, a man or a woman does not jump from being a private to being a general in one bound. So the good president of a club, be it man or woman, should pass through the stages of being a member, a committee member, an executive member and a vice-president, before he or she becomes a president.

This is something the average membership of a club or an organization fails to understand.

Leadership is an art and it requires both inate ability and training. Training involves years of experience in leadership.

Presidents must do for their clubs what orchestra leaders do for orchestras. They must not let the sensitive violins get off pitch, nor the wind instruments blow too hard or the drums roll too loud.

They must keep them all in harmony so that the finished performance is something much more than a number of solos.

To do this, presidents must know people well and that again usually requires several years' acquaintance.

* * *

It is necessary also for members to know their presidents.

In a well-run club or organization, executive members are constantly watching for persons with inate qualities of leadership. Then they provide opportunity for developing those qualities by means of this system of promotion.

Being president of a club or an organization requires many qualities. The two most important are initiative and awareness of personality.

Presidents must be thinkers; they must be able to see their goals and drive hard toward them; they must devise plans for accomplishing things that will really work; they must be generous with praise and niggardly with blame.

They must be willing to accept criticism and to be constantly open to suggestion. They must show tact and inspire confidence.

At the same time it is well to remember that presidents need some bouquets as well as brickbats. And, the best way a membership-at-large can show this appreciation is by giving presidents loyal support.

* * *

It's not easy to be the president of a club or an organization. Nor, for that matter, is it easy to hold any one of the executive offices.

Every member of every club and organization has a responsibility to make these positions as pleasant and desirable as possible.

Annual meetings are already scheduled for this new year.

When you attend them, remember that if your club or your organization really matters, then you owe it unselfish service.

Remember that the officers you name are all voluntary workers, giving you much time out of their own careers.

Be adults! Do what you are asked to do and do it willingly and well.

Make this a banner year for your various clubs and groups and for the men and women you elect to office.

APPOINTED clerk assistant to the House of Commons is Alistair Fraser, 42. Defeated in the Nov. 8 election for a Nova Scotia seat, he has been executive assistant to Transport Minister Pickersgill. The Toronto-born lawyer earlier was defeated in an attempt to win the Esquimalt-Saanich riding in 1957.

Lawyer Raps Ontario QC Appointments

TORONTO (CP) — Criminal lawyer Joseph Sedgwick of Toronto says the system of conferring Queen's Counsel honors on lawyers has ceased to have meaning and should be abolished.

He said Saturday the honor is distributed so freely to so many that it has become meaningless and a mockery.

Mr. Sedgwick, a QC himself, was commenting on the release last week of the 1966 list of QC appointments for Ontario.

The list contained 11 names of new QC's. "I know very few of the people on this year's list," Mr. Sedgwick said.

Henry L. Cartwright, a Kingston lawyer who has turned down a QC honor three times, said the practice is a farce and the title worthless.

JUST 'POLITICAL FAVORS'

"The inclusion of a few eminent names, sprinkled with Liberals and New Democrats, in the annual list lends an air of respectability," he said. "But it's a well-known fact that they're handed out as political favors."

Since the title is imported from England, Canada should abide by the rules set down in Britain, he said. By tradition, the honor is conferred only on barristers who "uphold the Queen's justice" in court.

UBC SPECIALISTS

Trustees Order School Analysis

Two UBC professors will take a critical look at the administration of Greater Victoria school system in an effort to streamline operations.

The study was announced by school board chairman John Porteous who said he hopes initial recommendations will be ready in a few months.

He said the report will be presented to the board "section by section as it is prepared" and may be used in planning next year's operations.

The specialists are Dr. W. J. Hartrick, associate professor of educational administration at UBC, and Dr. L. W. Downey, chairman of UBC's educational administration department.

Dr. Downey carried out a similar study on the Saskatoon school system.

School superintendent John Gough said the results of the study will provide a guide not only for the Victoria school system but for others throughout the province.

FIRST TIME

It is believed to be the first time a major evaluation of school administration has been undertaken in British Columbia.

Mr. Gough emphasized that the study will concentrate on organization and administration and will not be concerned with evaluation of teachers or teaching methods.

Precise terms of the study have yet to be prepared but work is starting this week. Principals of all schools in the system will meet the professors in a few days.

OPINIONS INVITED

Mr. Porteous said the study will not be confined within the school system. Selected persons in the community will be invited to give their views.

The study was initiated by the school board after Mr. Porteous and other trustees heard a talk by Dr. Hartrick at a recent seminar.

Mr. Porteous said that research specialists in United States' universities will likely be called in to assist in the survey which will be carried out with the co-operation of local school board officials.

FROSTBITERS

Land Return For Some

The weather got the better of Victoria Yacht Club's annual Flower Island Race for the second time Saturday.

Although the race wasn't cancelled, as on Boxing Day, five of the little frostbiters capsized, while others beached at Ten Mile Point.

Official starter Marguerite Townshend said the trouble stemmed from a combination of wind and waves.

Forty boats took part in the two-hour race.

But not all of them came back across the water. Instead they returned atop their owner's cars.

One of these was Rosemary Bullen. Although she was standing well in the race at the weather marker, she forfeited her position to pick up a capsized competitor and beached at the Point.

Winner of the Davidson Class was Ronald Mack, followed by Sidney Halls and Jim Davis.

In the El Toro Class, Shirley Jefferson was first, followed by Ray Jefferson and James Williams.

Supplies Needed For Stall

Supplies are needed for Victoria's Surplus Food Stall, which opens its doors Saturday for the first time in the New Year.

With cupboards bare from the Christmas rush, the stall needs donations from Victorians to help supply the 150 local families on its hamper list with food.

Vegetables and frozen foods would be particularly welcome.

But any good food of any sort is needed," says stall convener Mrs. E. E. Harper.

Families receiving food from the stall must first produce a welfare card signed by a welfare worker, she added.

Persons wishing to donate food to the stall may phone 658-8177 to have it picked up Saturday morning.

Armed Intervention In Rhodesia Urged

ACCRA (Reuters) — Ghana today called for an armed force, provided by African countries and authorized by the United Nations, to intervene in Rhodesia.

A statement issued from President Kwame Nkrumah's office said the best and most effective method of ending the Rhodesian rebellion is by the use of armed force.

"Ghana believes this armed force shall be provided by African states and that its use should be authorized by the United Nations," the statement said.

It called on Britain to convene a meeting of the UN Security Council and propose the imposition of mandatory sanctions, rather than the voluntary ones existing now.

If Britain fails to do this, Ghana said it will confer with other African countries to determine how the matter can be raised in the Security Council.

EMPHYSEMA SUFFERERS TOLD:

'Walk, Walk, Walk . . .'

TORONTO (CP) — Incidence in Canada of the lung disease emphysema has increased 500 per cent since 1949 and has replaced tuberculosis as the second most common cause of death due to respiratory disease, says Dr. Colin Woolf of Toronto.

Cancer of the lung is the leading cause.

Dr. Woolf, with the University of Toronto's department of medicine and the Toronto General Hospital, said this means 1,500 Canadians could die of emphysema next year.

"The epidemic is increasing at a fantastic rate," he said in an interview Saturday.

Dr. Woolf has just completed a three-year study on emphysema sponsored by the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, the Muskoka Hospital Memorial Research Fund and a national health grant.

His advice to emphysema sufferers is "walk, walk, walk."

The disease causes the "actual destruction of the walls of the lungs' air sacs. This results in fewer but larger air sacs functioning less efficiently and reducing the patient's oxygen supply."

WATCH CHRONIC COUGH

Symptoms of emphysema are shortness of breath and a chronic cough. The disease is often preceded by chronic bronchitis.

Dr. Woolf said the disease is "rare among non-smokers."

One in every six men over 40 who smake a pack of cigarettes a day is likely to develop it, he said. In his study he found only one woman with the disease.

"Smoking in women became acceptable more recently than in men so they have not smoked so long. If smoking is a factor in emphysema, we should be getting more women now."

A project on chronic bronchitis in Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg veterans' hospitals suggests polluted air a contributory cause.

Edmonton Fire

EDMONTON (CP) — Traffic was diverted from Edmonton's main downtown thoroughfare for more than three hours Friday as fire raged through a two-storey business building on Jasper Avenue. The fire broke out about 7 p.m. in the Bulletin Building where the Edmonton Bulletin, a daily newspaper, was published until 15 years ago.

GET SUNSHINE WITH FLORIDA GRAPEFRUIT

Greatfruit for round-the-clock and round-the-year menu planning—ideal because it can be served so many ways, hot; cold; halved; plain, or fancy.

PLAIN TOPPINGS—Honey, brown sugar, maple syrup, or a spoonful of warm mincemeat should satisfy a sweet tooth. French Dressing on half or sections makes a tempting appetizer. Orange Sherbet makes a pretty topping for fluted halves.

FANCY TOPPINGS—Insert narrow wedges of ripe olives or red apple in petal fashion between sections. Make flowers on top of the grapefruit halves with mint leaves topped with tiny pieces of pineapple, or orange sections on narrow strips of apple with the red peel left on, and a mint patty in the center. A real treat is a flower center of strawberry slices with a few after dinner mints on top,

CITRUS FRUIT CUPS—Combine fresh, frozen or chilled sections with sliced bananas and diced apple (leave red peel on for color contrast); with finely cut dates and shredded coconut; with diced avocado and chopped pimento (omit sugar); with sliced strawberries; with orange or lime sherbet.

ORANGE, GRAPEFRUIT AND ONION SALAD—4 Florida oranges, 2 Florida grapefruit, 2 medium-size onions. Peel fruit. Slice oranges crosswise, ¼-inch thick. Section grapefruit. Slice onions ⅛-inch thick and separate slices into rings. Arrange orange slices, onion rings and grapefruit sections on greens and serve with Grapefruit French dressing. Serves 8.

SLIM-DANDY SALAD—Combine orange slices, grapefruit sections, thin cucumber slices, shrimp, hard cooked egg slices with greens. Eggs or cottage cheese and shrimp provide protein, the cucumber crispness, and the fruit all the flavor you could want. Serve with Low Calorie French Dressing.

Famous Florida Indian River

GRAPEFRUIT

Florida Grapefruit is fully mature fruit when shipped...firm and heavy with juice. Enjoy its tart sweet piquant flavor... adds zest to meats, vegetables, salads, beverages, and it's mighty flavorful when eaten by itself.

SWIM POOL APPROVED, REJECTED

Twins Split on Centennial Plan

AN UNCOVERED water well and a curious little boy set the scene for "a conspicuous act of gallantry" two years ago on the Westholme Indian Reserve near Chemainus. Michael Gibson, left, will be awarded the St. John Priory Certificate for Bravery for saving his brother, Allan, 8, after the younger boy had fallen into four feet of water at the bottom of the 15-foot deep well (above), Sept. 17, 1963.

ALBERNI—The twin cities may have the distinction of being the only community in Canada without a centennial project, according to Mayor Fred Bishop of Alberni.

"If we continue in the spirit this year, with various groups pulling in different directions, we are going to reach 1967 and find we are the only major community without a project," he said.

"This is going to happen unless all interested groups sit down together as people of goodwill and work out an agreement which all will support."

The cities will amalgamate officially on Jan. 1, 1967.

Mayor Bishop said since Alberni voters have already approved a swimming pool the council will continue to support it as a centennial project.

"But we realize other interests of a cultural nature are also needed."

The problem arose when Port Alberni voters turned down the swimming pool plan.

The centennial committee is now attempting to come up with a project which will be acceptable to both.

Mayor Bishop proposed the two councils sponsor a public meeting and invite B.C. Centennial chairman Lawrie Wallace to speak.

LOGGERS TRICKLE BACK

DUNCAN — Some logging crews in mid-island went back to work this morning.

About 250 men of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., went back to the woods at Copper Canyon and Nanaimo River camps.

Chemainus spokesman George Beaubier said: "They hope to be back in production today."

CLEARING ROADS

Peter Stone of Hillcrest Lumber Company, Mesachie Lake, said crews were out this morning working on road clearance.

"We hope to get back to production Wednesday," he said.

Another operation which restarted work this weekend was the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. camp at Nitinat.

Crews went back into camp by crummy Sunday night.

MILLS WORKED

All sawmills in the area have managed to keep going at full capacity as log supplies remained adequate.

The pulp and newsprint mills at Crofton have not been held up regarding supplies.

Assistant personnel manager Kent Elliott said: "We have extensive supplies of logs in our booming grounds, and also a plentiful supply of wood chips."

High Winds Free Whale At Whidbey

SEATTLE (AP) — Strong winds and high tide spelled freedom Sunday for a captured female killer whale.

Ted Griffin, Seattle Marine Aquarium owner, caught the cow in a purse seine last Wednesday and had been keeping it in the net at Penn Dove on the east side of Whidbey Island.

The combination of wind and tide drifted both the net and the whale loose from their moorings and the animal swam off.

The fishing vessel Chinook, which had been tending the whale, reported to Griffin that it got loose early in the morning. Griffin had returned to Seattle Saturday after observing from the Chinook that the net was beginning to disintegrate. He planned to return with material to reinforce the purse seine.

The plan had been to keep the whale in the bay for a week or so and then transfer it to Rich Cove, on the Kitsap Peninsula, where Namu is spending the winter.

Namu, a male killer whale, was caught in a purse seine by mistake last summer by two British Columbia fishermen who sold it to Griffin.

Griffin said he will keep looking for a female. He caught one once, but decided it was too small for Namu and sold it to an aquarium in San Diego.

Road-Ferry Route On Chamber Agenda

DUNCAN—Vancouver Island's link in a road-ferry route to Alaska is a major item on the agenda of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island when delegates meet in Nanaimo Jan. 19.

The route, as envisioned by Island civic leaders, would see Alaska-bound trucks using the Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert ferry service which is scheduled to go into service this May.

At Prince Rupert the trucks could connect with an Alaska ferry which is already in service.

Victoria city fathers have already discussed providing a major truck route through the city to the Trans-Canada Highway from the Port Angeles ferry slip in the Inner Harbor.

Goodwill Starts Pick-Up Service

DUNCAN — Sam Rae, executive director of Goodwill Enterprises for the handicapped, announced today the start of a pick-up service for residents who wish to donate repairable clothing or household articles.

A goodwill truck will be in Duncan each Thursday and a pick-up can be arranged by telephoning the Goodwill office at 746-6341.

The vehicle, owned by mechanic Ken Doward, had been parked out side the Sportsman Hotel, Ladysmith.

Hearing Jan. 20 In Road Fatality

DUNCAN — A preliminary hearing for Lawrence Lawson, 24, charged with criminal negligence, has been set for Jan. 20.

Lawson was charged Dec. 28 after Donald Olson, 20, was killed when hit by a car.

Realtor Chosen Kiwanian of Year

DUNCAN—Realtor Harold Allman, who spearheaded a number of fund-raising drives, was named Saturday night as the outstanding Kiwanian of the year here.

The perpetual trophy was presented to him by Kiwanians' lieutenant-governor, Harvey Bailey of Victoria.

Mr. Allman also became the new president of the club.

Other officers are: Sam Koffski, vice-president; Victor Billings, secretary; Barry Braden, treasurer, and Al Falt, Doug Greenwood, Ted Shaw, Rev. Ted Greenhalgh, Bill Jameson and Charles Torhjelm, directors.

Mrs. Joan Allman is president of the ladies' auxiliary.

ISLAND DIGEST

Long Arm Of Law Str---etched

DUNCAN — The minimum security at William Head prison near Victoria will be stretched to the maximum on Feb. 6.

On that date a number of the inmates will be released "on their honor" as delegates to a V.I. Jaycee convention at Duncan.

The men will attend the convention under the auspices of the Victoria unit of Jaycees.

A new group at William Head will be called the Bayview Unit and receive its charter just two days before the convention.

President Ernie Hamm of the Duncan Jaycees said no special security is being arranged.

BLACK ICE BLAMED

Four Hurt in Malahat Collision

DUNCAN — Four persons were injured Saturday in a collision on the ice-slicked Malahat Drive. A Duncan couple, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cleugh, Bell-McKinnon Road, were travelling north about 5:30 p.m. when their car skidded out of control on black ice, RCMP said.

The Cleugh auto was in collision with a southbound car driven by Manfred Peter Saager, 553 Hillside Avenue, Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleugh were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and released Sunday.

Mr. Saager escaped injury but two passengers in his vehicle were treated.

James Rumney, 534 Hillside, is in fair condition and Robert Devine, 414 Hillside, was released following treatment.

Total damage was $2,500.

Vote Campaign Spending Limit Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress today proposed a major overhaul of federal election laws that could end the domination of election campaigns by the big political parties.

In a 4,800-word brief to the special committee on election expenses, the 1,200,000-member CLC recommended:

—Full public disclosure of political contributions over $100.

—Tax exemptions for all political contributions.

—Limits on the campaign spending of candidates and parties.

—Free broadcast time and postal distribution for each candidate.

—Official recognition of parties under the Canada Elections Act.

The CLC, in recent years an active backer of the New Democratic Party, presented its views at a closed meeting with the five-member committee which for 14 months has been studying election expenses with a view to recommendations on how they should be controlled.

The brief said the limit on campaign spending should be set at 30 cents per voter with half of the amount applying to the candidate and half to his party.

"We believe that an average of about 30 cents a voter per riding should be sufficient for any party to make its case, especially if it receives in addition the free services which we recommend," the brief said.

This plan would "restrict the opportunity of a well-funded party to swamp its opponents through the sheer volume of its propaganda."

Parties, however, should be left free to shift their spending to concentrate on ridings where they feel the best opportunities for success exist.

WOULD END SECRECY

On the question of disclosing party contributions, the CLC said the veil of secrecy should be completely removed. The voting public had a right to know the main sources of party funds.

Tax exemptions would broaden the base of party support by encouraging contributions from persons who now felt they could not afford them. The CLC said there should be a maximum amount for such exemptions but did not suggest a figure.

Taken together, disclosure laws and tax exemptions would lead to a greater degree of financial parity between those parties that contest elections on a national scale.

The brief also urged abolition of the $200 deposit for federal candidates. This deposit is returned to winners and those losing candidates who receive at least half as many votes as the winner.

"Poverty should bar no man from being a candidate."

Referring to the growing participation of trade unions in politics, the labor body said there should be no curbs on this activity. It asked the committee to oppose legislation such as that passed in British Columbia which bars union contributions to political parties.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Rapeseed and feed grains were steady, while flax and rye were lower in moderate trade today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Export interest was quiet.

Reports that the United States would increase its flax subsidy sharply on spring deliveries stimulated selling and prices declined more than two cents. Rapeseed was steady in light trade.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Mine Issues In Spotlight

Mining issues held the spotlight in Toronto and Vancouver today with speculative activity especially strong in Ontario.

AT TORONTO D'Eldona paced the speculative issues with a gain of 72 cents to 1.97 on more than 1,467,000 shares. Wilco jumped 18 to 74 cents on more than 448,000 shares and Donalda 4½ to 31½ cents on 368,900.

Banks continued to lead the industrial list higher as Montreal advanced 2 to 66½ while the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Toronto-Dominion added 1½ each at 68⅞ and 68¼.

Among base metals Inco rose ¾ to 101 as the base metal index hit a new high 87.65 on a gain of .33 points. Cominco was ahead ⅛ to 51 while Falconbridge was off ½ to 112½.

Canadian Export Gas led western oils higher with a gain of 18 cents to 2.80 while Canadian Delhi moved up 15 cents to 3:15.

Hollinger edged up ⅜ in golds, however Leitch lost 20 cents to 5.80.

AT VANCOUVER Most sections showed a predominance of gains over losses with a number of mining issues making new highs.

Canusa gained six cents to 41 cents for a new 1965-1966 high on a trade of 79,900 shares. Patricia Silver also set a new high making $1.63 for a gain of 11 cents, and Western Mines Rose six cent to a record $5.90 for the year on a trade of 9,350 shares. Dealings began today in Yukon Antimony Corp., Ltd. stock, which was quoted at $1.90 on a turnover of 9,350 shares.

In oils 2,000 Embassy were traded at 75 cents, gaining 10 cents, and Royal American were quoted $1.54, up 17 cents.

In slow trading among industrial stocks 200 Domtar gained to $19.87 and 395 MacMillan Bloedel & Powell River were quoted $28.

AT MONTREAL all sections moved fractionally higher towards 2 p.m. in heavy trading.

Industrial volume was 126,400 and mines and oils a heavy 1,364,700.

Speculative mines and oils were higher with Jubilee jumping 16 cents to $3.15, and Patricia Silver 10 cents to $1.60.

Banks led the senior groups with Imperial Commerce and Toronto-Dominion each rising 1¼ points to 69 and 68 respectively. Royal climbed ½ to 77 and Montreal ⅜ to 65.

AT LONDON the stock market was quietly firm today. Interest was selective and weekend investment comment provided the main stimulating factors. Gilt edged, however, were inclined to ease.

AT NEW YORK airlines, electronics and coppers were among gainers.

The market advance was having tough going because traders were taking profits with the averages at the peak of a string of new highs made last week.

Aerospace defence stocks also were firm to higher as Viet Nam fighting continued on a fairly large scale.

Gold-mining issues had a rally following publication of a report that about $1,000,000,000 worth of newly-mined gold was absorbed by private hoarding or speculation in the first three quarters last year.

Steels put on a wavering performance and motors were thoroughly scrambled. Rails were strong.

Snow Clogs Italy

ROME (UPI) — Snow covered most of Italy today, causing massive traffic jams and scores of accidents and blocking thousands in the blizzard-swept mountains. Rome was one of the few cities spared and had rain instead.

KEEFLER

Chamber Eyes Caribbean Realignment

PORT-O-SPAIN, Trinidad (CP)—R. H. Keefler, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, told The Trinidad Chamber of Commerce today Canadians are not sufficiently aware of the present-day industry and principal types of production in the Caribbean. Changes taking place, throughout the Caribbean today are both far-reaching and radical, he said.

Ever since the ties with Great Britain became loosened by the Second World War, an uncertain process of development and realignment had been taking place.

But the foodstuffs traded today are still essentially the same—both in range of products and in quantity—as they were even before 1940.

In short, the trade per capita has tended to decay rather than grow. The vigorous interchange of important foodstuffs has been replaced by a much more precarious trading situation where shipping and world prices play an important part in the selection and maintenance of our respective markets."

"No one," said Mr. Keefler, "can help but view this situation with genuine concern."

He stressed importance of a vigorous attempt to improve communication, as a means of encouraging economic growth ultimately depend on the knowledge and skill possessed by the community and the ability to put it to practical use.

Early Closing During Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Stock Exchange announced today it will continue to close at 2 p.m. EST, instead of 3:30 p.m., because of the city's transit strike.

It closed early last Thursday and Friday.

The exchange will open at the regular hour of 10 a.m.

Clerks Hunted For Tax Check

OTTAWA (CP)—A somewhat less than happy new year note from the tax collector: The revenue department is preparing to hire up to 2,500 clerks to handle the new year's flood of income tax returns.

The department is advertising locally for 700 clerks who will be given full-time jobs for four months starting about Feb. 1 in the taxation division data centre at Tunney's Pasture, overlooking the Ottawa River upstream from Parliament Hill.

The 700 are needed to fill out the requirement after 1,500 to 1,800 former short-term employees are called back to the jobs of processing individual income tax returns.

With the introduction of computers, examining the tabulating the tax returns of individuals now is done here for all Canada. Previously, short-term staffs were hired in district taxation offices across the country to do the work.

The job for the short-term clerks is essentially one of checking the returns in routine fashion and converting the information on each return into punched cards to be fed into the computers. The revenue department's data centre now has become a training school for key-punch operators who go to other departments and into private industry.

MUST BE FILED

Individual tax returns—either the T1 short forms for taxpayers reporting simple income statements, or the T1 general forms for taxpayers with more complicated incomes and exemption claims — must be filed together with balance of tax owing by April 30.

But an official of the data centre said some returns covering 1965 already are being received, mainly from people who now know their income and exemption figures for the year and want to get the thing off their minds before going south for the winter.

This in only a trickle, however, compared to the flood of returns to come. The main tide surges in towards the end of April, but the revenue department receives forms and payments in growing numbers towards the end of January, February and March.

Individuals filing their returns and payments by mail send them in envelopes supplied with tax forms and addressed to the data centre here. But an individual may still take his return and cheque to a district taxation office and hand it in over the counter. The district offices merely bundle and mail them to Ottawa.

About 98 per cent of the short-term employees are women, many of them married with families who like three or four months work each year but do not want a full-time job. The short-term employment is barred for anyone who already has a full-time job in the civil service or the armed forces.

Pay starts at the annual rate of $2,558 for key-punch trainees and $2,652 for clerks, and can run as high as $5,179.

Pine Point Gets Permission For U.S. Shipment

TRAIL (CP) — Pine Point Mines Ltd., has announced it has received federal government approval to ship another 15,000 tons of high grade ore to Kellogg, Idaho, from its lead-zinc property in the Northwest Territories.

The shipment to the Bunker Hill Co. is authorized up to March 1.

Last year the company, a subsidiary of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., shipped 50,000 tons of ore to Kellogg.

The federal government must approve all export of ore from Canada. The Pine Point exports are surplus to Canadian smelter capacity.

SHIP LIFT BY BUTTON PLANNED

HALIFAX (CP) — A new type of drydock that can lift a ship from the water and slip it onto land by one man pressing a system of buttons is to be installed at the navy's dockyard here.

One of nine of its kind in the world, the new drydock has been designed specially to handle the navy's new "C" class submarines and hydrofoil anti-submarine vessels.

There are two conventional types of drydock. In one the ship sails into the dock and doors are closed behind it. Water is then pumped out leaving it high and dry. The other type is the marine slip were the ship is sailed onto a sunken cradle that is then pulled up an inclined plane to land.

The new dock, called a Synchro lift marine elevator, consists of a sunken platform which contains a cradle. Along each pier 18 motors hoist the platform and ship to land level.

METRO CONTROL UNDER STUDY

'Big Toronto' Plan Vetoed

TORONTO (CP)—A new form of municipal government for Toronto, consisting of the City of Toronto and five suburban boroughs, was proposed today by the Ontario government.

The government rejected a royal commission recommendation for a four-city system in Metro and at the same time tossed out proposals for amalgamation of Metro's 13 municipalities into one big city of 1,744,700 population.

Instead, they will be squeezed into six new municipalities as of Jan. 1, 1967.

Toronto will annex the villages of Forest Hill and Swansea, making a city of 681,500.

The township of Etobicoke will be combined with the towns of Mimico and New Toronto and the village of Long Branch into the new borough of Etobicoke, with a population of 239,000.

The township of York will join with the town of Weston to form the borough of York. Population: 138,700.

The township of North York, with a population of 341,500, will become the borough of North York.

EXPAND EAST YORK

The township of East York will be consolidated with the town of Leaside, forming the borough of East York, with a population of 90,700.

The last borough will be the present township of Scarborough, which has a population of 253,300.

The announcement of the government's proposals for revising municipal government in the metropolitan area was made by Premier John Robarts in a 27-page statement.

He said the two-level form of metropolitan government in existence for the last 13 years will be continued, as recommended by Royal Commissioner H. Carl Goldenberg in his report last June.

But Mr. Goldenberg's recommended division of the Metro area into four cities was ignored. The commissioner would have quartered Metro into the cities of Toronto, Etobicoke, North York and Scarborough.

Premier Robarts stated no particular reason for choosing six municipalities rather than four in the new structure. He said only that the government agreed with Mr. Goldenberg that Metro's 13 municipalities should not be amalgamated.

Mr. Robarts said Metropolitan Toronto council, which now has 25 members—12 from the city and 12 from the suburbs, with an outside chairman — will be expanded to 33 members. Toronto will continue to have 12 but the five boroughs will have 20: North York 6, Scarborough 5, Etobicoke 4, York 3 and East York 2.

Terms of office for elected representatives in Metro will be expanded to three years from two. The municipal franchise will be extended to everyone over 21.

Each of the six boroughs will have its own school board but the Metro school board will continue to have main financial responsibility. The school-tax levy will be equalized across Metro.

GLIDING DOLL YVONNE WAS MR. EDWIN BEFORE

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Yvonne Leeman, 34-year-old South African flyer who broke the women's world gliding speed record last week, said Sunday she was a man until a sex-change operation four years ago.

Miss Leeman told the Johannesburg Sunday Times she underwent operations in 1961 after years of "fighting a hopeless battle against my femininity.

"All my friends and just everybody has been wonderful about my change."

Miss Leeman was known before the operation as Edwin Leeman. He had been nicknamed the "Cat-of-Nine-Lives Pilot" because of a series of escapes from death in flying accidents.

"ONLY A BOY"

Kansas Freshman Has Indoor Mark

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If young Jim Ryun of Kansas needs any added encouragement he's got it today from Britain's top miler.

John Whetton, the British mile king, chased Ryun to the wire Saturday night in the San Francisco Examiner Invitational track meet, the first this year indoors, and had nothing but praise for the winner.

Ryun, a freshman at Kansas, won the event in a sparkling 4:02.1, the fastest time ever recorded for the mile in San Francisco. He said later he was hampered by a cold or probably would have done the race in under four minutes.

Whetton, one of two British stars in the field, was clocked in 4:02.5, which was the fastest time ever indoors for the mile by a United Kingdom athlete.

"Ryun's just great," said Whetton, "and he's only a boy. I hope he holds his form for the 1968 Olympics in Mexico. There's no question that he's the best in the world at the distance right now."

Alan Simpson, Whetton's countryman, wound up third in the mile in 4:03.6 and Bob Day of UCLA, the NCAA champion, finished a disappointing fourth in 4:05.9 after holding the lead for three of the 11 laps.

While the crowd wasn't as big as had been expected, it saw some other top-rate performances, including a U.S. record of 16 feet, 7¾ inches by John Pennel in the pole vault.

Pennel wiped out the old U.S. record of 16-6 set by Billy Pemelton a year ago but he failed in three tries to beat the world indoor mark of 16-8¾ set by Finland's Pentti Nikula in 1963.

Pennel, the first man ever to clear 17 feet outdoors, said he wasn't the least bit disappointed in not beating Nikula's mark.

"The season is just started," he said, "so I am not too worried about Nikula's record right now. There are plenty of other meets in which I'll get cracks at it."

Claremont Crew Cops CageShow

Resident hoopers triumphed in the final of the Mayfair basketball tournament at Claremont Saturday.

Claremont High topped Chemainus 55-40. Hot swishers for Claremont were Ray Galey with 19 points and Rod Sutton with 15. Both players were picked for the tournament all-star team along with Richard Harvold who paced the losing Chemainus squad with 15 points. Chemainus' Bob Robinson and Heinz Lissey from St. Louis College also made the all-stars.

In opening tournament play Claremont whipped Courtenay Towhees 56-33 and Chemainus edged St. Louis 59-58.

Lissey hooped 24 for St. Louis in a vain attempt to capture the consolation match. Courtenay overpowered the College 54-45.

CHEMAINUS—Harvold 15, Robinson 10, Piester 10, Waller 5. Total: 40.

CLAREMONT—Sutton 15, Galey 19, Hannan 13, Baade 8. Total: 55.

ST. LOUIS—Connor 4, Walker 2, Smith 4, Lissey 24, Weicker 2, Lynch 6, Adrian 2, Ackerman 1. Total: 45.

COURTENAY—Drummond 8, Goodwin 15, McNish 12, Jossul 10, Rennison 5, Hawkins 4. Total: 54.

Portland Near First After 4-0 Victory

By ERNIE FEDORUK

PORTLAND—Injuries have instilled pains of a goal-scoring hunger in the Victoria Maple Leafs' hockey club.

The Western League leaders were shut out for a second straight game, 4-0 by Portland Buckaroos Sunday, and now have gone starving for goals for 155 minutes, 35 seconds.

Leafs haven't scored a goal since Larry Keenan popped one at the 4:25 mark of the second period in a game at Los Angeles last Thursday.

San Francisco's Jack McCartan blanked the Leafs 6-0 last Friday and Portland's Dave Kelly followed it up with Sunday's job that reduced Victoria's lead over the second-place Buckaroos to a mere two points.

The Leafs, beset by injuries, now move to the friendly confines of Victoria's Memorial Arena in an effort to break out of their scoring slump and, at the same time, protect a lead they have held all season.

Adding importance to Tuesday's four-point meeting in Victoria is the fact that coach Hal Laycoe's Buckaroos hold two games in hand over the Leafs.

Victoria Keeps Doctors Busy

As of today, Victoria coach Frank Mario was looking every-which-way for healthy skaters:

Victoria's injury list read like this:

- Dick Lamoureux, torn knee ligaments.
- Milan Marcetta, damaged blood vessels in his right
- Lou Jankowski, wrenchd muscle in his left shoulder.
- Aut Erickson, possible wrenched muscles in his lumbar (back) region.
- Claude Labrosse, injured foot.
- Dave Parenteau, charley-horse.

And if that's not enough, defenceman Sandy Hucul has a long arranged date to enter hospital January 12 for a minor groin operation. Unless Victoria's health picture improves, Leafs' management may ask Hucul to postpone surgery.

Hucul's condition, which prevailed through most of last season, isn't serious and doesn't stop him playing.

Lamoureux isn't due to return for at least three more weeks and Marcetta, hurt in the Thursday game at Los Angeles, was due to enter hospital today for a minor operation expected to clear up the swollen condition in his thigh. The league's leading point-getter until he was injured Marcetta will definitely miss Tuesday's important game with Portland.

Jankowski's presence Tuesday is on the "very doubtful" side while Erickson, Labrosse and Parenteau are almost certain to start.

Labrosse reinjured a previously painful instep when hit by a puck in the San Francisco game. Erickson and Parenteau suffered their bruises Sunday night. Erickson wrenched his back while making a turn (with no one near him). Portland defenceman Connie Madigan presented Parenteau with "my first charley-horse ever."

One Bright Light In Gloom

If Mario had anything to be thankful for Sunday night, it was the fact that winger Rollie Wilcox checked in from Tulsa of the Central league in time to play. Wilcox, playing on a line with John Sleaver and Gordie Redahl, was Victoria's only consistent standout on attack. Of the Leafs' five best chances to score on Kelly, Wilcox had three.

	GP	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Victoria	35	22	10	3	132	103	47
Portland	33	21	9	3	125	81	45
Vancouver	36	16	19	1	119	124	33
San Francisco	32	13	17	2	92	107	28
Seattle	33	12	20	1	104	121	25
Los Angeles	37	12	25	0	108	163	24

In addition, Rollie, who was sometimes criticized last year for so-so back-checking performances, was a standout defensively. Two of Wilcox' offensive thrusts were on breakaways.

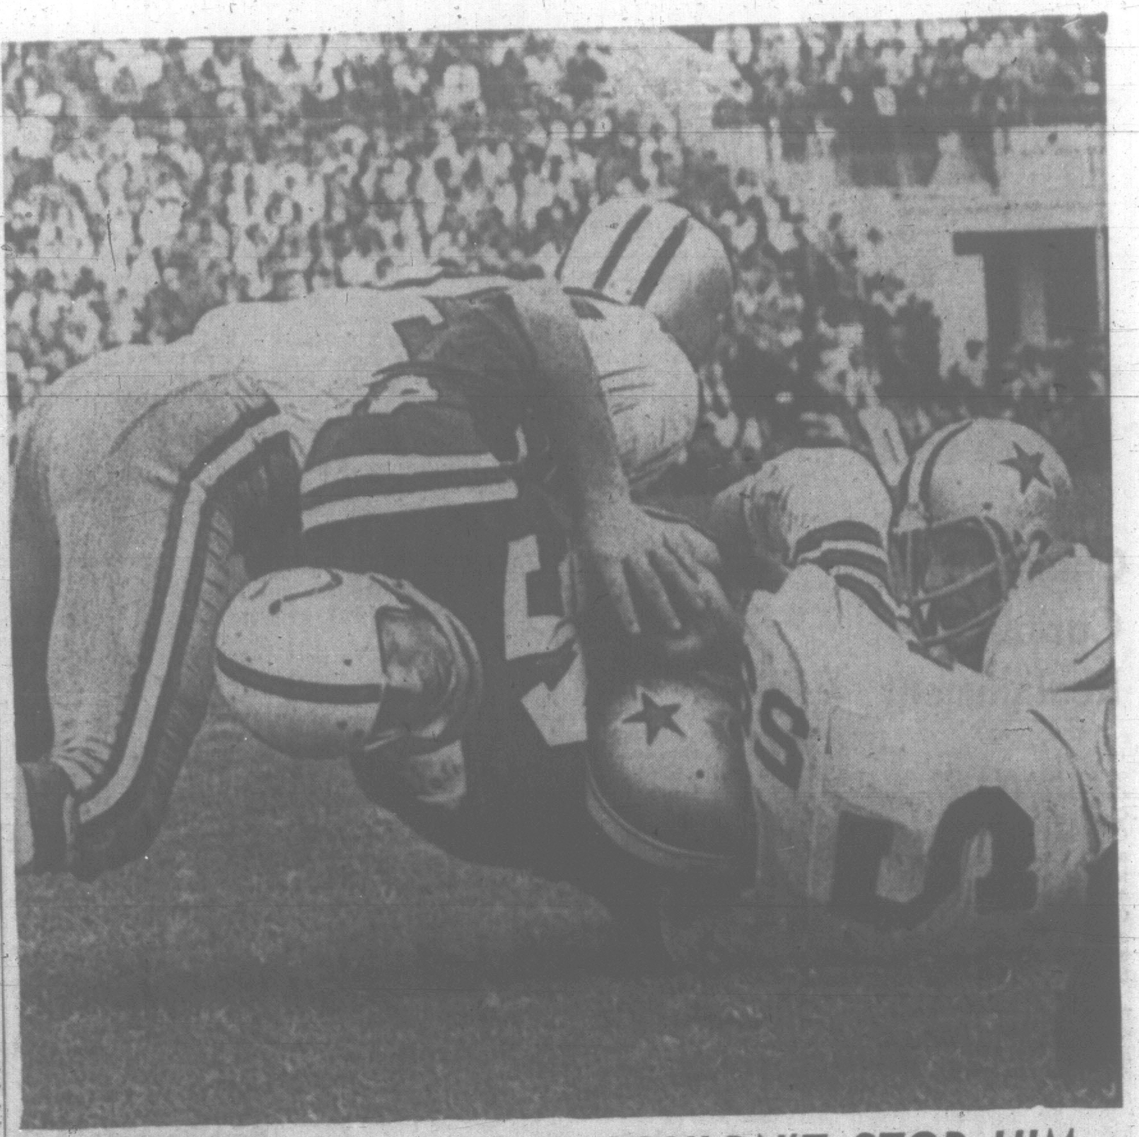
Defenceman Jim Hay scored Portland's first goal after the Buckaroos successfully killed off three successive penalties in the opening period. Hay fired a long slap shot from just inside the red-line. Victoria goalie Al Millar got his hand on the puck but it deflected down his facemask, flipped over his shoulder and into the net.

Then veteran centre Art Jones took over. He scored Portland's final three goals, one in the second period and two in the third. It was Jones' first hat-trick of the season and moved him right into the thick of the scoring race.

Jones' third goal came on a Portland power-play.

Referee Lloyd Gilmour whistled out 11 penalties, including six to Portland.

Kelly, apart from Wilcox' three thrusts and close calls on efforts by Bill Shvetz and Sleaver, had little trouble in racking up his shutout. Although the Portland goalie looked shaky on many of the shots directed at him, the Kelly cause was helped by the fact that Leafs fired most of their shots from well out.



THREE WILD HORSES COULDN'T STOP HIM

Not even the crunching bodywork of three Dallas Cowboys could stop Baltimore Colts' Jerry Hill, dark jersey, from touchdown plunge in Sunday's National Football League Playoff Bowl game. Underdog Colts scored stunning 35-3 victory before 65,569 in Orange Bowl. (AP Wirephoto.)

WINNER of West Australia men's singles title, his third state championship since arriving Down Under in October, is Arthur Ashe of the U.S. He defeated 19-year-old teammate Cliff Richey 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 Sunday.

Matte Poses a Problem For Baltimore's Shula

MIAMI (AP) — Tom Matte, who almost quarterbacked Baltimore Colts into the National Football League championship game, led them to a 35-3 victory over Dallas Cowboys Sunday in the consolation tilt. The performances pose for coach Don Shula the problems of what to do with Matte next season.

"I don't know," said Shula. "I guess I'll have to keep the Matte offence in our play book, though."

Matte, in only his third professional game as quarterback, was voted the outstanding player in the playoff game before 65,569 in the Orange Bowl. He earned the award on his passing.

Slim Repertoire

When he was first rushed into the quarterback breach because of injuries to John Unitas and Gary Cuozzo, Matte had a slim repertoire of plays, mostly running. Still the Colts defeated Los Angeles Rams 20-17 and in a playoff for the Western Conference title lost 13-10 in overtime to Green Bay Packers.

Matte passed 17 times against the Cowboys, completing seven. Two of them went 15 and 20 yards to Jimmy Orr for touchdowns. Two more of 37 and 52 yards set up second-period touchdowns which gave Baltimore a 14-3 halftime edge.

The Cowboys, who tied for second place in the Eastern Conference by winning five of their last seven games, ran into a fierce Colt defence.

Cowboys Stymied

Dallas put together only one sustained drive on the passing of Don Meredith in the second quarter. The Cowboys reached the Colt four with a first down but were stopped in their tracks and Danny Villanueva kicked a 12-yard field goal.

Jerry Logan recovered a fumble for the Colts on the Dallas 25 in the third quarter and fullback Jerry Hill plunged for a touchdown five plays later. Hill also boomed three yards for a second-quarter touchdown after catching a 52-yard rocket from Matte.

End John Mackey's catch of a 37-yard pass from Matte set up Baltimore's first touchdown —a six-yard run by Lenny Moore—after a scoreless first period.

"I had a lot of respect before for Matte," said Shula, "but he has gained a lot more the way he reacted to our situation."

The six-foot, 205 pounder had been a substitute halfback with the Colts for five seasons until the quarterback crisis developed. A quarterback at Ohio State, he had thrown only a couple of passes on the halfback option play since then.

The victory by the Colts was the 15th victory in 16 contests for the West.

Red Wings On the Move

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers broke Chicago Black Hawks domination in Madison Square Garden while Montreal Canadiens retained their jinx at Detroit Olympia.

Chicago went to the Garden for a Saturday afternoon National Hockey League game riding an 11-game unbeaten streak on Rangers' home ice that dated back to March 4, 1964.

However, Chicago got a surprise as the Rangers played inspiring hockey and beat the Black Hawks 6-4 before 13,102 persons, who managed to get to the rink despite the New York transit strike.

The victory also snapped New York's losing streak at three games.

The Canadiens visited Detroit Sunday night looking for their first victory in 12 games against the Red Wings at the Olympia, but were stopped 4-2 by netminder Roger Crozier and the rest of the Red Wings.

Montreal's winless streak at Detroit dates back to Feb. 16, 1964.

Sunday's other games saw Boston edge the Rangers 3-1 and Chicago beat Toronto 5-3.

The Rangers were unable to put two victories together as rookie goalie Bernie Parent sparked the last-place Bruins over the fifth-place Rangers Sunday night.

The victory ended a six-game Boston losing streak and was only the second in 15 starts for the Bruins—both against the Rangers.

Pit Martin, Murray Oliver and Dean Prentice scored for the Bruins. John McKenzie was line New York marksman.

Third-period goals by Paul Henderson and Norm Ullman carried the Red Wings to their victory over Montreal Sunday.

Ron Murphy and defenceman Doug Barkley scored the other Detroit goals while Gilles Tremblay and Dick Duff scored for Montreal.

Crozier was brilliant in the nets, making 40 saves during the game, including 17 in the final period.

The Canadiens, led by goaltender Charlie Hodge with his first shutout of the season, easily overwhelmed the Bruins Saturday night.

Hodge was making his 12th appearance in the Montreal net, while Lorne (Gump) Worsley has played in the other games. Hodge made 23 saves, including several tough ones in the early minutes of the first period.

Three Montreal scorers picked up their 11th goals of the season — Henri Richard, Yvan Cournoyer and Gilles Tremblay. Other Montreal marksmen were defenceman Jacques Laperriere, Red Berenson and John Ferguson.

Hull might have required six stitches Saturday but it didn't stop him from scoring his 32nd goal in 30 games Sunday night against the Leafs.

Other Chicago marksmen Sunday were Hay, Len Lunde, Doug Mohns and Eric Nesterenko.

Red Kelly, Bob Pulford and Frank Mahovlich scored for the Leafs.

The Black Hawks now have 45 points in the league standings, three more than Montreal and Detroit, who are tied for second place. Toronto is in fourth spot with 35 points, followed by the Rangers with 23. Boston is in sixth place with 17 points.

Palmer Survives Case of Bogeys

Captures LA Tourney Despite 73 Last Round

PAUL HARNEY
. . . nearly three straight

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—"Hurricane Arnie" Palmer weathered a storm largely of his own making Sunday when he shot a final-round two-over-par 73 but still managed to win the Los Angeles Open and pick up a check for $11,000.

Going into the final round of the year's first event, on the annual PGA run for the riches, Palmer had a seven-stroke lead. He contracted a slight case of the bogeys but hung in there to win by three strokes.

His 72-hole score was 273—11 under par for Rancho Municipal course—on rounds of 72-66-62-73.

This was the husky Pennsylvanian's second LA title. He won in 1963 with a total of 274.

The pay cheque ran moneybags Palmer's official PGA winnings to $654,982.17—highest of any pro golfer.

DETERMINED RUSH

Defending champion Paul Harney made a determined rush at Palmer in the final round and at one point was only one stroke behind him but then had a backbreaking bogey on the 17th hole when his tee shot went into the crowd.

Harney finished at 276 in a tie with Miller Barber, San Antonio, Texas, veteran. A final round of 67 by both Harney and Barber was not enough to close the gap. Harney's earlier rounds were 71-71-67. Barber turned in 71-69-67.

Surprise of the tournament was 24-year-old Dave Stockton, San Bernardino, Calif., who finished in fourth place with 71-69-69-68—277, which was seven under par.

SLOW START

Harney and Barber each won $5,250, and Stockton got $3,700. In his first full year in the pro ranks in 1965, Stockton won a total of only $5,410.

Behind Stockton at 278 were a pair of seasoned pros, Dave Ragan and Billy Casper. Ragan, co-leader with young Steve Oppermann after the first round, and undisputed leader at the halfway mark, finished with a 69 to go with his earlier 67-70-72. Casper had rounds of 70-71-66-71. They each won $3,050.

Another fairly grizzled veteran, Texan Don January, had 72-71-66-70—279 — Good for $2,550.

Most of the pros headed for the San Diego Open which starts Thursday at the Stardust Country Club in Mission Valley but winner Palmer will rest for a week at Palm Springs and resume competition in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur at Pebble Beach, Calif., Jan. 17.

ONLY ONE EVENT

Palmer won only one event in 1965, the tournament of champions at Las Vegas, and he finished a comparatively low No. 10 on the PGA money list with $57,700.

He was happy about his performance here. "I haven't played much since last October," he said. "I need to develop a little more confidence. My game needs a little sharpening."

That's the Palmer method — as aging students of fine handwriting will recall.

George Knudson of Toronto was the only Canadian money-winner, finishing with a 68 for 281. Two other Torontonians finished far back, Jerry Magee at 292 and Al Balding at 299.

Header Thwarts Arsenal

LONDON (Reuters)—A flying header by Scottish international centre-half Ron Yeats five minutes from the end gave Liverpool, English League soccer leader, a 1-0 away win over Arsenal Saturday and enabled it to keep a two-point hold at the top of the standings.

It was a victory the Liverpool team hardly deserved for it was defending desperately at times against an Arsenal squad inspired by inside-forward George Eastham.

Burnley, which also won 1-0 Saturday, stays in second place. Its victim was the bottom club in the First Division, Fulham, which needs points desperately to stay in the top division.

Fulham brought back goalkeeper Tony Macedo after a long absence through injury. He was in great form but could do nothing about Burnley's goal, scored in the 38th minute by right-back John Angus.

Third in the table is Leeds, which brought off a fine 2-1 away win at West Bromwich.

TAKES 2-0 LEAD

Centre-forward Alan Peacock swung the game Leeds' way when he scored four minutes from halftime. Johnny Giles ensured the win with a goal from a penalty 13 minutes from the end. West Bromwich Albion scored later.

A distinguished crowd — including World Cup delegates from Italy, Bulgaria and Portugal, and Bela Guttman, manager of Benfica of Portugal, United's European Cup opponent—saw Manchester United lose ground slightly in the English League championship battle by drawing at home to Sunderland. It retained a challenging fourth place, however.

Sunderland, forced to make six changes, appeared to be in for a rough time when George Best sent United into the lead in the seventh minute.

Huddersfield is clear leader in the Second Division following its 2-0 home win over Southampton, which was delayed by fog and arrived only four minutes from the kickoff.

MILLWAL AT TOP

In the Third Division, leader Millwal still is at the top. It drew 1-1 against Bristol Rovers but was lucky to get a point. Rovers missed a penalty in the last few seconds.

There was a big upset in the Fourth Division, leader Torquay United being beaten 4-0 at home by Darlington.

Darlington centre - forward Bobby Cummings scored three goals to bring his goal total to 13 since he was signed from Newcastle two months ago.

Torquay has been replaced at the top by Tranmere, 3-1 winner at Aldershot.

In Scotland, Celtic has gone 23 games without defeat by beating Dundee United with the only goal of the game.

Rangers got back to winning ways with a 3-0 triumph over St. Johnstone. Rangers still are the chief challengers to Celtic.

Esquimalt Not Even Half Safe

Esquimalt High wasn't good enough by half when they lost an exhibition hoop contest 58-28 to South Burnaby High at Esquimalt Saturday nigh.

In other weekend games, Cowichan defeated South Burnaby, 38-36, and St. Louis College put down Esquimalt, 36-21.

CANUCKS CLIPPED

Blades Perk Up, Turn Back Seals

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles came from behind with three goals in the final period to snap a four-game losing streak and defeat the San Francisco Seals 4-2 in Western Hockey League action here Sunday night.

The victory gave the last-place Blades 24 points in league play, while the Seals remained in fourth spot with 28 points. Los Angeles and San Francisco are now tied in season play with four wins each.

Trailing 2-1, the Blades came to life early in the final period, when defenceman Jake Hendrickson slappd home a 40-footer to tie the score.

Centre Norm Johnson broke the tie at 9:01, trapping the puck past goalie Jack McCartan to put the Blades ahead.

Winger Leo Labine, who tallied Los Angeles' opening goal in the first period, scored his 100th goal in four years of WHL play by ramming a 35-foot shot into an empty San Francisco net with 1' seconds left to play. The Seals had pulled McCartan from the goal to give them an extra forward on the ice.

SCHMAUTZ IN FRONT

In other WHL action over the weekend the Buckaroo's Cliff Schmautz lost and found his league goal-scoring lead.

After giving the honors up Friday he regained them Saturday when he personally sank the Vancouver Canucks in Portland with a timely hat trick.

Billy McNeill fired both Canuck markers in the 4-2 Portland win.

Oak Bay, Vic High Win, Lose

VANCOUVER—Oak Bay High dropped Lord Byng 59-36 in an exhibition basketball contest here Saturday.

Victoria High School Totems didn't fare so well on their Vancouver junket, losing out to a sharp-shooting Burnaby Central squad, 49-42.

Brian MacKenzie put in 15 points for the Oak Bay boys and Ollie Moilanen was top scorer for Vic High with 15.

POISED FOR VICTORY

England Leads by 182

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (Reuters)—England is poised for victory at the end of the third day's play in the third cricket Test here after making Australia follow on 267 runs behind.

With two days left for play, Australia is still 182 runs behind with seven second-innings wickets standing.

Scores: England 488; Australia 221 and 85 for three.

Australia, which resumed its first innings at Saturday's total of 113 for four, was wrecked by a devastating spell of new ball bowling by David Brown who took three wickets in one over immediately after lunch.

Brown dismissed David Sincock, Neil Hawke and Wally Grout and finished with figures of five wickets for 63 runs.

Wicketkeeper Jim Parks caught and stumped a total of five victims in the innings. Parks missed equalling Grout's world world record of six dismissals when he dropped Graham McKenzie.

Chinooks Breeze Home —It Wasn't Pulsating

By HAL MALONE

Victoria 68, Killarney 31

Along about 15 minutes into the first half Saturday night Harold Turner turned to the press table and said "I'd be a lot more comfortable if we could score a few points."

Mr. Turner is the manager of Victoria Chinooks, national junior men's basketball champions of Canada. His club was playing Killarney, everybody's patsy in the Intercity Junior League. "Playing" might be stretching it. What both teams were doing could hardly be called basketball.

Killarney had a built-in excuse. Make that excuses. This was their third game in four nights. They are the youngest team in the league. This is the their first year. Sometimes they look like they haven't been introduced.

They are coached by Ritchie Nicol, the former Victoria Domino-Vancouver Hornets' ace. Mr. Nicol's thatch was grey before the season started. Now it's turning white and not only his hairdresser knows why.

	GP	W	L	Pts.
CHINOOKS	10	9	1	18
UBC Jayvees	9	8	1	16
Vancouver YMCA	10	7	3	14
Kerrisdale	9	3	6	6
North Shore	9	3	6	6
CYO Saints	9	2	7	4
Killarney	10	1	9	2

"A nice bunch of kids," was the way Nicol appraised them. "Most of them are 17. I think there are two 18-year-olds." The junior age maximum is 21. Obviously Mr. Nicol is building for the future. He may have a long wait and several ulcers in the interim.

WHA' HOPPENED?

Killarney was shellacked 125-55 Wednesday by UBC Jayvees. YMCA manhandled Killarney 64-27 Thursday.

But here in the first half Saturday at Central Junior High, the Canadian champions had Killarney down 21-6 with seven minutes, 46 seconds left. Between then and the tea-time whistle Chinooks scored six (6?) points. Against any team but Killarney this would have been tantamount to being caught in a snowslide without a shovel.

Killarney actually outscored Chinooks in that period of time when Turner turned blue, seven points to six, something akin to the New York Mets shelling Sandy Koufax. The fact they trailed Chinooks 27-13 was less a tribute to their brilliance than to Chinooks' inability to hit the side of Central let alone the hoop.

Admittedly resident genius Ollie Goldsmith had his primary echelon on the bench, gathering splinters. Admittedly, the Chinooks were experimening with a new offence ("we are weak in the key so we set up four men in a box and tried screens"—Goldsmith). Admittedly a weak club can make a strong squad look ill.

But six points in nearly eight minutes against Killarney, the dogpatch dandies! Ouch! Try that against Jayvees when they step into Central next Saturday and they'll lose their underwear.

In the second half, Chinooks stepped out and walked away. But they still weren't hitting with uncanny accuracy. If Killarney was bad in the first half, they did something about it in the last 20 minutes. They got worse.

They overloaded one side of the floor, shot with nobody in position to get the rebound, gave the ball away as if it had turned moldy.

When it was over, Goldsmith acknowledged that this was not one of Chinooks' grandest performances. When cooler understatements are made he will make them, standing in a snowbank in his pyjamas.

"We're not trying to get to our peak until it counts," Goldsmith said.

It counts, for Chinooks, next Saturday. Jayvees have averaged 99.4 points over their last five games. They are higher than some people on New Year's Eve.

Killarney—Sean O'Connor 1, Ron Olynyk 10, Mike Thompson, Fred Hinmueller 4, Brian Evans, Jack Burdett 2, Murray West 8, Dave Evans 6. Total —31.

Chinooks—Barry Burch 5, Rick Humber, Don Frampton 10, Ken Jackson 17, Brian Brumwell 4, Barney Spaven 13, Barry Turner 6, Doug Gregory, Ron Bowker 13, Ron Stubbings. Total—68.

Jayvees Roll On

NORTH SHORE HAS SURPRISE FOR 'Y'

Virtually no teams in the Intercity Junior Basketball League except Victoria Chinooks and UBC Jayvees have been able to look YMCA in the eye this season. But on Sunday somebody forgot to tell North Shore.

The mountain men, winners of only two games in eight attempts, lanced Lance Hudson's Y crew 63-57. The victory pulled North Shore into a tie for fourth place with Kerrisdale.

In other mainland action, the predictable ensued when UBC Jayvees walloped hapless CYO 104-45 Saturday to snug into second place only two points behind Chinooks.

Mike Dowty's 18-point barrage enable North Shore to overcome a 33-28 halftime deficit Sunday.

Ross Molbert led Y with 20 digits.

Sam Vandermeulen was Jayvees' brightest light, finishing with 27 points. Glen Carter and Bob Molinski split 25. CYO's Bob Kelsch had 22.

SPLIT WITH CZECHS

No Eye-to-Eye On Canadians

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto hockey fans weren't impressed with Canada's national hockey team in their 5-1 loss to Czechoslovakia Sunday, but the feeling was mutual as far as Canadian coach Jackie McLeod was concerned.

The Canadians drew a chorus of boos from the Maple Leaf Gardens crowd of 8,041.

But the reaction didn't appear to bother McLeod.

"If we listened to the fans in Toronto, we would give up now," he said. "We get this every time we play here."

McLeod said his nationals beat the Czechs by four goals (7-3) Saturday night in Kitchener "when we played well and had everything going for us."

He said the Czechs had everything going for them Sunday, and played well, and Canada lost by four goals.

Vladimir Bouzek, coach of the Czechs, agreed.

Saturday night Canada played the way they can and we didn't. Today we played the game the way we should and they didn't."

BOTH HAVE CHANCE

He said both Canada and Czechoslavakia have a chance to beat the Russians in world play this year.

McLeod said he thought the Czech goaltender made a big difference. Vladimir Dzurilla, who makes most of his stops with his stick, turned away some hard close-in shots by Canada in every period.

"He's one of the best goaltenders in Europe," said Bouzek. "He played his best today."

McLeod said the Canadians couldn't get untracked.

"We set up some good plays, but couldn't get them finished. We waited too long, and didn't shoot enough. "But don't write us off on that game. Everybody has a bad one now and then and we're a lot better than that."

FINISH TOUR

Czechoslovakia won four, lost three and tied one during an eight-game North American tour, which included the Walter Brown tournament at Colorado Springs, Colo., last month. Czechoslovakia drew nine of the 11 minor penalties but the Canadians only once managed to penetrate the tight defensive pattern set up by the Czechs while shorthanded. Defenceman George Faulkner scored on a first-period power play on passes from Jackie McLeod and Gary Begg.

On Saturday Faulkner netted two goals for Canada on pretty plays with Gary Dineen and Fran Huck.

Other goals were scored by Paul Conlin, Dineen, Rick McCann, Terry O'Malley and McLeod. Dineen, joining the team for one of his few appearances thi. year, also had four assists.

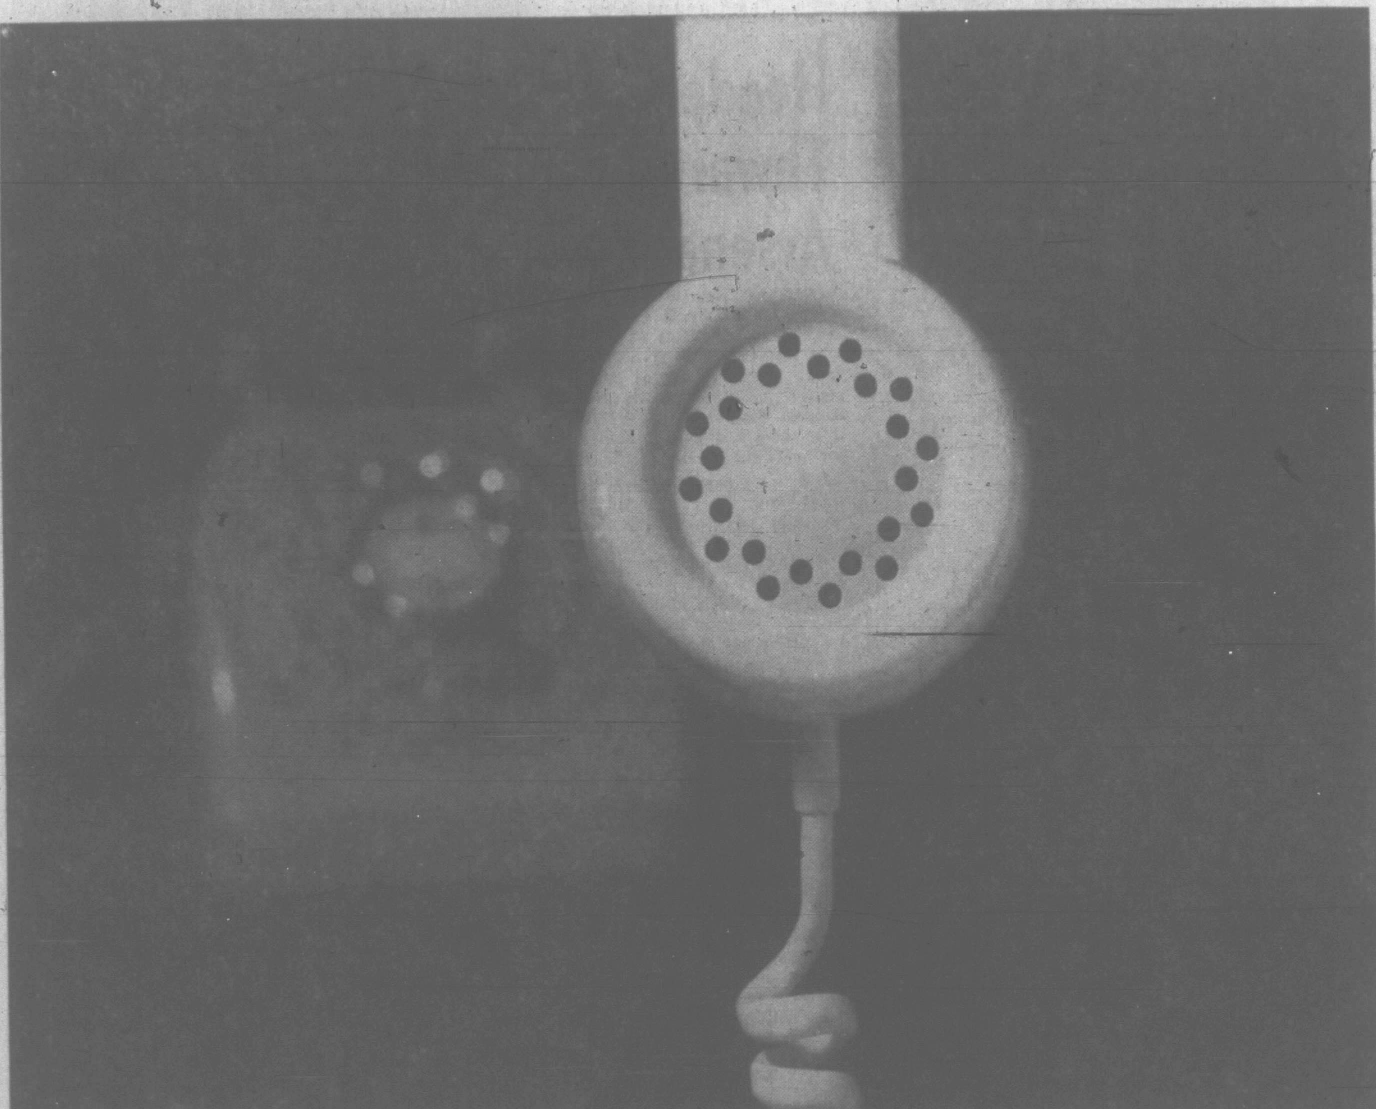
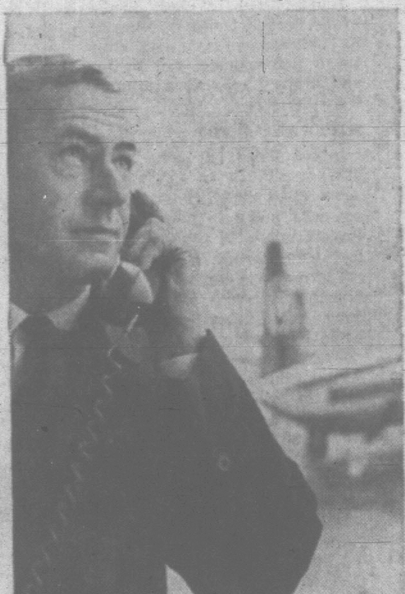
Salesman-of-the-year



The secret of making a business grow is, in most cases, quite simple—win more and more customers spread over a wider and wider area. Nothing helps you find them, sell them, satisfy them and re-sell them so quickly and economically as the skilled use of your telephone. Here are just a few profit-making ideas.



Call for Orders

This big-city truck dealer has no problem about keeping in touch with his many customers and prospects in distant parts of the province.

Head office sales staff follow up leads, arrange demonstrations, solicit orders and maintain contact with established customers by a carefully planned routine of Long Distance calls.

Think of the convenience! He has his customers at his fingertips and keeps right up with their requirements. Cost is negligible compared with operating local offices.

Finally, this dealer also lists a ZENITH number in key centres like Nanaimo, Kamloops and Prince George. It enables customers and prospects there to call him without cost to themselves—another valuable business-builder!

Salesman on the Wing

This salesman is on a trip through his company's market area, extending from Vancouver to the Lakehead. One of the most useful things he carries is his B.C. TEL Long Distance Credit Card.

This enables him to make Long Distance calls from anywhere. He uses it constantly to confirm appointments at his next stopover and contact inconveniently located accounts.

He also keeps in daily touch, of course, with head office: reporting on progress; channelling orders, queries and complaints for fast action; collecting fresh leads as he flies from point to point.

His periodic "swing through the territory" is quite an expensive item of overhead. Long Distance ensures, at minimum cost, that his company gets every last cent of value from it.

"Touring" by Phone

This busy Sales Manager "tours" his area in a morning—with B.C. TEL's Sequence Calling service.

He simply gives the operator the list of Long Distance numbers he wants. She gets them for him in the right order and at the intervals most convenient for his other work.

He holds regular Conference Calls, too, with his company's three other offices in Calgary, Winnipeg and Toronto—all four of them on the line together, talking and listening as though they were in the same room.

There's no end to the profit-making uses of properly planned Long Distance calling. Ask one of our experienced Communication Consultants to explain some of the possibilities for your business—naturally without obligation. Contact him TODAY.

"In Victoria Call 386-2211"

If calling long distance, ask the operator for ZENITH 7000 (there is no charge).

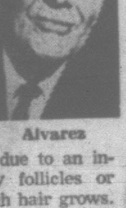
Illness or Tragedy Can Bring Baldness

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ



Alvarez

I get many letters a month from people who wonder if something can't be done to stop their loss of hair. As I have said here before, if someone loses suddenly a lot of hair just three months after some serious illness or some tragedy, a bad automobile accident, or the death of a loved one, this is probably due to an injury to the tiny follicles or pits in which each hair grows.

When the follicles are injured by the illness or the tragedy, or even so ordinary a happening as having a baby, the hair comes out at the end of three months, because it has been pushed out by the new hair growing up through the follicle. Similarly, if a man loses a fingernail after hitting it with a hammer, the old nail is pushed out by the new nail that starts growing in the "nailbed." When hair falls out because of a serious temporary injury to the follicles, it is likely to grow out again quickly without any treatment.

If, however, the follicles are permanently damaged, no amount of treatment that I know of will cause the hair to grow back. I have seen people who suddenly lost all their hair on the head and their body. Why this happens, sometimes no physician can guess.

Young men who are beginning to get bald write asking if something can't be done to save their hair from falling out. Some admit that they are getting the same type of baldness their father had; some are getting their father's fuzzy bald head, while other's are getting their uncle's shiny bald head. I never learned of any sure way of avoiding baldness.

* * *

One of the most miserable types of balding is the so-called "alopecia areata," in which the baldness occurs in small round areas perhaps an inch and a half in diameter. I have seen this often in youngsters. I turn them over to a skin specialist.

In many cases, especially when a child gets bald, kind parents will quickly buy a wig so as to save the youngster from much teasing from his or her schoolmates.

Some persons will go and pay $100 or more to a quack, but I never met anyone who said his baldness had been cured by an advertising "hair specialist."

A good skin specialist will try to stir up the growth of hair by using perhaps Grenz rays (which are something like very soft, weak X-rays) or ointments which may stimulate the hair follicles in the scalp. The value of any treatment for baldness is hard to estimate, because if the person gets hair back, who knows whether he would have gotten it back without any treatment.

Full Autonomy Recommended

EDMONTON (CP) — A committee of the board of governors and faculty of the University of Alberta Friday recommended complete autonomy for the university's Calgary and Edmonton campuses.

"Each university should have the maximum possible freedom to develop as it seems best," the committee said in a report to the provincial government. Future universities also should be autonomous.

The report is expected to be a guide to revision of the Alberta University Act of 1942. The government has indicated it probably will present revisions when the legislature opens Feb. 17.

Brenda Starr New Comic Strip

A new daily comic strip starts on this page today. It centres around Brenda Starr, glamorous girl reporter for "The Flash."

As we pick up the sequence today, Brenda has been investigating some curious phenomena in one of the local auto graveyards. Seems there's been a weird character—almost half-human, half beast—seen prowling among the old wrecks and committing minor acts of violence against intruders.

Sparky, as this character is called, turns out to be a girl, dressed (if you want to call it that) to look like a filthy male grease monkey. Working with broken-down cars is her life. By hook or crook she manages to scrounge a meagre living for herself and her incapacitated father who owns the business. Their lot is not a happy one.

After a series of escapades, Sparky suddenly discovers a fortune in currency hidden away in the upholstery of one of the abandoned autos. This, together with certain misadventures, brings her into the limelight of public attention. She's famous—and for the moment she's sitting on top of the world. But not for long. The legitimate owners of the money put in an appearance; they're an elderly widow and her son Arney, who operates an auto repair service. They make their claim and the money is returned to them.

Brenda, always the Good Samaritan, decides to take Sparky in hand and make "a lady" out of her. The first step in the process is a good scrubbing. This leads us to today's strip.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Mike R. Erickson, 9, of Fountain Valley, Calif., for his question:

What is a laser beam?

The Age of Science is somewhat like a super Christmas stocking. Its gifts are new ideas, inventions and discoveries. There are enough of these eye-popping packages for every day of the year. One of them is the laser that scientists discovered just a few years ago.

You will say the word laser correctly if you pretend that the letter s is a letter z. It is spelled l-a-s-e-r and pronounced as if it were spelled lazer. The laser beam is one of the most important discoveries of the Age of Science. At present it is used to work many small miracles, and experts are still learning what else it can do. In the future, laser beams will perform stupendous duties in radio and radar, in telephone and TV, in making machinery and fine metal work and even in the operating rooms of our hospitals.

A laser beam gives off a hot red beam of super light. An ordinary light beam fans out in all directions, getting paler as it goes. Its streaming energy pulses along on different wave lengths, and when they are split apart they become the countless colors of the rainbow. The ruby-red light waves of a laser travel in a tight, thin beam. Its wave lengths are close and all very much alike, and they have only one color to show.

Tremendous heat and light are packed and concentrated in the narrow laser beam. If a lens is used to focus it on a diamond, it can cut a hole a 10,000th part of an inch wide. It can weld the hardest of metals, even when they are encased in glass. Doctors can use it to weld severed parts of the eye and to burn diseased cells of the body. When pilots send out a laser beam it bounces back from distant ships and other solid objects.

Travels in Straight Line

It is a better range finder than radar. It is better at carrying radio and TV and voices than the systems we now use. In the future, we shall use laser beams for these and other communications. One narrow laser beam can carry many TV programs or telephone conversations without the choppy interference we often get with our present systems.

Laser beams can be created with pencil-shaped crystals or with certain gases. A laser may be a man-made ruby, sealed in a glass tube. It is triggered by a powerful flash of light. The thin beam escapes from one end of the tube and travels in one direction. It fans out to a width of only three inches in a mile, while an ordinary light beam spreads out at once in all directions.

A flash tube coiled around the crystal tube is turned on and its energy excites the atoms in the ruby. Ions get excited and infect other ions. A mirror at one end of the tube bounces their energetic heat and light back inside. The intense laser beam builds up and escapes through the other end of the tube, which is only partly covered with a mirror.

* * *

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Gary Moore, age 11, of Peterborough, Ont., Canada, for his question.

How does a comet get started?

Tracing the history of the solar system is a challenging job, but not an easy one. We cannot go back to observe the start of things or compare evidence from the earth with other planets. Most of the detective work must be done by figuring. Comets are members of the sun's family and so far we have only theories to suggest how the solar system started.

Most astronomers suspect that the planets condensed from scraps of debris, perhaps as the sun was formed. Comets are small bodies made mostly of ice and frozen gases. Their solid materials may have been cosmic debris that failed to join in the making of the planets. Their past is shrouded in mystery, but some of them have been chugging around for many centuries.

YOUNG REBEL GOES TO JAIL

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A four-year prison term has been imposed on a teen-age boy accused of taking part in an anti-war demonstration in violation of a probation order.

Thomas W. Rodd, 19, of the city's Point Breeze section, was sentenced Friday by Judge Louie Rosenberg of U.S. district court.

In 1964, Judge Rosenberg sentenced Rodd to five years in prison for refusing to register for the draft. The sentence was suspended and Rodd was placed on probation for five years.

Include Psychiatric Care In Scheme, Doctor Urges

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government was urged today to include psychiatric care in the coverage provided by the existing hospital insurance program.

In the keynote address at the fourth annual meeting of the Canadian Psychiatric Association, Dr. Charles A. Roberts of Toronto said "all discrimination against the mentally ill" should be removed from federal laws.

"Such action would have an impact out of all proportion to the federal funds involved," he said.

"It would surely give leadership to the provinces in their efforts to improve the administration of psychiatric services in Canada and would help to ensure to all Canadians the psychiatric services to which they are entitled."

Dr. Roberts is an associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Toronto.

CRITICAL OF ACT

He was particularly critical of the exclusion of the treatment of mental illness from benefits of the federal Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Act.

The act was primarily designed to provide adequate hospital services for all Canadians and if this objective was considered seriously, "there could be no greater case for the inclusion of mental hospitals under this program.

"One can only hope that somewhere, at some time, someone will appear with sufficient conviction, courage, and social conscience to undertake the kind of political action which apparently is necessary to correct this continued injustice."

Dr. Roberts said it was reassuring though to learn of Prime Minister Pearson's letter and telegram to the Canadian Mental Health Association stating that psychiatric care would be paid for under the same arrangements as physical illness in the proposed federal-provincial medical insurance scheme.

Engineer's Group Seeks Wider Powers

The new issue of B.C. Gazette said the association will ask for a completely new act to replace completely new act to replace the present Engineering Profession Act under which it regulates professional engineers.

Among features of the proposed act would be:

A more precise definition of what professional engineers do; permission to enrol any graduates of an approved institution rather than restricting it to engineering faculties

The Association of B.C. Professional Engineers later this month will ask the legislature for wider powers to enrol persons in its association and control them more strictly.

A private bills notice in the at these institutions; permission to set up a sub-organization to enrol engineering technicians and technologists.

Other provisions would permit engineers "to bargain collectively with their employers," define "conduct unbecoming a member," set up a disciplinary committee for preliminary investigation of complaints against a member, control the conditions under which engineers may practice temporarily in the province, and raise the maximum penalty for offences under the act to a fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for three months.

35-Hour Week, Pay Hike Asked By Carpenters

Vancouver To Set Pattern

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Labor Reporter

Carpenters in British Columbia are seeking a seven-hour work day and a 36-hour week in contract negotiations which began this morning.

They are also seeking a 65-cent raise this year and a further 25 cents in April, 1967.

Current hourly rate for all carpenters in B.C. is $3.49. But because of the seasonal nature of the work, the average work year throughout the province is about nine months.

The present work day is eight hours for a 40-hour week. The current province-wide contract expires in April.

NO STATEMENTS

Talks began this morning between the Provincial Council of Carpenters and the Vancouver Construction Association. A spokesman said at noon it was agreed there will be no statements for newspapers.

Agreement in Vancouver sets the pattern for the rest of the province, although contractors are trying to establish one province-wide association of their own for bargaining and other purposes.

The Provincial Council of Carpenters represents 29 locals with a membership of about 8,000. There are about 700 members of the union's Local 1598 in Greater Victoria.

$2.07 TO START

Other bargaining points sent to contractors around the province include a starting wage for apprentices of $2.07 an hour and three weeks' vacation instead of two.

The president of the Victoria Building Industries Exchange, Bill Dillabough, said the association has been approached by the union but no definite date has been set for talks here.

He said the carpenters are aiming high "and will split down the middle somewhere. It's happened so often."

EVERYTHING from toques to topcoats here awaits shipment by Unitarian Service Committee to needy Koreans. Clothing, added to the more than $13,000 of Times-sponsored Children of Asia fund, will be sent to join the 2,500 pounds which left before Christmas. Total of 10,000 pounds goes overseas from Victoria each year to USC Asian projects. (Times Photo.)

VISITS NEMATODE AREA

'Here to Listen To Farmers' Says Minister

Canada's new Agriculture Minister Joseph Greene today had a look at the spot where one of his most complicated problems began.

He stopped for a quick look at the J. H. Thompson farm on Martindale Road in Central Saanich where the first discovery of Golden Nematode—a dreaded root crop pest around the world—was made last summer.

Dr. W. P. Campbell, chief of the federal department's plant protection division, who accompanied the minister from Ottawa, gave him a hurried briefing in the field before the party drove into Victoria for a meeting with a farmers' delegation to discuss the nematode problem.

CLOSETED

The minister was closeted in the meeting for most of the three hours he was scheduled to spend in the city as part of a familiarization tour of Western Canada.

Dr. Campbell, who is in charge of the nematode project and spent several weeks here last year, was to remain for about two weeks for further discussions with farmers regarding compensation formulae for those whose fields have been quarantined by federal orders.

Mr. Greene met with Charles Walls, manager of the B.C. Federation, and local farmers Geoffrey Vantreight, representing the root crop and bulb growers, and Ed Lohbrunner, representing nurserymen.

Mr. Greene's only comment to reporters was that he had come to hear what the farmers had to say.

It was understood the meeting would go into the questions of how affected farmers—about nine major potato producers are affected directly and all root crop growers are affected indirectly — should be compensated.

Some farmers want to cleanse their fields which would take up to 20 years in some cases and others wish to sell their lands and relocate elsewhere.

MET BY GROOS

Mr. Greene was met at the airport by Victoria MP David Groos who used to be his seatmate in the House of Commons before he received the cabinet appointment.

The minister arrived in a Department of Transport Viscount accompanied by Dr. Campbell, deputy minister Dr. S. C. Barry, S. B. Williams, assistant deputy minister; John Channon, grain advisor; Ralph Bennett, livestock director, and Bruce Beer, MP for Peel County and parliamentary secretary to Mr. Greene.

On Sunday Mr. Green met Agriculture Minister Frank Richter of B.C. in Penticton along with representatives of tree fruit farmers.

The federal minister was to see other farm representatives in Vancouver before leaving for visits to Alberta, Saskatchewan and Winnipeg centres.

Marked Bills Found On Accused: Crown

Marked currency bills, said to have been stolen from a safe in a Victoria feed store, were produced in B.C. Assize Court here today.

They were alleged to have been taken from a safe in the Clark and Cordick feed supply store, 2503 Douglas Street, on Sept. 9 and later found in the possession of Steve Remington of Victoria and Shirley Lalonde of Seattle.

Both pleaded not guilty to one charge of breaking and entering the store and stealing $175 in cash, and a second charge of being in unlawful possession of cash under $50.

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy said some of the currency bills taken from the safe were marked and their numbers had been recorded.

One of the marked bills was found in the possession of Remington when he was arrested at 634 Toronto St. the same morning. Another was recovered from Miss Lalonde that afternoon when she was searched by a medical officer.

Mr. Murphy said the feed store was broken into on the night of Sept. 8 or the early morning of Sept. 9.

THROUGH SKYLIGHT

The store was entered through a skylight and a safe was taken from the front office to the rear of the building where it was pried open and cash removed.

The theft was discovered when the manager opened the premises at 7:45 a.m. Two hours later Victoria police arrested the two accused at 634 Toronto Street.

Mr. Murphy said Remington turned over a sum of money in his possession and one of the bills was marked. Later he surrendered the clothing he was wearing and one of his shoes was marked with a substance known as safe ballast.

Counsel said this substance came from the safe which had been pried open.

Miss Lalonde was examined by a medical doctor and certain bills were recovered from her person. One of the bills was marked and corresponded with the record of a marked bill taken from the safe.

Mr. Murphy said he would call police witnesses concerning the arrest of the accused and the money found in their possession.

12-MAN JURY

The trial, which continued this afternoon, is being heard by Mr. Justice Victor Dryer and a 12-man jury selected from a panel of 42.

Earlier, Mr. Justice Dryer addressed the jury panel on their rights and responsibilities under democratic law.

"You and I represent the country in this case and we must observe our oath with all due conscience of the responsibility involved."

Long Distance Calls Dropping Up to 55 Cents

Overnight and Sunday point-to-point long-distance calls outside B.C. will drop by up to 55 cents per three-minute connection, B.C. Telephone said today.

The new rates are proposed by Trans-Canada Telephone System to be effective March 6, subject to Board of Transport approval.

No changes are contemplated in daytime weekday person-to-person and short-haul calls, the company said.

But B.C. Tel said its own rate schedule for long-distance calls within the province is under study.

The company said no further comment could be made on details of the review, but added that it is part of continuing studies with a view to "protecting subscriber interests."

HEAVIER TRAFFIC

The national changes are planned due to increased volume in long-distance traffic, the use of direct dialing and more efficiency in transmission.

Reductions apply to calls made for distances of more than 600 miles.

There would be no reduction, for instance, for calls between Victoria and Alberta points.

Some sample rates compared with existing rates would be: Victoria-Toronto reduced from $2.35 to $1.95; Victoria-Saskatoon $1.65-$160; Victoria Regina $1.70-$1.65; Victoria - Winnipeg $2-$1.85; Victoria-Montreal $2.50-$1.95; Victoria-Halifax $2.50-$1.95.

Additional rates per minute were to be reduced proportionately.

Impaired Driver Jailed 3 Months

A man with two previous impaired driving convictions today was jailed three months when he pleaded guilty in central court to his third offence.

Court was told Bunt Bains, 617 Manchester, was involved in a minor rear-end collision at 6:15 p.m. Jan. 3 at Douglas and Burnside.

He hit the rear of an auto stopped for a red light and caused about $25 damage. It was snowing at the time.

Court was told he was convicted of impaired driving in October, 1961, and jailed 14 days and previously in Duncan in 1957 when he was fined $150.

Burglars Kick Down Arena Door

Thieves got about $300 in cash and goods in weekend break-ins in the city.

The south end concessions at Memorial Arena were broken into overnight Saturday and $18.50 in cigarettes and candy taken.

Thieves kicked in the store room door to get at the goods.

A skeleton key was used on the back door at the home of Henry Jarvis, 1239 Vista Heights, where a bottle of gin and $30 in American funds were taken, police said.

A thief took $145 from a bathroom powder box in the Imperial Inn room of Miss Loa C. Kinney, Vancouver, Saturday night.

And a portable radio valued at $70 was stolen from the auto of William O. Mills, 3151 Glasgow, when it was parked at the Ingraham Hotel Saturday night, police said.

TOUGH CONDITIONS

'Admiral' Ashe Adds Still Another Laurel

Ned Ash, 71-year-old "admiral" of the yacht-racing community in Greater Victoria, added another winning ribbon to his sailing toque on Sunday.

In a nine-mile race off Sidney, the winner of last year's Little Swiftsure classic captured first place in the third of a winter racing series for large boats.

He had to contend with strong rip tides and southeasterly wind that blew at 30-knot gale force, gusting to 40.

With his own 26-foot Thunderbird sloop, "May D 11" ashore under wraps for the winter, Ashe borrowed the 20-foot Cal 20 "Santorin", which with two others were the smallest to enter the seven-boat marathon.

The other Cal 20 competitors were George Dufour's "Galenaia" which placed fourth and Peter Young's "Windless Too" which ended up in fifth position.

Crewing with Ned Ashe was Doug Beer, another competent sailor and builder of catamarans, who has captured his own share of silverware in his craft, "Bearcat".

Runner-up to Ashe was Theo De La Mare in his 35-foot sloop, "Tandem". De La Mare had captured top place in the first two of the winter series.

In third place was the 37-foot Warrior sloop, "Concubine", owned and skippered by Frank Bush.

DESIC

One of the most enthusiastic members of "Concubine"'s crew was Ray Richards, marine surveyor and architect, who designed her. "Concubine" was built in the local Philbrook's yard, being completed early last fall.

The 25-foot sloop "Trio," owned and skippered by A. A. Stuart Law, placed sixth, while seventh was the 32-foot Nova Scotian-built sloop, "Te-Pah," skippered by owner Don Lawson.

Two more races are planned for the winter series. The next will be sailed in early February and the final contest the following month.

While most owners of larger boats put them under wraps for the winter, this year a small but enthusiastic group of skippers decided to initiate the new program. Much of the planning has been under the leadership of Theo De La Mare.

Sunday's race had been scheduled for the previous week but the weather forced postponement. On Sunday crews were busy cleaning ice off decks of competing boats almost up to the time they left the jetties for the starting line off Armstrong Point.

Acting as committee boat was Oliver R. Summers' motor-sailer "Canadian Fifer," and official starter was fleet captain Neville Life.

RAIN, HAIL

Snow's Gone But Winter Hangs About

It's not spring yet.

The snow may be gone — in most places — but Victoria is not being spared the worst the elements can do in other directions.

Hail fell in several areas Saturday afternoon for about half an hour and was described as "quite heavy" by the Gonzales weather bureau.

Rain over the weekend measured more than a third of an inch.

MOVING EAST

It was attributed to a series of weather disturbances moving eastwards. They are responsible for the alternate cloudy and bright periods which are still prevailing.

They also caused wetness elsewhere on the west coast, up to three inches in some places.

Weather will probably clear up tonight, with an expected night temperature of 30 to 32 degrees.

But rain is expected again Tuesday afternoon and evening.

No change is in sight from the present will-it or won't-it-rain conditions, says the weather office.

Perhaps coming with the dampness, robins were seen at a trailer sales office at 2435 Trans-Canada Highway.

Might mean an early spring.

Or maybe they just don't know when to go in out of the rain.

Trial Set On Damage Allegation

Alan H. Robinson, 22, of 2843 Blackwood, pleaded not guilty to wilful damage over $50 when he appeared in central court today.

The charge arose out of a Boxing Day brawl when a group of youths broke into a house party at a Saanich home.

They beat up four men at the residence, broke furnishings and frightened women, police said earlier.

Robinson earlier pleaded guilty to assaulting Joseph Rivard, owner of the home at 200 West Maddock.

Kent Freeman Henley, 1114 Marchant's Rd., has been charged with creating a disturbance by fighting.

Three other youths are sought in connection with the brawl and warrants have been issued for their arrests

Robinson was remanded to Jan. 20 for trial.

RECORD 1.6 MILLION IN CANADA

6.4% Boost in Union Members

Union membership in Canada last year was a record 1,589,000, says the federal labor department's annual survey of labor organizations

This is 96,000 higher than the previous year, or 6.4 per cent. The percentage increase was the highest since 1956.

Union members represented 29.7 per cent of the non-farm paid workers compared with 29.4 per cent in the previous year.

Nearly three-quarters of all union members belonged to organizations affiliated with the Canadian Labour Congress. In most cases, these unions also were affiliated with the AFL-CIO in the United States.

The biggest union continued to be the United Steelworkers of America, with 110,000 members.

The Canadian Union of Public Employees was second with 84,800 and the United Auto Workers third with 77,500.

In the United States, total union membership last year was 16,841,000 compared with 16,559,000 when the last survey was taken in 1962.

Medical Building Approved

Dr. R. A. Sutherland has been given the green light for a new medical building at 3040 Shelbourne Street, south of Hillside Avenue intersection.

Construction of the $18,000 building, designed by Dr. Sutherland, is expected to start shortly.

Morriss Printing Co., 1745 Blanshard, has also been granted permission to proceed with plans for a second storey on its existing plant.

Charles Morriss said the new floor costing $12,000 will be used for bookbinding work.

"We have just outgrown our existing facilities," he said this morning. "We hope to have the new floor in use in about two months time."

The company has bookbinding contracts with the University of British Columbia and various Toronto companies.

KITCHEN RENOVATION

On the hotel front the Dominion Hotel, 759 Yates Street, has been given permission to proceed with kitchen renovation plans.

"We are completely re-designing the kitchen to take care of growing demands," Bill Clark, manager, said. "The $10,500 job is part of our hotel re-design program. When it is completed we shall move on to the next phase of renovating the coffee shop."

The new kitchen will contain pressure cookers and a charcoal broiler for steaks.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the address of James Arness, who stars in Gunsmoke? J.E.P.

A. It is 1456 N. Bronson, Hollywood 28, California, according to Who's Who in America.

Q. A huge crop of thistles has come up in our field. Now they look dead but I know they will double in the spring. How can we get rid of them? E. S.

A. You are too late to burn the weeds as they have already scattered their seeds, so chemical control is needed, says Times gardening expert Hilda Beastall.

She suggests you telephone the provincial agriculture department to find out what chemicals can be used in your location.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

How About a New Figure To Go With the New Year?

This is the first in a series of 15 articles in which Josephine Lowman tells you exactly what to do to lose 20 pounds in eight weeks. Each column, in addition to specific information, contains sample menus and exercises to refer back to during the eight-week period.

It's a wonderful feeling when the bells ring in a new year! 1966 is a new sheet upon which we can write, and we all plan to record such wonderful things on it. It doesn't have the spilled ink of procrastination or the underlined mistakes of 1965. It is a brand-new clean sheet, waiting for us to write what we will.

Lowman

Of all the New Year's resolutions made, there is probably none women make so often as the resolve for self-improvement, the determination to lose discouraging, fatiguing and unattractive overweight, to streamline the figure, to improve posture, to take better care of complexion and hair; in other words, to become as lovely as possible.

That is why I bring you my Beauty Improvement Plan in January. I want to help you activate your New Year's resolutions while they are still young and enthusiastic. It is an eight-week plan and you can become a new you in eight short weeks. Thousands of women follow this plan each year with startling success, and over and over again, I have seen near-miracles happen in my classes in just eight weeks.

CLIP MENUS

For nine days I will bring you information and give you guidance so that you will be able to get along by yourself. After that, one article a week for six weeks will help you carry on. Each day I will print reducing menus for one day. I suggest that you clip these from your newspaper. You can repeat them, or if you study them, you will be able to plan similar menus. There are many simple tricks involved and I will analyze these for you early in the game.

Of course, the first thing you need to know is what your ideal weight is. Do not confuse your ideal weight with the average weight for your age. Most people gain weight as the years pass, but this is far from ideal.

Your ideal weight at 50 is the same as your ideal weight was at 25. Don't let this discourage you. You can lose that extra weight! Actually, I think that a woman may look younger and prettier if she weighs about five pounds more at 50 than at 25, but don't go haywire with this idea.

1100 CALORIES DAILY

As you will notice, the menus I am bringing you have around 1100 calories a day. For a loss of from 15 to 20 pounds in eight weeks, don't cut too much less than this.

This will give the average woman a loss of from 2 to 2½ pounds a week. This is as rapidly as you should lose for beautiful results, that is, if you have very much weight to lose.

If you have just a few pounds to lose, you can go after them more drastically, but when there is quite a lot of overweight, you must give your skin time to shrink to the new proportions gradually. Exercise is important to increase tone and redistribute weight most attractively

SAMPLE MENUS

BREAKFAST

Six ounces orange juice, one poached egg on toast, season with a dab of butter or margarine and sprinkle a little grated cheese on top, coffee with teaspoon of sugar.

LUNCHEON

One lean, small hamburger patty, broiled; one-half cup carrots or some yellow or green vegetable, one hard roll, one glass skim milk (8 oz.), one teaspoon butter or margarine may be used on vegetable and roll

DINNER

Shrimp cocktail — eight medium shrimp and a tablespoon chili sauce with a little lemon juice, medium slice of ham (not fried; cut off fat), one cup of broccoli, seasoned with lemon juice; one-half cup ice cream.

TOTAL calories for the day —1185.

All you have to do to join my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan is to follow the columns in this newspaper. If you would like to have the BIP Kit which gives you complete directions in a booklet and also contains a chart on which you can plot your progress and watch your beauty line rise as your weight line drops, send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling, with your printed name and address, to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

A Culture Pearl Necklace

FOR GOOD LUCK TALISMAN

A "something old" talisman, a culture pearl necklace given to her by her parents, was worn by Donna May Berger when she became the bride of Robert Christian Bloomfield Saturday evening.

Her gown of crystal sheer featured a fitted bodice with a bateau neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves. Deep pleats from the back neckline extended to a Veed waistline, and swept back to a train from a self-fabric rose. Her scallop-edged veil of silk illusion net misted from a floral headpiece starred with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of yellow rosebuds and white carnations.

Standard baskets of roses and carnations in yellow and white tones decorated Garden City United Church when Rev. R. Whitmore heard vows uniting the daughter of Kenneth G. Berger, 774 Burnside Road West, and the late Mrs. Berger, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Bloomfield, 2715 Forbes Street. Mr. Berger gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's attendants, matron of honor Mrs. Byron Bishop, and bridesmatrons Mrs. James O'Reilly and Mrs. Murray Davis were dressed identically in gowns of aqua-green sheer nylon over taffeta. The bodices featured scoop necklines. Floor-length trains extended from a bow at the back waistline. Wedding ring headpieces held their veils of soft net. They carried cascade bouquets of white and yellow carnations.

James Walker was best man at the ceremony, and guests were shown to their pews by James O'Riley and Randy Colley.

At the reception following in the Club Soho, which was decorated in the yellow and white theme for the occasion, the bride and groom cut a three-tier wedding cake decorated by the groom's mother. Yellow candles in silver candelbra flanked the cake. Lawrence Berger proposed the toast to his niece.

For travelling on honeymoon to Seattle, the new Mrs. Bloomfield chose a royal blue brocade suit with a white feather hat and black patent accessories. A corsage of yellow rosebuds and white carnations completed her ensemble.

TODAY'S RECIPE

BAKED BEEF SWIRLS

Two pounds ground lean beef, 2 eggs, 1 (10-ounce) can tomato soup, ¾ cup instant rolled oats, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups coarse soft bread crumbs, 2 cups (½ pound) shredded Canadian cheddar cheese, ¼ cup finely chopped onion, ½ cup finely chopped green pepper, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.

For the Meat Mixture:

Preheat oven to 325 deg. F. Turn meat into a bowl and break up with a fork. Add eggs, half the tomato soup, rolled oats, salt and pepper; combine thoroughly. Turn mixture out onto a sheet of waxed paper and pat into a rectangle, about ½-inch thick and 10 inches wide. Prepare filling.

For the Filling:

Combine bread crumbs, cheese, onion, green pepper, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce and the remaining ½ can of tomato soup. Spread this mixture evenly over meat. Roll up, jelly-roll fashion. Carefully cut into eight 1¼-inch slices. Place in a broad, shallow baking dish. Bake in preheated oven about one hour, draining off fat once or twice during baking.

Serves eight.

Crippled Woman Fights for Fares

TORONTO (CP) — A woman crippled by polio 60 years ago is battling with the department of national revenue over her taxi fares.

Margaret Robinson was stricken with polio at five. It left her paralyzed from the hips down, able to walk only with braces and a cane or crutches.

A bookkeeper until she retired this year, she lives in a bachelor apartment on her $76 a month pension.

Miss Robinson cannot climb stairs which means she can't take street cars or subways.

"Taxis are my bread and butter. Crippled people can't exist without them."

In 1963 and 1964 she listed taxi fares as business expenses and deducted them from her income tax. Tax officials say she owes the government that money. They garnisheed some of her final salary in the summer. They cannot garnishee her pension but if she tries to work to supplement it they could garnishee those wages.

"It's a matter of principle and I refuse to give in," Miss Robinson says. "The law must be changed. There are too many crippled people who need some help. I'm no old fuddy-duddy and I'm going to fight."

Several similar cases have been before the income tax appeal board and have been dismissed.

Realism Overdone—

EDINBURGH (CP)—Critics praised the realistic production of Macbeth at the Edinburgh Festival but it was too real for Margaret Waddell, sitting in the front row. When she came out of the theatre, she found her suit spattered with stage blood from the battle scene. The management footed her cleaning bill.

These 'Nutty' Items Sent From Germany

By Penny Saver

Plants of any kind are lovely items to have around the house. Nothing brightens a room more. A shortage of planters prevents some flower-lovers from displaying their carefully-cultivated plants. Others, of course, are not affected by this. Two friends of mine, lacking anything that resembles a flower pot, put their plant in a teapot, and placed it on top of the television set.

I have no teapots to spare, so I was delighted when I found a store that carries delightful planters.

These little creations are imported from Germany, and are made of coconut shells. One type, selling for $3.15, can be suspended from a wall hook. A string of raffia, a fibre from the leafstalks of the raffia palm, and bamboo shoots, attached to the shell with brass rings, makes this possible.

Another, selling for the same price, has crossed bamboo shoots attached to the shell.

A table planter of a coconut on three crossed bamboo sticks, which reminded one young customer of a pot on a fire, sells for $2.69. For the same price is another, supported by three brass legs.

A unique watering can, with a long brass spout following the contour of the coconut at the base, and a curved handle, is priced at $7.98. This item is also supported on three legs.

Imported products from Formosa, made of chrysanthemum wood and carved to follow the natural grain of the wood, are very attractive. A smoker's set, complete with a cigarette box, match holder and ashtray, sells for $5.89.

Vases, shaped like Grecian urns, just the right size for small flowers, sell for $1.98. A larger vase is priced at $3.98.

Bank Account, Build and Color ABC's to Women's Characters

OTTAWA (UPI)—Everything's being boiled down to simple terms these days, even women-rating—in shopping, that is.

Psychologist, newspaper columnist and TV personality, Dr. Joyce Brothers of New York, gave a primer to a predominantly male audience recently.

All that is needed for this exercise is to make a mental note of the type of clothes the subject wears, how she's put together and how she moves. Then you can tell what kind of shopper she is.

She should fit into one of three categories: amiable, bombastic or conservative. From this you should be able to tell whether she likes to buy all the time, sometimes, or to build up a bank account.

The amiable type, says the blonde holder of a Ph.D in psychology, is socially aware of what is correct, which puts her near the top as a style watcher.

She's up to date on the latest products, but doesn't spend money just to be "first on the block." Her clothes are up to date and probably would garb a petite figure.

The bombastic woman, by contrast, is usually a big girl "fairly live, sexy body and walk," says Dr. Brothers of this figure-conscious type; often known to exercise to keep in form. This type of woman would rather spend money than save it. She goes for the latest "new improved formula." She buys flashy clothes and wants to be admired "by everybody."

She buys, buys, buys . . . and gets whistled at.

Moving along the ABC's from "B" to "C" leads to a less voluptuous type.

This is the conservative; she's probably a little under weight and wears unspectacular classic clothes. The opposite to the impulsive buyer, she looks for the best penny for penny value. For her it's "money in the bank" rather than a new wardrobe, Dr. Brothers says.

But in the main women "love" to spend money, she said. "It's one of the psychological differences between men and women."

"Creative shopping," she said, fills an important need for women who no longer have creative outlets such as crocheting and knitting.

But shopping is "much more difficult for women." On purchases women are irrationally motivated. And they are "never satisfied" they have made the right choice. Men, by comparison, reach decisions with ease.

Women in a supermarket, according to a survey cited by Dr. Brothers, "are almost in a state of hypnosis." They glide by friends and neighbors "without even noticing them." And "bump" into displays.

This was recorded by hidden movie cameras which showed the eye blink of women shoppers dropped from the normal 32 per cent to a mere 14 when they were ogling merchandise. Another difference between men and women shoppers is their choice of color. Women's eyes are attracted by red packages, men's by blue.

Color, also, has an effect on people's perception of taste," she says. "It appears the shopper tastes as well as sees the package."

This was proved correct when a biscuit manufacturer wrapped the product in orange-colored packages, "as if they were fresh out of the oven." Sales were increased.

Women come out badly in the fibbing department, Dr. Brothers says. To them its sometimes a "challenge" to their imagination. Other times they tell lies "just for fun."

Men, on the other hand, are cowardly liars. Usually they can't look you in the eye.

Are women better liars than men?

"This," said Dr. Brothers, "is an old myth that is absolutely true."

DEAR ABBY . . .

A Real Snowball!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 years old and in our house we have this rule: Nobody can accept a telephone call during supper time. Well, I have told this to all my friends, but this one girl, no matter how many times I tell her, always calls me during the supper hour and I have to say, "I'll call you back later," but she says, "I just want to say this one little thing," and she goes right on talking, and then I get into trouble. I have tried hanging up on her, but she calls back. My family would never just let the phone ring, so this puts me in a very awkward and embarrassing position. Please help me.

B. G.

DEAR B. G.: Don't answer the telephone during mealtime, and if she calls, ask whoever answers the phone to say that you are having your supper and cannot leave the table.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me why people will not make reservations for dinners at civic clubs and church doings? Then they show up at the last minute, sometimes bringing a guest or two. They seem to think that "one or two more" won't matter, but if you have to feed 25 or 30 more than you planned on, it makes a whale of a lot of difference. I would like to have the hat they think we pull our food out of.

NO MAGICIAN.

DEAR NO: Those who do not make reservations but show up anyway are divided (like Gaul) into three parts: the lazy, the thoughtless and the disorganized.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SMARTEST GIRL IN THE CLASS, BUT NOT LIKED": Never seem wiser or more learned than the people you are with. (That advice was given by Lord Chesterfield in 1748, and it's still good for people of all ages.)

MARGARET TO ATTEND FRENCH BALL

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret will go to the French Riviera resort city of Nice in May for diamond jubilee celebrations of the British - American Hospital there, it was announced this week. With her husband Lord Snowdon, she will attend the hospital gala ball May 6.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Dear Mrs. Farmer:

I am 13 years old and taking sewing for the first time in school. Our teacher told us to make a "scrap book" of all your good ideas so that we can use them later. You always talk about lining things, yet the ones we can afford to buy are not lined. Do we have to line the ones we make?

Sally

Dear Sally:

It's wonderful that you are learning to sew in school. Did you know that there are about 10 million teen-age girls who make their own clothes today?

We must always consider the fabric you will be sewing. Most of the fall clothes are made of wool flannel, orlon flannel, corduroy, tarpoon cloth, bonded wool, ect. All of the fabrics I have mentioned have a great deal of body and are strong and firm. I would say that it would not be necessary to line these jumpers, skirts and dresses.

Lining takes so much more time and adds so much more cost of your garment that it often discourages you from wanting to sew. I have looked over all of the clothes sold to teen-agers and find that very, very few of them are lined, even those costing $30 or more.

As you learn more about sewing and work with more difficult fabrics, there will be more incentive to go to the extra work and eventually you will probably want to line every garment you make.

She's wearing the dress backwards—a model shows both sides of a navy and white dress by designer Oleg Cassini at spring style previews in New York this last weekend and Cassini said she was wearing the dress backwards. (AP Wirephoto.)

She Wore Her Dress Backwards For Cassini's New York Show

NEW YORK (AP)—The little girl "rounded look" did its rounding over each shoulder blade of the long-haired model in the navy and white dress. That's how Oleg Cassini knew that she was wearing it backwards.

Things went that way at the spring style previews Saturday for this designer whose name was once a household word after Mrs. John F. Kennedy, then the United States' first lady, put him officially in charge of her trend-setting state wardrobe.

Things haven't run so smoothly for him since. The Bob Hope of the garment district told the more than 200 visiting newswomen that "it has been a good year, though I've been knocked more than any other year."

But the audience was enthusiastic over his collection of very young clothes, as well as his entertaining performance as a commentator.

Instead of dressing women in baby clothes the way most have done in the four-day American designer preview series which ended Saturday, Cassini chose to doll them up as Lolita-like adolescents.

If you don't have the high small, but full bosoms that are emphasized throughout the line, Cassini arbitrarily suggests you wait it out until fashion reaches another phase—presumably hidden from sight.

Between pauses on the runway to do the monkey or the jerk with their swinging boss, the pert, bushy-haired misses paraded by in very short jacket suits with rows of buttons, piping and flirty pleats. Under the jackets were snug sweetheart blouses that emphasize little girl growing up curves. On some white insets on dresses and necks were Abe Lincoln's bow ties.

Dresses were wide-necked with notched lapel collars, sometimes cross wrapped, and of course, well-rounded.

There also were chiffon see-through blouses, bare-midriff costumes, hip-hugging garrison or bell bottom trousers, and the shortest shorts, short of bikinis.

Meals for Elderly

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A meals-on-wheels program for the elderly is being organized as a combined effort by the community welfare council and volunteer groups in this eastern Ontario city.

Committee chairman Mrs. H. R. Eisenhauer says the project is similar to that in other cities except the Kingston committee hopes to involve a number of organizations.

They want to provide one hot meal a week to people who may suffer nutritional lack because they find it difficult to prepare meals. There is a nominal charge of 50 cents a meal.

The pilot efforts involved a number of professional health and welfare groups who supplied the names of elderly people needing the service.

IODE members volunteered to deliver the meals. The kitchen facilities and workers for the first day were provided by St. Margaret's United Church Women, the second by the Catholic Women's League.

A working dietitian gave her time free, a local supermarket provided some of the food, the army donated six food kits, the Red Cross agreed to underwrite any deficit.

Mrs. Eisenhauer says she hopes the base of helpers will widen as the project becomes permanent.

ON SALT SPRING ISLAND

New Canadians Build Guest House

By ELSIE WORTHINGTON

It was a proud day for new Canadians, Karl and Edel Satermo, Salt Spring Island, when they opened their recently completed guest house in Ganges for inspection.

As they welcomed visitors to the house, Mr. and Mrs. Satermo thought of the day, nine years ago, when they and their four children arrived on Salt Spring Island from Norway, friendless and unknown.

"We have so many friends now. It's just wonderful!" exclaimed youthful-looking Mrs. Satermo, her blue eyes sparkling and cheeks aglow. "People have been so kind to us."

She recalled the day her children started to school in Ganges. Unable to speak any English, she wondered anxiously how to aquaint the teachers with information necessary for placing the new pupils.

"I need not have worried," she said, "The principal and staff were very kind and soon had the children in suitable classrooms."

Other new arrivals on Salt Spring at that time included three more European families. "The school principal organized a class to teach us English," Mrs. Satermo recalled. "Learning the language helped us to settle quickly and happily into our new life."

Four years ago the Satermos became Canadian citizens. "That was quite a challenge," said Mr. Satermo. "Some of our well-educated Canadian friends have told us they could not pass the test without a great deal of preparation. One has to know so much about Canada!"

In common with many immigrant families, the Satermos found life anything but a bed of roses in those early years. Karl had been owner of a small slate mine in Norway. This he operated in summer and turned to construction work in winter. After settling his family at Southey Point, at the far northern end of Salt Spring Island, he found an opening for his building skills at Crofton.

Although only a few miles of water (as the crow flies) separated father and family, his trips were confined to occasional weekends, due mainly to transportation problems. There was a long and sometimes impassable road to travel after the ferry crossing. Recalling those days, Edel Satermo's remark was typical of the selflessness that has endeared her to a large circle of friends: "I felt so sorry for Karl, having to live away from us like that." There was family rejoicing when a few months later Karl obtained work on the new hospital under construction at Ganges.

Two years after his arrival in Canada, having acquired sufficient English and knowledge of Canadian business methods, Karl Satermo opened his own construction business. " I like it better that way," he said simply.

The Satermos worked together designing and building the luxurious guest home. Now that construction is finished and the house fully furnished, Karl has slipped into the background, leaving management of the project to his wife. "I shall be responsible for receiving the guests and caring for them," she said.

The venture presents an untrod path to Edel, but with true Scandinavian astuteness she has studied possible pitfalls.

"I want my guests to find peace and comfort here," she said: "I feel that is important. Making money isn't everything." She added thoughtfully: "It takes only one unpleasant person to upset a whole houseful of people."

The building, approved and licensed by provincial authorities, has been designed and equipped with special thought for the comfort of older people. Accommodation is provided for 12 guests, but Mrs. Satermo is not immediately interested in having a full house. "I would rather have five or six guests for the present and know that they are happy," she said.

Edel Satermo is an excellent cook, as friends can testify who have fared sumptuously at the family board, or have dropped in for tea served with tasty lefse biscuit and other Norwegian delicacies Edel makes so well.

A warm and cosy home in lovely surroundings; good food tastefully served, and a wise and loving chatelaine—what greater comfort could one ask of a retirement home?

'Take 7 Pawns'

LONDON (AP)—It takes a telephone call and seven servants to prepare a tea for the Queen, The Daily Mirror said Friday.

The Mirror called it "the Buckingham Palace tea-time game."

"To play it, you need a Queen, seven pawns and a board the size of buck house," the newspaper said.

"To start, the Queen presses a button, then the soft-footed machinery of royal living rolls into impeccable action."

The paper said the operation goes like this:

—The Queen rings for her page and tells him she wants a cup of tea and a sandwich.

—Page phones comptroller of supply, then asks a footman to stand by. Comptroller passes order to a clerk.

—Clerk tells chef to prepare sandwich, tells coffee-room maid to make tea. Footman asks yeoman of silver pantry for silver tray, covered dish, cruet, knife.

—Footman collects sandwich from kitchen; pot of tea, cup, saucer, spoon, milk, from coffee room.

—Footman carries the trayload through corridors and into elevator to Queen's floor, and gives it to page.

A spokesman at Buckingham Palace, asked for comment, said: "These are purely domestic details, really, but they are more or less correct."

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY and SON

When Julius Rosenblum of New Orleans, the non-playing captain of North America's 1966 team for the world's championship, starts to pick his lineup for the various matches he will have a tough problem. In other years there was always a weak spot on the team. This year his three pairs are so good that he will have a time figuring which one to leave out.

Opening lead—♦ 3.

Ira Rubin of New Jersey and Philip Feldsman of New York who finished first in the trials are deadly in competitive situations. Lew Mathe and Bob Hamman of Los Angeles are sound in bidding and brilliant in their play of the cards.

This really representative North American team is completed by two Canadians, Eric Murray and Sammy Kehela of Toronto.

We will devote several articles to hands from the trials in which these pairs made the team and we will start with an ambitious slam bid by Murray and Kehela in their first match.

The key bid on the way was Eric Murray's jump to four spades. Kehela needed no further encouragement and merely used Blackwood to make sure that there were enough aces for six and not enough for seven.

Sammy won the second diamond with his king and led a spade toward dummy. When West produced the queen, things looked really promising. Sammy ran off four rounds of trumps and cashed dummy's ace and king of clubs. When both opponents followed to the second club, Sammy used his last trump to ruff out East's queen and claimed the rest of the tricks for his slam.

CHANNEL CHIT CHAT: Memo for "The Fugitive" fans: On Tuesday's epsidode, Kimble finally finds the one-armed man he knows killed his wife. The one-armed man confesses his guilt to Kimble, and before a witness. Does the confession go any further? Don't be silly. Kimble's problems are by no means solved. If they were, there would be a replacement in the wings.

Rod Serling's CBS-TV western series, "The Loner," which stars Lloyd Bridges, is expected to end after its 26th episode . . . Walter Cronkite's nightly newscast will switch to color starting Jan. 31 . . . NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" for Jan. 23 will be expanded to an hour and use the Early Bird satellite to provide an interview with secretary of state Dean Rusk, in Washington, by reporters in London, Paris, Rome and Bonn.

* * *

The 800th Razzzle Dazzle show will be seen on CBC-TV Jan. 12. The show's fan club now has a membership of about 140,000 young Canadians . . . The opening of Canada's 27th Parliament Jan. 18 will be covered from every nook and cranny including one from a helicopter. The 'copter camera will be used to establish the over-all Ottawa scene and follow the route of Governor-General Vanier to the Parliament Buildings.

The Lloyd Thaxton show on Channel 6 and 8 is being wisely dropped. Its axing follows the lead of Shindig and Hullabaloo on the American networks which have fallen from the fickle teen-age favor. Believe it or not, Thaxton was paid $500 a day for the drivel.

* * *

American television critics are now playing a far different tune in their approach to Britain's "Secret Agent" with Patrick McGoohan. It's known as "Danger Man" in Canada. When it first appeared on CBS-TV it was panned unmercifully. But when they saw their own products were found wanting badly, they are beginning to champion McGoohan's capers. For the record, this column has always been on the side of the stylish Danger Man.

* * *

Another television series based on comic books will premiere in the fall in a daytime slot. The show, a returnee, is "The New Adventures of Superman." CBS-TV had also arranged for a new half-hour animated color cartoon series to start in September, on Saturday mornings. It will be about Superboy, boy!

A Dr. Kildare episode is to be put on film soon showing Dr. (Raymond Massey) Gillespie suffering a massive heart attack. The idea had occurred to producers before but shelved because it would have marred the viewer's picture of Gillespie as indestructable. They've changed their minds now that President Johnson and Gen. Eisenhower have shown you can make comebacks from a coronary.

3 BEDROOMS
$11,500

You must have dreamed of owning a spacious rustic-styled rancher located in a high area of Cedar Hill overlooking the beautiful countryside and golf course. If you have $1,500 and call without delay, we will drive up a long winding, paved driveway, past natural rockeries under the shade of tall magestic oak trees to your dream home—just two steps through the large entry will open to you your home with the perfect floor plan. The long living room, highlighted by a warm central fireplace, features a view picture window. The housewife will be pleased to see her family-sized kitchen with an abundance of cabinets and double sink, which leads to an adjoining plumbed utility room. Three in-line bedrooms contain knotty pine built-in wardrobes and bunks in the children's rooms. The handyman will find hours of contentment in the large separate workshop attached to the matching garage and when I show him the expensive hot water heating installation and other modern utilities, he will be most pleased. This home will sell this weekend and therefore I urge you to view it without delay. Terms are most convenient and taxes reasonable.

BY BLIZZARDS

Nfld., Sask. Paralyzed

By The Canadian Press

Blizzards swept into Saskatchewan and parts of the Atlantic provinces Sunday in a two-fisted wintry wallop. Elsewhere in Canada the sting was mild by comparison.

The raging blizzard that has battered eastern and central Newfoundland for 30 hours continued unabated today. Gales were reaching 85 miles an hour.

The weather office here said more than 15 inches of snow had fallen since the storm began at 4:30 a.m. Sunday. Another four to six inches was expected today.

Most of St. John's was blacked out by a power failure shortly after midnight Sunday night. Although electricity was restored to some blocks of the city by mid-morning there was doubt whether the wires would hold under the fierce gales.

There was no transportation of any kind in the eastern and central part of the province. A few main streets in St. John's were cleared for one-way traffic. A 300-mile stretch of the Trans-Canada Highway between here and Grand Falls was blocked.

TRAVEL IN SNOWPLOW

Hospitals were operating under auxiliary power systems. Only one ambulance was called out and it was accompanied by a snowplow. When the ambulance became hopelessly stuck, the patient, not seriously ill, was taken the rest of the way in the plow.

The city's fire alarm system was disabled. Most homes in the city are heated by oil furnaces. Most cooking is done on electric stoves.

Most radio stations were on the air only intermittently. The St. John's Telegram was prevented from publishing by the power failure.

All schools and most businesses were closed. Memorial University cancelled classes. Mayor William Adams asked people to remain in their homes and Premier J. R. Smallwood called only a skeleton staff into government offices.

Winds whistled at 80 miles an hour in Regina; higher temperatures returned to Alberta and southern Ontario and Quebec while more seasonable rains continued to wash away snow in British Columbia.

Five persons died in two fires during the Maritime storm and in B.C. two persons were killed under a snow slide.

The Saskatchewan storm was moving into Manitoba today bringing cold air and light winds.

In Regina Sunday the only vehicles capable of moving were motor-driven toboggans as high winds drove powdery snow into drifts and cut visibility to zero. All air flights were cancelled.

Twenty cars were abandoned in a one-mile stretch of road near Moose Jaw and in Swift Current police ordered people off the streets.

MANY STRANDED

Many people were stranded but no deaths were reported in the Prairie blizzard.

Four children were killed in a house fire near Halifax and another blaze in Liverpool, N.S., took the life of a seven-year-old boy and injured a man. Road accidents blamed on weather conditions injured at least 11 persons.

ROAD, RAIL LINKS RE-OPENED IN B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Rogers Pass section of the Trans-Canada Highway in eastern British Columbia was re-opened late Sunday night after a two-day closure because of snow slides.

The Fraser Canyon section of the same highway was re-opened late Saturday after a four-day closure.

Two Department of Northern Affairs employees were killed near the summit of the Rogers Pass Saturday when they were caught in a slide Pass Saturday when they were caught in a slide.

The bodies of Walter Green, 50, of Revelstoke, and Howard Scovil, 50, of Glacier, were recovered Sunday.

Cong Guerrillas Flee U.S. Knockout Drive

SAIGON (CP) — The largest U.S. fighting force of the Vietnamese war demolished a honeycomb of Viet Cong fortifications on the edge of the Iron Triangle 25 miles northwest of Saigon today, but the Viet Cong ducked the knockout punch.

Most of the guerrillas kept away from the U.S. and Australian troops as they scorched the Communist stronghold on the third day of the operation.

Australians operating with the U.S. troops uncovered a big weapons cache left by the fleeing guerrillas.

There were more than 8,000 men in the allied force, but U.S. military spokesman reported only light contact with the enemy, a regiment-sized force thought to be holed up in the 12 square miles of jungle and marshland.

The spokesman reported 22 Viet Cong killed, 38 captured and 269 suspects, mostly women and children, detained. Allied casualties were light, they said.

The Viet Cong units they are chasing are probably less than one-third their number.

Military sources said the troops are clearing the tunnels with tear gas and then blowing them up.

The tunnels are a labyrinth of arsenals, caverns and concrete-lined bunkers below dense jungle territory.

MAKE LIGHT CONTACT

U.S. and Australian troops, supported by a New Zealand artillery battery, have skirmished only lightly with guerrillas since their joint push began two days ago.

This was because the Viet Cong had fled from their subterranean maze "like rabbits from a warren," the sources said.

In one underground Viet Cong hospital, the Australians found food still fresh on the tables. Abandoned guerrilla fortifications were littered with mines and booby traps, hastily planted.

The tunnels uncovered so far are fewer than 20 miles from the Cambodian border. The caverns are stacked with weapons, ammunition, medical supplies and clothing.

The area of the operation, in Hau Nghia province, has been dominated by guerrillas since the days of French rule.

Jets have been making round-the-clock bombing raids, strafing the guerrillas as they emerge.

Viet Cong Necessary To Talks

TOKYO (AP) — Soviet trouble-shooter Alexander N. Shelepin has called on the United States to agree to meet with the Viet Cong to end the war in Viet Nam.

Shelepin, who headed a Soviet mission to Hanoi, told a rally there Sunday: "Now is the time for the U.S. to realize it is impossible to settle the Viet Nam question without the participation of the South Viet Nam National Liberation Front (the Viet Cong)—the authentic representative of the South Vietnamese people."

The Soviet leader, reputed to be the No. 2 man in the Soviet Communist party, said American acts do not prove that the United States is willing to recognize the four-point stand of North Viet Nam. He said this stand "serves as a basis for the solution of the Viet Nam problem."

North Viet Nam's four points include a demand that the political future of South Viet Nam be settled "in accordance with" the program of the Communist Viet Cong. The United States has asked for clarification of this point and has said it would reject any political settlement allowing a Communist takeover in South Viet Nam.

MAKES CONCESSION

The United States also has indicated it is not willing to negotiate directly with the Viet Cong to end the Viet Nam war but would be willing to let the Viet Cong be represented at the conference table by North Viet Nam.

Shelepin arrived in the North Vietnamese capital Friday as the head of a high-ranking Soviet delegation.

In an indirect attack on China's policy of advocating all-out war if necessary, he emphasized what he called the peaceful aspects of Soviet policy and its objective of "preventing a new world war."

Apparently replying to Peking's charge that the Russians are only half-heartedly supporting North Viet Nam and trying to make a deal with the United States to end the war, Shelepin emphasized the "sacred duty" of all Communist nations to give North Viet Nam all possible help.

Observers assume that the Russians are trying to outbid Peking's influence in North Viet Nam with offers of more aid.

Shelepin also attacked U.S. policy toward West Germany, saying the " . . . plan of the imperialists is to turn West Germany into a shock force to oppose the Soviet Union, the whole socialist camp and the liberated countries."

Slander Action Dismissed

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Supreme Court today dismissed a slander suit against Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

The writ of slander brought against the premier by George E. P. Jones, former chairman of the B.C. government purchasing commission, was dismissed by Mr. Justice H. W. McInnis in a 19-page judgment.

Mr. Jones, forced by legislature bill to retire as head of the commission, had charged he was slandered by the premier in a speech March 5, 1965.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice McInnis ruled that the words Mr. Bennett was said to have used in his speech "were not capable of containing slander."

Mr. Jones' lawyer, Tom Berger, told the eight-man jury at the start of the action Dec. 20 that Mr. Bennett had made the remarks at a Victoria Social Credit Association meeting at which more than 150 people, including reporters, were present.

Mr. Berger said the remarks contained "an innuendo which left Jones the victim of rumor and speculation."

He quoted Mr. Bennett as saying:

"I'm not going to say anything about the Jones boy. I'm not going to talk about it. But I could say a lot.

"I just want to assure you that the position the government has taken is the right one."

WAS SHORT HEARING

The hearing of the action in Supreme Court took only two days. It was begun Dec. 21 but the following day Mr. Justice McInnis excused the jury until Jan. 10 in order to hear arguments on points of law.

In March, 1965, the B.C. legislature approved a bill retiring Mr. Jones.

Kosygin Scores As Peacemaker

TASHKENT (UPI)—The Soviet Union scored its first diplomatic triumph as an international peacemaker today when the leaders of India and Pakistan agreed to pull back troops from the front lines of disputed Kashmir.

In a nine-point communique signed at the end of week-long peace talks in this Soviet Central Asian city, Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri and Pakistani President Mohammad Ayub Khan also agreed to exchange prisoners and continue efforts toward peaceful relations.

The document was viewed here as an important step toward ending the 18-year feud between India and Pakistan over Kashmir, as well as a triumph for the Soviet Union in its unprecedented effort to mediate peace between two non-Communist nations.

Diplomats said Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, through hours of behind-the-scene efforts, had saved the conference from foundering.

"Kosygin gave the conference a blood transfusion," an Indian spokesman said.

(In Washington, President Johnson welcomed the agreement and said it was a step in the right direction toward peace. Some American officials believed the pact would boost Russia's stock in its struggle with China for influence in Asia.)

'Mediation Behind the Scenes'

Pakistani spokesman said Kosygin's intervention in the conference "amounted to mediation—but it was mediation behind the scenes."

It was the first admission by either side that Kosygin expanded his role from "good offices" to "mediation." But there was no hint he actually offered concrete proposals.

Aziz Ahmed, the Pakistani spokesman, said the agreement was "a great achievement as far as it goes," but "it did not go far enough."

Ahmed indicated Pakistan had hoped for more detailed arrangements for permanent machinery to settle the Kashmir problem, although the machinery envisaged in the document "may be sufficiently effective."

The spokesman revealed the communique was approved only at 1:30 a.m. today, after Kosygin's final midnight meeting with Shastri.

Ahmed indicated future meetings between the two nations may be held on Soviet soil when he referred to the summit as the "first Tashkent conference."

Gov't Car Insurance New Goal for Labor

OTTAWA (CP) — A major campaign to promote the idea of government automobile insurance will be mounted next month by the Canadian Labor Congress, President Claude Jodoin announced today.

It will be the theme for this year's Citizenship Month observance by the 1,200,000-member labor body. Last year's topic was medicare.

Mr. Jodoin said in a statement that the mounting toll of deaths, injuries and damage on Canadian highways has become a problem of major national importance.

The CLC proposes that the provinces establish commissions to collect and administer auto insurance funds and deal with accident claims.

COMMONWEALTH MEETING ON RHODESIA OPENS TUESDAY

Big Selling Job Faces Wilson in Nigeria

By IAN MACDONALD
Times Ottawa Correspondent

LAGOS, Nigeria—The Commonwealth is at a crisis crossroads in this sweltering African city. What happens here in the next 48 hours could snap the already strained ties that hold together the 22 member countries.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson arrived from London today on one of the biggest selling jobs of his career. He has to convince the angry, resentful African members that the Rhodesian rebels are on their last legs.

Wilson has to show them that Prime Minister Ian Smith's regime will topple through economic sanctions and without the necessity of armed intervention.

There is an air of tension in Lagos, the Nigerian capital, and security is tight. armed policemen and troops are to be seen all over the city of about 700,000 people.

Soldiers in colorful costumes but with a down-to-earth arsenal are guarding the federal Palace Hotel, scene of the conference Tuesday and Wednesday.

Prime Minister Pearson checked in there Sunday after a wearying 13-hour flight from Ottawa. He left the capital by Air Canada chartered DC-8 jet at 4 p.m. Saturday and arrived here close to 11 a.m. local time after an unscheduled stop at Ghana.

Pearson told newsmen at the airport, "I am here to listen and help. I have nothing to pull out of the hat at the moment." The prime minister reserved his view when asked about the use of force in Rhodesia.

Pearson said he would have to hear what Harold Wilson had to say before he could say if there was any need for Britain to revise her policy.

The prime minister got President Kwame Nkrumah out of bed when the plane, with 14 in the official party and four reporters aboard landed at Accra to wait for fog to clear at Lagos.

Ghana and Tanzania have both broken off diplomatic relations with Britain and are boycotting the conference called by Nigerian Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa.

Nkrumha rushed from his residence in casual clothes after he was notified of Pearson's unexpected visit. The prime minister talked to Nkrumah and Ghana's foreign minister Alex Quaison-Sackey for about an hour at Accra airport.

Pearson declined to say what they talked about but Nkrumah apparently renewed his attacks on Britain for its CASSANO D'ADDA, Italy — A mystery about missing Chirstmas cards was solved here today. Mailman Antonio Carlotti, 56, was accused of dumping the cards in a canal because he got tired of carrying them.

"There was too much work," police quoted him as saying. "I had been working like a mule during the Christmas period. I did my best to deliver the important letters and parcels in due time. But, gentlemen, let's try to be sensible. Those damned postcards are certainly not very important things. So I threw the lot into the canal. I certainly never thought there would be somebody with the hobby of letter-fishing."

Investigation began last week when residents along Carlotti's delivery route in this north Italian town grew alarmed at the sight of mail floating in a canal.

BONN—The most successful bank robber in West Germany since the war has been unmasked as a policeman.

Police last week went to a bank in Delmenhorst, near Bremen, to pick up a robber overpowered by bank clerks. He was Sergeant Hugo Alffcke of Hamburg.

They were even more amazed in the next few days as Alffcke disclosed he was responsible for 10 bank holdups in small towns around Hamburg and other thefts, including cars and burglaries in jewelry shops.

His escapades brought him a postwar record for robberies and about $62,000 in loot.

LONDON—Angry city-bound businessmen today left their cars—jammed nose-to-tail in a giant pileup—to tangle with crusading housewives and their husbands whom they blamed for the chaos.

Four lanes of rush-hour traffic from different directions were brought to a standstill at suburban Northcolt, near London Airport, when 150 wives stood in the street with placards. They were demanding traffic lights be installed at a pedestrian crossing.

Motorists, late for work, left the mile-long lines of cars. Fighting broke out with sympathetic husbands of the women demonstrators.

Police ended the chaos after an hour. The women went home and the traffic slowly moved on into central London.

NEW YORK—Asked how the bus and subway strike was affecting him, one man told an interviewer:

"We moved here a year ago and . . . there was a housing shortage.

"Then we couldn't get the European car we ordered because of the dock strike and, when it did come, we couldn't wash it because the water supply was so low—and I couldn't just leave it in the garage and take a cab because there was a taxi strike.

"A few months later we weren't even hearing what was going on in the city because of the newspaper strike, and now we can't go anywhere because of the transit strike."

Six People Injured In Car-Bus Accident

Seven persons were taken to hospital following road mishaps in the Victoria area Saturday.

Most serious accident involved a new car and a bus at Belmont and Highway 1A at Colwood.

All six persons in the auto were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital but bus occupants were uninjured.

They were 30 children being transported to the Belmont Park naval housing development and driver Robert Maltby, 46, of 921 Pandora.

The car, driven by Kenneth Cooper, 26, of 1000 Brock, struck the side of the bus as it turned off the highway onto Belmont Road, police said.

Mr. Cooper has been released from hospital but his wife, Merna, 19, remained and is in fairly good condition with head and neck injuries.

Other passengers in the car are reported in good condition.

They are Mrs. Madelaine Munroe, 37, chest injuries; Colleen Cooper, 7, Denise Cooper, 4, and Tom Edwards, 12, all with head and leg injuries.

Mrs. Munroe and the three children are from Browning, Montana.

Ronald J. Lamontagne, 2632 Douglas was treated for arm injuries and released from hospital after his auto struck a power pole at Marigold and Burnside Saturday night.

The car sheared off the pole and caused power outages in the area for up to two hours.

The collision caused an estimated $1,175 damage, police said.

handling of the affair.

A few hours later the Ghana government releasd a statement criticizing the British government. It charged that if economic sanctions were to be applied against the illegal Smith regime "this can only be done effectively under the charter of the United Nations."

The statement noted that Britain had opposed the Rhodesian situation being dealt with under the charter. It claimed that the sanctions advocated by Britain, which Canada backs along with almost every other country, are inadequate to deal with the situation.

Ghana also charged that the only effect of the British policy would be to "substitute another settler regime in place of the existing one".

Ghana has a loud voice in the Organization of African Unity which has demanded military action.

Pearson later was taken for a siren-screaming car ride through part of Accra. Along many of the streets were signs berating colonialism and stating that African unity is inevitable. Nkrumah, who rules Ghana with an iron fist, didn't go along for the ride.

Pearson landed at Lagos after 45-minute flight from Accra. He was met by the Nigerian foreign minister and later met Prime Minister Balewa.

The conference is the first major test for the secretary-general of the Commonwealth, Canadian Arnold Smith who was appointed last summer to the newly-created post.

Smith and a staff of about 30 came from London to Lagos a few days ago to help organize the conference.

A spokesman for the secretariat said he did not think some of the Africans are as angry about the Rhodesian situation as they were a few weeks ago, but said they will needs lots of convincing as to the appropriateness of Britain's stand.

The conference was put together in a hurry and some of the arrangements show it. Nigeria has clamped on security that makes getting information difficult.

The Federal Palace—a new six-storey hotel on the Lagos waterfront—is supposed to be out of bounds to all reporters until Tuesday when they will be allowed in briefly.

I talked my way into the lobby Sunday night but was on the verge of being thrown out when Prime Minister Pearson came in and saved the day.

Commonwealth leaders and officials are arriving in Lagos by the hour. About 10 leaders are expected, the other countries being otherwise represented. Apart from the two countries boycotting the session, Australia has only an observer attending. Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies contended the Rhodesian affair was between that country and Britain.

There is disappointment expressed here at the Australian attitude, the Africans being particularly toughy about everything.

'Principal Secretary' Appointed

OTTAWA (CP) — John S. Hodgson, 48, has been appointed "principal secretary to the prime minister," Mr. Pearson has announced.

An economist and career civil servant, Mr. Hodgson has been assistant deputy of defence for the last 30 months, concentrating on financial administration. Mr. Pearson said in a statement that the post of principal secretary has not been occupied in recent years but that it existed before in Canada. Mr. Hodgson will co-ordinate all programs and activities of the prime minister's office.

The appointment follows the departure of Tom Kent who as policy secretary to the prime minister had duties similar to those now assumed by Mr. Hodgson.

Mr. Kent, whose salary was $25,000 annually, became deputy minister of immigration Jan. 1 and will become deputy minister of manpower when that department is created by parliament.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Rain was general over the south coast today with a disturbance over Vancouver Island. It has given up to three inches of rain to the west coast of Vancouver Island in the last 24 hours. Snow was to spread across the interior this morning as the system moved inland. A ridge of high pressure will move to the coast later today and clearing is expected in coastal areas this evening. As a result, slightly colder temperatures will occur tonight on the lower mainland. However, the clearing will be of short duration since another Pacific storm is expected to reach the coast late Tuesday. It will bring more rain and strong winds to coastal areas.

TRANSIT STRIKE

Negotiations 'Completely Meaningless'

NEW YORK (AP)—Marathon negotiations to end the city's 10-day-old bus and subway strike recessed just before dawn today, and the chief union bargainer said they had been "completely unproductive (and) meaningless."

Even as the weary negotiators were leaving, the rumble of converging traffic was building in Manhattan's canyons, City officials said the commuting millions, with a week's bitter experience behind them had started earlier on this second work week of the strike.

The recess ended a bargaining session that started Sunday morning.

Thus, the strike continued with these developments:

—Low temperatures piled added misery upon tens of thousands of commuters forced to walk the windswept bridges into Manhattan;

—Traffic experts invoked new emergency rules to speed the flow of nearly 800,000 cars;

—The Transport Workers Union called for a mass picketing demonstration at city hall;

—Shopkeepers in crisis surged on small business loan centres authorized by President Johnson;

—Leaders in Harlem and other poverty areas organized car pools to transport workers unable to pay cab fares.

—A Democratic state leader said Republican Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller can put up $10,000,000 to help pay New York City transit costs.

—The transit authority resumed its court effort to collect $322,000 a day in damages from the union.

The 34,400 members of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union walked out New Year's Day over wage and fringe benefit demands in a new contract which the transit authority estimated would cost $680,000,000 over two years.

The authority offered a package estimated at $29,000,000, which it said was within the 3.2 per cent non-inflationary limit set by President Johnson.

The union came back with scaled-down demands which totalled $216,000,000 — a sum termed still unreasonable by the authority.

No public announcements have been made on any further narrowing of the gap.

President Johnson, in response to an appeal by Rockefeller, last Friday announced that $20,000,000 would be set aside for the small shop proprietor, who could receive individual loans up to $15,000 at 5½ per cent interest for three years. No collateral is required and hundreds thronged bureaus Sunday to make application.

The union seeks a 30 per cent pay hike, and a reduction in the work week to 32 from 40 hours.

Present pay scales range from $2.75 an hour for change booth clerks to $3.50 an hour for signal maintainers. Subway motormen get $3.46 and bus drivers receive $3.22 an hour.

HOME GARDEN

Herb Book Gourmet's Delight

By HILDA BEASTALL

Culinary, or cooking, herbs are closely associated with vegetables.

If a gardener cares to grow vegetables to please his gourmet palate it is more than likely that a few herbs will also be grown for experimenting together with the vegetables either in raw salad form or when cooked.

Hilda

Recipes for using these delicacies, as they may well be described, are sadly lacking in modern periodicals, fortunately some excellent books have been published in recent years on the growing and the use of herbs.

One which I have had loaned me for winter reading has the title The Gourmet's Garden, written by Douglas Bartram.

As an Englishman he uses a few words puzzling to Canadian minds such as a tart, which corresponds roughly to a rather shallow pie although usually a tart has an open or latticed top. A flan, I think, is a puff pastry shell to be filled with a mixture after it is lightly baked.

UNUSUAL RECIPES

The book makes really delightful reading, combining the essentials of growing all the well-known vegetables, herbs, tree fruits and bush fruits with a variety of unusual recipes for each kind.

Being written by a man the book is less likely to be dismissed lightly by men readers, for the world's most renowned chefs have, somewhat unaccountably, been men.

Articles and recipes on such subjects as figs, artichokes, leeks and the lowly potato as well as all the cooking herbs to go with them are enough to make all gardeners eager to plan the spring layout.

Varieties in many cases must be adjusted to suit our different climate, soil and growing conditions, but the general information is so complete that it can readily be revised by the average hobbyist, making good reading for January.

Contractor's Bride Wounded

VANCOUVER (CP)—A contractor was killed and his bride of three months suffered a throat wound in a shooting affray in a south-side home here Sunday night.

Police who surrounded the house following the wounding of Mrs. Peter Van Eynsbergen, about 45, heard a shot and found Peter Van Eynsbergen, 50, dead. A rifle was beside the body.

Police said Mrs. Van Eynsbergen was shot in the throat and hand and ran screaming from the house.

Neighbors said the Van Eynsbergens had just returned from a honeymoon in Mexico. He was operator of Peter Van Construction Ltd.

Car Ferries Freed From Ice

SOREL, Que. (CP)—Two car ferries stuck in heavy ice on the St. Lawrence River since Sunday afternoon with 85 passengers and 28 cars aboard were freed today by two federal government icebreakers.

A spokesman for La Compagnie de la St. Laurent, owners of the ferries, the Napoleon L. and Pierre de Sorel, said the ferries reached shore safely with no ill-effects among the passengers despite their 14-hour ordeal.

Temperatures were freezing during their stay in mid-river. A Quebec Provincial Police spokesman said many aboard were driven by hunger to fill up from shipboard stocks of candy bars, cakes and soft drinks.

The boats ply the river between Sorel and Ile St. Ignace, a distance of about one mile. Sorel is 40 miles northeast of Montreal.

The spokesman for the ferry company said the Napoleon L., with 50 persons and 20 cars aboard, became stuck some 1,500 feet from the shore.

The Pierre de Sorel, with 35 persons and eight cars aboard, was stuck some 150 feet from the shore.

DOLLAR LOSES THREE CENTS

OTTAWA (CP)—The purchasing power of the dollar lost nearly three cents during 1965 and it took nearly $1.41 in December to buy what $1 would have bought in everyday family and personal spending in 1949.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported last week its consumer price index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, rose to a record high of 140.8 in December. This was 2.9 per cent above the index figure of 136.8 for December, 1964.

Last month's increase was six-tenths of a point higher than November.

The index, which normally shows a steady climb in winter months, bounced up in June and July, then eased off fractionally in August and September.

A finance department official said the year's rise was mainly due to food prices, particularly increased meat prices which flowed from higher meat prices in the United States. Some meat prices last month were as much as 20 per cent higher than a year earlier.

Higher property taxes and insurance premiums also contributed to the general increase.

The cost of personal and household services rose more than four per cent due to higher wages in the service industries.

Prices of commodities did not rise so sharply. Prices of durable goods actually were lower in December, 1965, than a year earlier. Prices of non-durable goods other than food rose about 1½ per cent.

A feature of last year's economic boom has been the high level of sales of durable goods—automobiles, household equipment such as stoves and refrigerators, and the like.

1966 OUTLOOK

Share Sales To Be High

By LARRY DWORKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets in the first week of 1966 reflected the optimistic attitude of the business community that the new year promises to be rosy.

Business forecasters have predicted 1966 will repeat 1965's performance of near-production capacity and full employment.

Some analysts feel that because of a tight labor force, inflationary pressures will increase, and there will be increased investments in stocks to preserve the value of money.

On the Toronto market all sections participated in the advance with base metals reaching a high of 87.61 at mid-week as a result of an increase in the price of European and domestic copper.

Falconbridge gained 4⅜ points to 113 to lead the base metal group higher. Hudson Bay was up 3⅝ to 81¼ while Inco advanced 3¼ to 100¼, Noranda added 2⅛ at 55⅛ and Cominco 1⅝ at 50½.

VOLUME WAS UP

Volume was more than 34,388,000 shares, double last week's turnover of 16,965,000, and the highest total since Nov. 27, 1964.

The industrial index which advanced 4.18 points to 173.24 was at its highest since June 1, 1965. 1965.

Steels paced the industrial group up after an announcement that the U.S. government allowed major U.S. steel companies to make selective price increases.

Demand for the steel stocks also resulted from anticipated increased earnings in the companies in 1966.

Algoma led the group up 2⅞ to 66 while Stelco added 1⅞ at 28⅜ and Slater Steel ⅜ at 15½.

Interprovincial Steel and Pipe Corp Ltd., was the most active industrial, trading 204,016 shares and was up ⅞ to 6½.

Banks continued their upward trend. Royal moved ahead 1¾ to 76¾ while Canadian Imperial gained 1 to 67¾. Toronto-Dominion rose ¾ to 66¾ and Nova Scotia ½ to 76.

On index, golds were up 3.88 to 163.17, base metals 2.47 to 87.32, Western oils 1.62 to 104:05 and the TSE 3.91 to 163.08.

At Montreal, industrials were up 5.0 to 167.99, utilities 3.54 to 157.18, banks .97 to 128.15, papers 4.76 to 122.42. Volume was 9,494,417 shares compared with 17,539,556 last week.

RATE CUT WRONG, SAYS SHRUM

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Hydro and Power Authority would have been further ahead today if it had not made electric rate reductions in 1962, Hydro co-chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum says.

Dr. Shrum also disclosed that Hydro's net profit for 1965-66 will be down $5,800,000 from the previous year.

"In August, 1961, I said there should be no reductions until the Peace comes in and I still believe it," said Dr. Shrum, speaking to a group of businessmen Thursday.

He said it cost B.C. Hydro $45,000,000 since making the rate reductions in March 1962.

Talks Sought On Orchards By Growers

PENTICTON (CP) — Peachland fruit growers want negotiations reopened with Agriculture Minister Frank Richter to secure better rehabilitation terms for Okanagan growers who lost up to 90 per cent of their trees during cold snaps in December, 1964, and March, 1965.

A resolution to this effect will be one of about 50 resolutions to come before the 77th annual convention of the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association here Jan. 18-20.

The federal-provincial assistance program is satisfactory for crop-loss compensation, the Peachland resolution says, but its provisions for rehabilitation of orchards are entirely inadequate.

A resolution sponsored by the Penticton and Winfield locals urges a further look at the question of amalgamation of packinghouses. The locals want an immediate survey on the feasibility of amalgamation.

The three-day session here will mark the last appearance in the chair for retiring association president Arthur Garrish of Oliver, who steps down after 16 consecutive years in the industry's top elective office.

Running for president are Nigel Taylor of Kelowna and Allan Claridge of Oyama.

LETHBRIDGE (CP)—Charles R. Matthews, 81, secretary-treasurer of the Lethbridge Herald, died Friday. He had suffered a heart attack one week ago.

Neither Side Wins Steel Price Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—The second round of the running price battle in the United States between the steel industry and the government ended last week with a compromise.

The conflict began with Bethlehem Steel Corp's New Year's Eve announcement of a $5-a-ton price increase for structural steel.

Bethlehem, the No. 2 steel producer in the United States, said the increase was justified by the demand for new lightweight structural shapes, which take more mill time to produce.

The company said that even with the price increase the cost to consumers was less than five years ago.

President Johnson and his economic advisers denounced the price boost as unjustified, inflationary and unpatriotic.

Early this week Inland Steel Co. went along with Bethlehem's $5 hike.

This was a new role for Inland, which in 1962—during the first round of the industry-government price war—refused to follow a general price rise initiated by U.S. Steel.

On that occasion the late president John F. Kennedy rolled out the government's big pressure guns and forced the steelmakers to back down and rescind the raise.

Colorado Fuel and Iron Corp. was the next to fall in line with Bethlehem's move but announced only a $3 increase.

Then the government went into action in an effort to force a rescission.

Three agencies which direct virtually all the government's structural steel buying—the defence and commerce departments and the general services administration — issued orders not to buy from companies which raised prices.

By this time all attention was focused on the question: What will U.S. Steel Corp., the No. 1 producer, do?

Big Steel waited until Wednesday to act.

It announced a $2.75-a-ton increase on structural steel and a $9-a-ton decrease on cold rolled sheets produced in California.

The U.S. government accepted U.S. Steel's boost as within its price guidelines. Bethlehem and Inland backed down.

The compromise set off a stock market surge that carried the averages to new highs.

From a business standpoint, 1965 turned out even better than expected. The U.S. commerce department reported that the gross national product—total of all goods and services—surged 7.5 per cent to $675,000,000,000.

Jurisdiction Rule

NEW YORK (CP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled Friday a $10,000,000 tax claim against Montreal Trust Company in Vancouver is within the jurisdiction of the federal court for the southern district of New York. The bank has no branch in the U.S. and does not regularly engage in business here. But government brought suit against it as executor of the Isidor J. Klein estate.

Government Price Up For Butter

OTTAWA (CP) — An increase of two cents a pound in the government's selling price of butter was announced Friday, meaning the consumer will pay an equivalent amount more for butter.

The announcement by Agriculture Minister J. J. Greene said this would mean increasing producers' prices for manufacturing milk and cream and "should stimulate production, bringing about a better balance between supply and demand."

The Agricultural Stabilization Board regulates prices and also pays producers 10.9 cents for each pound of butterfat used in creamery butter production.

The two-cent increase is being added to previous selling prices of 55 cents a pound for the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia, 54 cents for Manitoba and 53½ cents for Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The government's guaranteed purchase price of 55 cents a pound remains steady — lower than the selling price in all areas.

GOES ON MARKET

This means some of the 60,000,000 pounds in government butter stockpiles probably will go on the market to relieve the normal short winter butter position.

Mr. Greene's announcement noted that "under current pricing schedules insufficient butter is being produced to meet domestic demand."

It was expected the higher price would make butter production more attractive and bring production closer to meeting demand.

Retirement Spending To Be Studied

One of Greater Victoria's steadiest industries may get full recognition by the community towards the end of 1966.

A. H. Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board, said Friday that one of the prime objectives for the board this year will be an intensive study of the effect the income of retired people has on the general economy.

In 1965 Old Age Pension payments totalled an estimated $18 million plus $1.6 million in special allowances and assistance payments.

"But this is by no means indicative of the amount of money brought into the community by retired people," Mr. Roberts said. "Many of them come from other parts of Canada to Victoria bringing money with them in the form of bonds or other securities. What we want to try and find out is just how much money they bring in and what impact it has on the economy."

In Greater Victoria 16.5 per cent of the population is over 65. In Victoria and Oak Bay together the percentage rises to 21 per cent of the population.

Reeve Allan Cox was re-elected chairman of the board and Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich, vice-chairman.

A farewell presentation was made to F. W. Nicolls who retired from the board after 15 years of service. Mr. Nicolls represented the provincial government. He will be replaced by Millard H. Mooney.

Wholesale Price Jumps In Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—For the second time in nine months, there has been a sharp jump upwards in wholesale prices as measured by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The bureau reported this week its index based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100 jumped last month to 255.5 from 253.8 in November and 252 in October.

The index, which measures prices of nearly all goods not covered by the consumer pric index, had kept within a narrow range of about one point above and below 245 for most of 1963 and 1964.

It shot up last April, May and June to 252, and then eased off a point during the summer months. Now it has risen three more points.

Statisticians say there is no direct connection between the general wholesale index and the consumer price index. The lattr's climb has been steadier, and it ros eparticularly during June and July last year. It stood at 140.2 in November, compared with 135.9 in November, 1964, based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

SECOND REVIEW

In its second annual review released Tuesday, the Economic Council of Canada saw "little evidence to indicate that a broad and widely dispersed acceleration of price increases or accentuation of price pressures is under way."

Saved By Pet Rat

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — An 11-year-old boy was awakened by the screeching and squealing of his pet white rat and saw his bedding was afire. Jimmy Wellman said he summoned the other five members of his family and all escaped. But the rat died in the fire.

Vote Campaign Spending Limit Urged

gchet iaam pbshny hiteoatoc-0 bend the domination of election campaigns by the big political parties.

In a 4,800-word brief to the special committee on election expenses, the 1,200,000-member CLC recommended:

—Full public disclosure of political contributions over $100.

—Tax exemptions for all political contributions.

—Limits on the campaign spending of candidates and parties.

—Free broadcast time and postal distribution for each candidate.

—Official recognition of parties under the Canada Elections Act.

The CLC, in recent years an active backer of the New Democratic Party, presented its views at a closed meeting with the five-member committee which for 14 months has been studying election expenses with a view to recommendations on how they should be controlled.

The brief said the limit on campaign spending should be set at 30 cents per voter with half of the amount applying to the candidate and half to his party.

"We believe that an average of about 30 cents a voter per riding should be sufficient for any party to make its case, especially if it receives in addition the free services which we recommend," the brief said.

This plan would "restrict the opportunity of a well-funded party to swamp its opponents through the sheer volume of its propaganda."

Parties, however, should be left free to shift their spending to concentrate on ridings where they feel the best opportunities for success exist.

WOULD END SECRECY

On the question of disclosing party contributions, the CLC said the veil of secrecy should be completely removed. The voting public had a right to know the main sources of party funds.

Tax exemptions would broaden the base of party support by encouraging contributions from persons who now felt they could not afford them. The CLC said there should be a maximum amount for such exemptions but did not suggest a figure.

Taken together, disclosure laws and tax exemptions would lead to a greater degree of financial parity between those parties that contest elections on a national scale.

The brief also urged abolition of the $200 deposit for federal candidates. This deposit is returned to winners and those losing candidates who receive at least half as many votes as the winner.

"Poverty should bar no man from being a candidate."

Referring to the growing participation of trade unions in politics, the labor body said there should be no curbs on this activity. It asked the committee to oppose legislation such as that passed in British Columbia which bars union contributions to political parties.

TRADING SUSPENDED

TORONTO (CP)—Shares of Consolidated Regcourt Mines Ltd. have been suspended from trading on Toronto Stock Exchange for having failed to meeting exchange requirements, it was announced today.

Shares of the company, which has reported it holds gold and base-metal prospects in Ontario and Quebec, were listed at 9½ cents last week.

Chrysler Sales Up

TORONTO (UPI) — Chrysler of Canada Ltd. has completed the most successful year in its history, president Ron W. Todgham announced today.

New records were established in sales, production and employment during 1965, Todgham said.

Total production of cars and trucks was 153,166, an increase of 30 per cent over the previous record set in 1964.

The company started 1965 with about 10,200 employees, but now has 13,500, Todgham said.

Retail deliveries of cars and trucks reached a record total of 138,111, up 18 per cent from the previous high in 1964.

Canadian Eggs Take Big Drop

OTTAWA (CP)—Egg production in November, 1965, was estimated at 35,000,000 dozen, 5.7 per cent less than 37,200,000 dozen produced a year earlier, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Sales of market eggs during November were estimated at 31,100,000 dozen, down 6.2 per cent from November, 1964. The average price paid producers was 45.7 cents last November, compared with 45.3 cents in October.

Egg production for the first 11 months of 1965 was estimated at 393,900,000 dozen, a decrease of 1.2 per cent from 398,600,000 produced in the corresponding period of 1964.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Mine Issues In Spotlight

Mining issues held the spotlight in Toronto and Vancouver today with speculative activity especially strong in Ontario.

AT TORONTO D'Eldona paced the speculative issues with a gain of 72 cents to 1.97 on more than 1,467,000 shares. Wilco jumped 18 to 74 cents on more than 448,000 shares and Donalda 4½ to 31½ cents on 368,900.

Banks continued to lead the industrial list higher as Montreal advanced 2 to 66½ while the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Toronto-Dominion added 1½ each at 68⅞ and 68¼.

Among base metals Inco rose ¾ to 101 as the base metal index hit a new high 87.65 on a gain of .33 points. Cominco was ahead ½ to 51 while Falconbridge was off ½ to 112½.

Canadian Export Gas led western oils higher with a gain of 18 cents to 2.80 while Canadian Delhi moved up 15 cents to 3:15.

Hollinger edged up ⅜ in golds, however Leitch lost 20 cents to 5.80.

AT VANCOUVER Most sections showed a predominance of gains over losses with a number of mining issues making new highs.

Canusa gained six cents to 41 cents for a new 1965-1966 high on a trade of 79,900 shares. Patricia Silver also set a new high making $1.63 for a gain of 11 cents, and Western Mines Rose six cent to a record $5.90 for the year on a trade of 9,350 shares. Dealings began today in Yukon Antimony Corp., Ltd. stock, which was quoted at $1.90 on a turnover of 9,350 shares.

In oils 2,000 Embassy were traded at 75 cents, gaining 10 cents, and Royal American were quoted $1.54, up 17 cents.

In slow trading among industrial stocks 200 Domtar gained to $19.87 and 395 MacMillan Bloedel & Powell River were quoted $28.

AT MONTREAL all sections moved fractionally higher towards 2 p.m. in heavy trading.

Industrial volume was 126,400 and mines and oils a heavy 1,364,700.

Speculative mines and oils were higher with Jubilee jumping 16 cents to $3.15, and Patricia Silver 10 cents to $11.60.

Banks led the senior groups with Imperial Commerce and Toronto-Dominion each rising 1¼ points to 69 and 68 respectively. Royal climbed ½ to 77 and Montreal ⅜ to 65.

AT LONDON the stock market was quietly firm today. Interest was selective and weekend investment comment provided the main stimulating factors. Gilt edged, however, were inclined to ease.

AT NEW YORK airlines, electronics and coppers were among gainers.

The market advance was having tough going because traders were taking profits with the averages at the peak of a string of new highs made last week.

Aerospace defence stocks also were firm to higher as Viet Nam fighting continued on a fairly large scale.

Gold-mining issues had a rally following publication of a report that about $1,000,000,000 worth of newly-mined gold was absorbed by private hoarding or speculation in the first three quarters last year.

Steels put on a wavering performance and motors were thoroughly scrambled. Rails were strong.

Snow Clogs Italy

ROME (UPI) — Snow covered most of Italy today, causing massive traffic jams and scores of accidents and blocking thousands in the blizzard-swept mountains. Rome was one of the few cities spared and had rain instead.

SWIM POOL APPROVED, REJECTED

Twins Split on Centennial Plan

ALBERNI—The twin cities may have the distinction of being the only community in Canada without a centennial project, according to Mayor Fred Bishop of Alberni.

"If we continue in the spirit this year, with various groups pulling in different directions, we are going to reach 1967 and find we are the only major community without a project," he said.

"This is going to happen unless all interested groups sit down together as people of goodwill and work out an agreement which all will support."

The cities will amalgamate officially on Jan. 1, 1967.

Mayor Bishop said since Alberni voters have already approved a swimming pool the council will continue to support it as a centennial project.

"But we realize other interests of a cultural nature are also needed."

The problem arose when Port Alberni voters turned down the swimming pool plan.

The centennial committee is now attempting to come up with a project which will be acceptable to both.

Mayor Bishop proposed the two councils sponsor a public meeting and invite B.C. Centennial chairman Lawrie Wallace to speak.

AN UNCOVERED water well and a curious little boy set the scene for "a conspicuous act of gallantry" two years ago on the Westholme Indian Reserve near Chemainus. Michael Gibson, left, will be awarded the St. John Priory Certificate for Bravery for saving his brother, Allan, 8, after the younger boy had fallen into four feet of water at the bottom of the 15-foot deep well (above), Sept. 17, 1963.

LOGGERS TRICKLE BACK

DUNCAN — Some logging crews in mid-island went back to work this morning.

About 250 men of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., went back to the woods at Copper Canyon and Nanaimo River camps.

Chemainus spokesman George Beaubier said: "They hope to be back in production today."

CLEARING ROADS

Peter Stone of Hillcrest Lumber Company, Mesachie Lake, said crews were out this morning working on road clearance.

"We hope to get back to production Wednesday," he said.

Another operation which restarted work this weekend was the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. camp at Nitinat.

Crews went back into camp by crummy Sunday night.

MILLS WORKED

All sawmills in the area have managed to keep going at full capacity as log supplies remained adequate.

The pulp and newsprint mills at Crofton have not been held up regarding supplies.

Assistant personnel manager Kent Elliott said: "We have extensive supplies of logs in our booming grounds, and also a plentiful supply of wood chips."

High Winds Free Whale At Whidbey

SEATTLE (AP) — Strong winds and high tide spelled freedom Sunday for a captured female killer whale.

Ted Griffin, Seattle Marine Aquarium owner, caught the cow in a purse seine last Wednesday and had been keeping it in the net at Penn Dove on the east side of Whidbey Island.

The combination of wind and tide drifted both the net and the whale loose from their moorings and the animal swam off.

The fishing vessel Chinook, which had been tending the whale, reported to Griffin that it got loose early in the morning. Griffin had returned to Seattle Saturday after observing from the Chinook that the net was beginning to disintegrate. He planned to return with material to reinforce the purse seine.

The plan had been to keep the whale in the bay for a week or so and then transfer it to Rich Cove, on the Kitsap Peninsula, where Namu is spending the winter.

Namu, a male killer whale, was caught in a purse seine by mistake last summer by two British Columbia fishermen who sold it to Griffin.

Griffin said he will keep looking for a female. He caught one once, but decided it was too small for Namu and sold it to an aquarium in San Diego.

Road-Ferry Route On Chamber Agenda

DUNCAN—Vancouver Island's link in a road-ferry route to Alaska is a major item on the agenda of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island when delegates meet in Nanaimo Jan. 19.

The route, as envisioned by Island civic leaders, would see Alaska-bound trucks using the Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert ferry service which is scheduled to go into service this May.

At Prince Rupert the trucks could connect with an Alaska ferry which is already in service.

Victoria city fathers have already discussed providing a major truck route through the city to the Trans-Canada Highway from the Port Angeles ferry slip in the Inner Harbor.

SALVAGE OPERATIONS began today on a $3,000 float which smashed aground at Clover Pt. during a weekend storm. The float, on its way to Port Washington, North Pender Is., is being torn apart and will have to be reassembled. Owned by Pacific Pile Driving Co. Ltd., the float (for boat mooring purposes) was being towed by the tug Pacific Dolphin when a squall struck Friday. The float snapped its tow and washed in to the rocks off Dallas Rd. Also damaged were eight fiberglas pontoons worth $150 apiece. The 10 by 80-foot float was to be delivered to the department of transport at Port Washington. Loss was covered by insurance.

VISITS NEMATODE AREA

'Here to Listen To Farmers' Says Minister

Canada's new Agriculture Minister Joseph Greene today had a look at the spot where one of his most complicated problems began.

He stopped for a quick look at the J. H. Thompson farm on Martindale Road in Central Saanich where the first discovery of Golden Nematode—a dreaded root crop pest around the world—was made last summer.

Dr. W. P. Campbell, chief of the federal department's plant protection division, who accompanied the minister from Ottawa, gave him a hurried briefing in the field before the party drove into Victoria for a meeting with a farmers' delegation to discuss the nematode problem.

CLOSETED

The minister was closeted in the meeting for most of the three hours he was scheduled to spend in the city as part of a familiarization tour of Western Canada.

Dr. Campbell, who is in charge of the nematode project and spent several weeks here last year, was to remain for about two weeks for further discussionus with farmers regarding compensation formulae for those whose fields have been quarantined by federal orders.

Mr. Greene met with Charles Walls, manager of the B.C. Federation, and local farmers Geoffrey vantreight, representing the root crop and bulb growers, and Ed Lohbrunner, representing nurserymen.

Mr. Greene's only comment to reporters was that he had come to hear what the farmers had to say.

It was understood the meeting would go into the questions of how affected farmers—about nine major potato producers are affected directly and all root crop growers are affected indirectly — should be compensated.

Some farmers want to cleanse their fields which would take up to 20 years in some cases and others wish to sell their lands and relocate elsewhere.

MET BY GROOS

Mr. Greene was met at the airport by Victoria MP David Groos who used to be his seatmate in the House of Commons before he received the cabinet appointment.

The minister arrived in a Department of Transport Viscount accompanied by Dr. Campbell, deputy minister Dr. S. C. Barry, S. B. Williams, assistant deputy minister; John Channon, grain advisor; Ralph Bennett, livestock director, and Bruce Beer, MP for Peel County and parliamentary secretary to Mr. Greene.

On Sunday Mr. Green met Agriculture Minister Frank Richter of B.C. in Penticton along with representatives of tree fruit farmers.

The federal minister was to see other farm representatives in Vancouver before leaving for visits to Alberta, Saskatchewan and Winnipeg centres.

RAIN, HAIL

Snow's Gone But Winter Hangs About

It's not spring yet.

The snow may be gone — in most places — but Victoria is not being spared the worst the elements can do in other directions.

Hail fell in several areas Saturday afternoon for about half an hour and was described as "quite heavy" by the Gonzales weather bureau.

Rain over the weekend measured more than a third of an inch.

MOVING EAST

It was attributed to a series of weather disturbances moving eastwards. They are responsible for the alternate cloudy and bright periods which are still prevailing.

They also caused wetness elsewhere on the west coast, up to three inches in some places.

Weather will probably clear up tonight, with an expected night temperature of 30 to 32 degrees.

But rain is expected again Tuesday afternoon and evening.

No change is in sight from the present will-it or won't-it-rain conditions, says the weather office.

Perhaps coming with the dampness, robins were seen at a trailer sales office at 2435 Trans-Canada Highway.

Might mean an early spring.

Or maybe they just don't know when to go in out of the rain.

Trial Set On Damage Allegation

Alan H. Robinson, 22, of 2843 Blackwood, pleaded not guilty to wilful damage over $50 when he appeared in central court today.

The charge arose out of a Boxing Day brawl when a group of youths broke into a house party at a Saanich home.

They beat up four men at the residence, broke furnishings and frightened women, police said earlier.

Robinson earlier pleaded guilty to assaulting Joseph Rivard, owner of the home at 200 West Maddock.

Kent Freeman Henley, 1114 Marchant's Rd., has been charged with creating a disturbance by fighting.

Three other youths are sought in connection with the brawl and warrants have been issued for their arrests

Robinson was remanded to Jan. 20 for trial.

RECORD 1.6 MILLION IN CANADA

6.4% Boost in Union Members

Union membership in Canada last year was a record 1,589,000, says the federal labor department's annual survey of labor organizations

This is 96,000 higher than the previous year, or 6.4 per cent. The percentage increase was the highest since 1956.

Union members represented 29.7 per cent of the non-farm paid workers compared with 29.4 per cent in the previous year.

Nearly three-quarters of all union members belonged to organizations affiliated with the Canadian Labour Congress. In most cases, these unions also were affiliated with the AFL-CIO in the United States.

The biggest union continued to be the United Steelworkers of America, with 110,000 members.

The Canadian Union of Public Employees was second with 84,800 and the United Auto Workers third with 77,500.

In the United States, total union membership last year was 16,841,000 compared with 16,559,000 when the last survey was taken in 1962.

Marked Bills Found On Accused: Crown

Marked currency bills, said to have been stolen from a safe in Victoria feed store, were produced in B.C. Assize Court here today.

They were alleged to have been taken from a safe in the Clark and Cordick feed supply store, 2503 Douglas Street, on Sept. 9 and later found in the possession of Steve Remington of Victoria and Shirley Lalonde of Seattle.

Both pleaded not guilty to one charge of breaking and entering the store and stealing $175 in cash, and a second charge of being in unlawful possession of cash under $50.

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy said some of the currency bills taken from the safe were marked and their numbers had been recorded.

One of the marked bills was found in the possession of Remington when he was arrested at 634 Toronto St. the same morning. Another was recovered from Miss Lalonde that afternoon when she was searched by a medical officer.

Mr. Murphy said the feed store was broken into on the night of Sept. 8 or the early morning of Sept. 9.

THROUGH SKYLIGHT

The store was entered through a skylight and a safe was taken from the front office to the rear of the building where it was pried open and cash removed from it.

The theft was discovered when the manager opened the premises at 7:45 a.m. Two hours later Victoria police arrested the two accused at 634 Toronto Street.

Mr. Murphy said Remington turned over a sum of money in his possession and one of the bills was marked. Later he surrendered the clothing he was wearing and one of his shoes was marked with a substance known as safe ballast.

Counsel said this substance came from the safe which had been pried open.

Miss Lalonde was examined by a medical doctor and certain bills were recovered from her person. One of the bills was marked and corresponded with the record of a marked bill taken from the safe.

Mr. Murphy said he would call police witnesses concerning the arrest of the accused and the money found in their possession.

12-MAN JURY

The trial, which continued this afternoon, is being heard by Mr. Justice Victor Dryer and a 12-man jury selected from a panel of 42.

Earlier, Mr. Justice Dryer addressed the jury panel on their rights and responsibilities under democratic law.

"You and I represent the country in this case and we must observe our oath with all due conscience of the responsibility involved."

Long Distance Calls Dropping Up to 55 Cents

Overnight and Sunday point-to-point long-distance calls outside B.C. will drop by up to 55 cents per three-minute connection, B.C. Telephone said today.

The new rates are proposed by Trans-Canada Telephone System to be effective March 6, subject to Board of Transport approval.

No changes are contemplated in daytime weekday person-to-person and short-haul calls, the company said.

But B.C. Tel said its own rate schedule for long-distance calls within the province is under study.

The company said no further comment could be made on details of the review, but added that it is part of continuing studies with a view to "protecting subscriber interests."

HEAVIER TRAFFIC

The national changes are planned due to increased volume in long-distance traffic, the use of direct dialing and more efficiency in transmission.

Reductions apply to calls made for distances of more than 600 miles.

There would be no reduction, for instance, for calls between Victoria and Alberta points.

Some sample rates compared with existing rates would be:

Victoria-Toronto reduced from $2.35 to $1.95; Victoria-Saskatoon $1.65-$160; Victoria Regina $1.70-$1.65; Victoria - Winnipeg $2-$1.85; Victoria-Montreal $2.50-$1.95; Victoria-Halifax $2.50-$1.95.

Additional rates per minute were to be reduced proportionately.

Impaired Driver Jailed 3 Months

A man with two previous impaired driving convictions today was jailed three months when he pleaded guilty in central court to his third offence.

Court was told Bunt Bains, 617 Manchester, was involved in a minor rear-end collision at 6:15 p.m. Jan. 3 at Douglas and Burnside.

He hit the rear of an auto stopped for a red light and caused about $25 damage. It was snowing at the time.

Court was told he was convicted of impaired driving in October, 1961, and jailed 14 days and previously in Duncan in 1957 when he was fined $150.

35-Hour Week, Pay Hike Asked By Carpenters

Vancouver To Set Pattern

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Labor Reporter

Carpenters in British Columbia are seeking a seven-hour work day and a 36-hour week in contract negotiations which began this morning.

They are also seeking a 65-cent raise this year and a further 25 cents in April, 1967.

Current hourly rate for all carpenters in B.C. is $3.49. But because of the seasonal nature of the work, the average work year throughout the province is about nine months.

The present work day is eight hours for a 40-hour week. The current province-wide contract expires in April.

NO STATEMENTS

Talks began this morning between the Provincial Council of Carpenters and the Vancouver Construction Association. A spokesman said at noon it was agreed there will be no statements for newspapers.

Agreement in Vancouver sets the pattern for the rest of the province, although contractors are trying to establish one province-wide association of their own for bargaining and other purposes.

The Provincial Council of Carpenters represents 29 locals with a membership of about 8,000. There are about 700 members of the union's Local 1598 in Greater Victoria.

$2.07 TO START

Other bargaining points sent to contractors around the province include a starting wage for apprentices of $2.07 an hour and three weeks' vacation instead of two.

The president of the Victoria Building Industries Exchange, Bill Dillabough, said the association has been approached by the union but no definite date has been set for talks here.

He said the carpenters are aiming high "and will split down the middle somewhere. It's happened so often."

Burglars Kick Down Arena Door

Thieves got about $300 in cash and goods in weekend break-ins in the city.

The south end concessions at Memorial Arena were broken into overnight Saturday and $18.50 in cigarettes and candy taken.

Thieves kicked in the store room door to get at the goods.

A skeleton key was used on the back door at the home of Henry Jarvis, 1239 Vista Heights, where a bottle of gin and $30 in American funds were taken, police said.

A thief took $145 from a bathroom powder box in the Imperial Inn room of Miss Loa C. Kinney, Vancouver, Saturday night.

And a portable radio valued at $70 was stolen from the auto of William O. Mills, 3151 Glasgow, when it was parked at the Ingraham Hotel Saturday night, police said.

EVERYTHING from toques to topcoats here awaits shipment by Unitarian Service Committee to needy Koreans. About 3,000 pounds of warmth and goodwill, much of it donated by local schoolchildren, is surveyed by Eric Dowell as it rests in Wharf St. warehouse of Dowell's Cartage and Storage. Clothing, added to the more than $13,000 of Times-sponsored Children of Asia fund, will be sent to join the 2,500 pounds which left before Christmas. Total of 10,000 pounds goes overseas from Victoria each year to USC Asian projects. (Times Photo.)

'Admiral' Ashe Adds Still Another Laurel

Nel Ash, 71-year-old "admiral" of the yacht-racing community in Greater Victoria, added another winning ribbon to his sailing toque on Sunday.

In a nine-mile race off Sidney, the winner of last year's Little Swiftsure classic captured first place in the third of a winter racing series for large boats.

He had to contend with strong rip tides and southeasterly wind that blew at 30-knot gale force, gusting to 40.

With his own 26-foot Thunderbird sloop, "May D 11" ashore under wraps for the winter, Ashe borrowed the 20-foot Cal 20 "Santorin", which with two others were the smallest to enter the seven-boat marathon.

The other Cal 20 competitors were George Dufour's "Galenaia" which placed fourth and Peter Young's "Windless Too" which ended up in fifth position.

Crewing with Ned Ashe was Doug Beer, another competent sailor and builder of catamarans, who has captured his own share of silverware in his craft, "Bearcat".

Runnr-up to Ashe was Theo De La Mare in his 35-foot sloop, "Tandem". De La Mare had captured top place in the first two of the winter series.

In third place was the 37-foot Warrior sloop, "Concubine", owned and skippered by Frank Bush.

DESIGNER

One of the most enthusiastic members of "Concubine"'s crew was Ray Richards, marine surveyor and architect, who designed her. "Concubine" was built in the local Philbrook's yard, being completed early last fall.

The 25-foot sloop "Trio," owned and skippered by A. A. Stuart Law, placed sixth, while seventh was the 32-foot Nova Scotian-built sloop, "Te-Pah," skippered by owner Don Lawson.

Two more races are planned for the winter series. The next will be sailed in early February and the final contest the following month.

While most owners of larger boats put them under wraps for the winter, this year a small but enthusiastic group of skippers decided to initiate the new program. Much of the planning has been under the leadership of Theo De La Mare.

Sunday's race had been scheduled for the previous week but the weather forced postponement. On Sunday crews were busy cleaning ice off decks of competing boats almost up to the time they left the jetties for the starting line off Armstrong Point.

Acting as committee boat was Oliver R. Summers' motor-sailer "Canadian Fifer," and official starter was fleet captain Neville Life.

Medical Building Approved

Dr. R. A. Sutherland has been given the green light for a new medical building at 3040 Shelbourne Street, south of Hillside Avenue intersection.

Construction of the $18,000 building, designed by Dr. Sutherland, is expected to start shortly.

Morriss Printing Co., 1745 Blanshard, has also been granted permission to proceed with plans for a second storey on its existing plant.

Charles Morriss said the new floor costing $12,000 will be used for bookbinding work.

"We have just outgrown our existing facilities," he said this morning. "We hope to have the new floor in use in about two months time."

The company has bookbinding contracts with the University of British Columbia and various Toronto companies.

KITCHEN RENOVATION

On the hotel front the Dominion Hotel, 759 Yates Street, has been given permission to proceed with kitchen renovation plans.

"We are completely re-designing the kitchen to take care of growing demands," Bill Clark, manager, said. "The $10.500 job is part of our hotel re-design program. When it is completed we shall move on to the next phase of renovating the coffee shop."

The new kitchen will contain pressure cookers and a charcoal broiler for steaks.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the address of James Arness, who stars in Gunsmoke? J.E.P.

A. It is 1456 N. Bronson, Hollywood 28, California, according to Who's Who in America.

Q. A huge crop of thistles has come up in our field. Now they look dead but I know they will double in the spring. How can we get rid of them? E. S.

A. You are too late to burn the weeds as they have already scattered their seeds, so chemical control is needed, says Times gardening expert Hilda Beastall.

She suggests you telephone the provincial agriculture department to find out what chemicals can be used in your location.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

How About a New Figure To Go With the New Year?

This is the first in a series of 15 articles in which Josephine Lowman tells you exactly what to do to lose 20 pounds in eight weeks. Each column, in addition to specific information, contains sample menus and exercises to refer back to during the eight-week period.

It's a wonderful feeling when the bells ring in a new year! 1966 is a new sheet upon which we can write, and we all plan to record such wonderful things on it. It doesn't have the spilled ink of procrastination or the underlined mistakes of 1965. It is a brand-new clean sheet, waiting for us to write what we will.

Lowman

Of all the New Year's resolutions made, there is probably none women make so often as the resolve for self-improvement, the determination to lose discouraging, fatiguing and unattractive overweight, to streamline the figure, to improve posture, to take better care of complexion and hair; in other words, to become as lovely as possible.

That is why I bring you my Beauty Improvement Plan in January. I want to help you activate your New Year's resolutions while they are still young and enthusiastic. It is an eight-week plan and you can become a new you in eight short weeks. Thousands of women follow this plan each year with startling success, and over and over again, I have seen near-miracles happen in my classes in just eight weeks.

CLIP MENUS

For nine days I will bring you information and give you guidance so that you will be able to get along by yourself. After that, one article a week for six weeks will help you carry on. Each day I will print reducing menus for one day. I suggest that you clip these from your newspaper. You can repeat them, or if you study them, you will be able to plan similar menus. There are many simple tricks involved and I will analyze these for you early in the game.

Of course, the first thing you need to know is what your ideal weight is. Do not confuse your ideal weight with the average weight for your age. Most people gain weight as the years pass, but this is far from ideal.

Your ideal weight at 50 is the same as your ideal weight was at 25. Don't let this discourage you. You can lose that extra weight! Actually, I think that a woman may look younger and prettier if she weighs about five pounds more at 50 than at 25, but don't go haywire with this idea.

1100 CALORIES DAILY

As you will notice, the menus I am bringing you have around 1100 calories a day. For a loss of from 15 to 20 pounds in eight weeks, don't cut too much less than this.

This will give the average woman a loss of from 2 to 2½ pounds a week. This is as rapidly as you should lose for beautiful results, that is, if you have very much weight to lose.

If you have just a few pounds to lose, you can go after them more drastically, but when there is quite a lot of overweight, you must give your skin time to shrink to the new proportions gradually. Exercise is important to increase tone and redistribute weight most attractively

BREAKFAST

Six ounces orange juice, one poached egg on toast, season with a dab of butter or margarine and sprinkle a little grated cheese on top, coffee with teaspoon of sugar.

LUNCHEON

One lean, small hamburger patty, broiled; one-half cup carrots or some yellow or green vegetable, one hard roll, one glass skim milk (8 oz.), one teaspoon butter or margarine may be used on vegetable and roll.

DINNER

Shrimp cocktail — eight medium shrimp and a tablespoon chili sauce with a little lemon juice, medium slice of ham (not fried; cut off fat), one cup of broccoli, seasoned with lemon juice; one-half cup ice cream.

TOTAL calories for the day —1185.

All you have to do to join my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan is to follow the columns in this newspaper. If you would like to have the BIP Kit which gives you complete directions in a booklet and also contains a chart on which you can plot your progress and watch your beauty line rise as your weight line drops, send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling, with your printed name and address, to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

A Culture Pearl Necklace

FOR GOOD LUCK TALISMAN

A "something old" talisman, a culture pearl necklace given to her by her parents, was worn by Donna May Berger when she became the bride of Robert Christian Bloomfield Saturday evening.

Her gown of crystal sheer featured a fitted bodice with a bateau neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves. Deep pleats from the back neckline extended to a Veed waistline, and swept back to a train from a self-fabric rose. Her scallop-edged veil of silk illusion net misted from a floral headpiece starred with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of yellow rosebuds and white carnations.

Standard baskets of roses and carnations in yellow and white tones decorated Garden City United Church when Rev. R. Whitmore heard vows uniting the daughter of Kenneth G. Berger, 774 Burnside Road West, and the late Mrs. Berger, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Bloomfield, 2715 Forbes Street. Mr. Berger gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's attendants, matron of honor Mrs. Byron Bishop, and bridesmatrons Mrs. James O'Reilly and Mrs. Murray Davis were dressed identically in gowns of aqua-green sheer nylon over taffeta. The bodices featured scoop necklines. Floor-length trains extended from a bow at the back waistline. Wedding ring headpieces held their veils of soft net. They carried cascade bouquets of white and yellow carnations.

James Walker was best man at the ceremony, and guests were shown to their pews by James O'Riley and Randy Colley.

At the reception following in the Club Soho, which was decorated in the yellow and white theme for the occasion, the bride and groom cut a three-tier wedding cake decorated by the groom's mother. Yellow candles in silver candelbra flanked the cake. Lawrence Berger proposed the toast to his niece.

For travelling on honeymoon to Seattle, the new Mrs. Bloomfield chose a royal blue brocade suit with a white feather hat and black patent accessories. A corsage of yellow rosebuds and white carnations completed her ensemble.

TODAY'S RECIPE

BAKED BEEF SWIRLS

Two pounds ground lean beef, 2 eggs, 1 (10-ounce) can tomato soup, ¾ cup instant rolled oats, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups coarse soft bread crumbs, 2 cups (½ pound) shredded Canadian cheddar cheese, ¼ cup finely chopped onion, ½ cup finely chopped green pepper, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.

For the Meat Mixture:

Preheat oven to 325 deg. F. Turn meat into a bowl and break up with a fork. Add eggs, half the tomato soup, rolled oats, salt and pepper; combine thoroughly. Turn mixture out onto a sheet of waxed paper and pat into a rectangle, about ½-inch thick and 10 inches wide. Prepare filling.

For the Filling:

Combine bread crumbs, cheese, onion, green pepper, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce and the remaining ½ can of tomato soup. Spread this mixture evenly over meat. Roll up jelly-roll fashion. Carefully cut into eight 1¼-inch slices. Place in a broad, shallow baking dish. Bake in preheated oven about one hour, draining off fat once or twice during baking.

Serves eight.

Crippled Woman Fights for Fares

TORONTO (CP) — A woman crippled by polio 60 years ago is battling with the department of national revenue over her taxi fares.

Margaret Robinson was stricken with polio at five. It left her paralyzed from the hips down, able to walk only with braces and a cane or crutches.

A bookkeeper until she retired this year, she lives in a bachelor apartment on her $76 a month pension.

Miss Robinson cannot climb stairs which means she can't take street cars or subways.

"Taxis are my bread and butter. Crippled people can't exist without them."

In 1963 and 1964 she listed taxi fares as business expenses and deducted them from her income tax. Tax officials say she owes the government that money. They garnisheed some of her final salary in the summer. They cannot garnishee her pension but if she tries to work to supplement it they could garnishee those wages.

"It's a matter of principle and I refuse to give in," Miss Robinson says. "The law must be changed. There are too many crippled people who need some help. I'm no old fuddy-duddy and I'm going to fight."

Several similar cases have been before the income tax appeal board and have been dismissed.

Realism Overdone—

EDINBURGH (CP)—Critics praised the realistic production of Macbeth at the Edinburgh Festival but it was too real for Margaret Waddell, sitting in the front row. When she came out of the theatre, she found her suit spattered with stage blood from the battle scene. The management footed her cleaning bill.

These 'Nutty' Items Sent From Germany

By Penny Saver

Plants of any kind are lovely items to have around the house. Nothing brightens a room more. A shortage of planters prevents some flower-lovers from displaying their carefully-cultivated plants. Others, of course, are not affected by this. Two friends of mine, lacking anything that resembles a flower pot, put their plant in a teapot, and placed it on top of the television set.

I have no teapots to spare, so I was delighted when I found a store that carries delightful planters.

These little creations are imported from Germany, and are made of coconut shells. One type, selling for $3.15, can be suspended from a wall hook. A string of raffia, a fibre from the leafstalks of the raffia palm, and bamboo shoots, attached to the shell with brass rings, makes this possible.

Another, selling for the same price, has crossed bamboo shoots attached to the shell.

A table planter of a coconut on three crossed bamboo sticks, which reminded one young customer of a pot on a fire, sells for $2.69. For the same price is another, supported by three brass legs.

A unique watering can, with a long brass spout following the contour of the coconut at the base, and a curved handle, is priced at $7.98. This item is also supported on three legs.

Imported products from Formosa, made of chrysanthemum wood and carved to follow the natural grain of the wood, are very attractive. A smoker's set, complete with a cigarette box, match holder and ashtray, sells for $5.89.

Vases, shaped like Grecian urns, just the right size for small flowers, sell for $1.98. A larger vase is priced at $3.98.

Bank Account, Build and Color ABC's to Women's Characters

OTTAWA (UPI)—Everything's being boiled down to simple terms these days, even women-rating—in shopping, that is.

Psychologist, newspaper columnist and TV personality, Dr. Joyce Brothers of New York, gave a primer to a predominantly male audience recently.

All that is needed for this exercise is to make a mental note of the type of clothes the subject wears, how she's put together and how she moves. Then you can tell what kind of shopper she is.

She should fit into one of three categories: amiable, bombastic or conservative. From this you should be able to tell whether she likes to buy all the time, sometimes, or to build up a bank account.

The amiable type, says the blonde holder of a Ph.D in psychology, is socially aware of what is correct, which puts her near the top as a style watcher.

She's up to date on the latest products, but doesn't spend money just to be "first on the block." Her clothes are up to date and probably would garb a petite figure.

The bombastic woman, by contrast, is usually a big girl "fairly live, sexy body and walk," says Dr. Brothers of this figure - conscious type; often known to exercise to keep in form. This type of woman would rather spend money than save it. She goes for the latest "new improved formula." She buys flashy clothes and wants to be admired "by everybody."

She buys, buys, buys . . . and gets whistled at.

Moving along the ABC's from "B" to "C" leads to a less voluptuous type.

This is the conservative; she's probably a little under weight and wears unspectacular classic clothes. The opposite to the impulsive buyer, she looks for the best penny for penny value. For her it's "money in the bank" rather than a new wardrobe, Dr. Brothers says.

But in the main women "love" to spend money, she said. "It's one of the psychological differences between men and women."

"Creative shopping," she said, fills an important need for women who no longer have creative outlets such as crocheting and knitting.

But shopping is "much more difficult for women." On purchases women are irrationally motivated. And they are "never satisfied" they have made the right choice. Men, by comparison, reach decisions with ease.

Women in a supermarket, according to a survey cited by Dr. Brothers, "are almost in a state of hypnosis." They glide by friends and neighbors "without even noticing them." And "bump" into displays.

This was recorded by hidden movie cameras which showed the eye blink of women shoppers dropped from the normal 32 per cent to a mere 14 when they were ogling merchandise. Another difference between men and women shoppers is their choice of color. Women's eyes are attracted by red packages, men's by blue.

Color, also, has an effect on people's perception of taste," she says. "It appears the shopper tastes as well as sees the package."

This was proved correct when a biscuit manufacturer wrapped the product in orange - colored packages, "as if they were fresh out of the oven." Sales were increased.

Women come out badly in the fibbing department, Dr. Brothers says. To them its sometimes a "challenge" to their imagination. Other times they tell lies "just for fun."

Men, on the other hand, are cowardly liars. Usually they can't look you in the eye.

Are women better liars than men?

"This," said Dr. Brothers, "is an old myth that is absolutely true."

DEAR ABBY . . .

A Real Snowball!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 years old and in our house we have this rule: Nobody can accept a telephone call during supper time, Well, I have told this to all my friends, but this one girl, no matter how many times I tell her, always calls me during the supper hour and I have to say, "I'll call you back later," but she says, "I just want to say this one little thing," and she goes right on talking, and then I get into trouble. I have tried hanging up on her, but she calls back. My family would never just let the phone ring, so this puts me in a very awkward and embarrassing position. Please help me, B. G.

DEAR B. G.: Don't answer the telephone during mealtime, and if she calls, ask whoever answers the phone to say that you are having your supper and cannot leave the table.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me why people will not make reservations for dinners at civic clubs and church doings? Then they show up at the last minute, sometimes bringing a guest or two. They seem to think that "one or two more" won't matter, but if you have to feed 25 or 30 more than you planned on, it makes a whale of a lot of difference. I would like to have the hat they think we pull our food out of.

NO MAGICIAN.

DEAR NO: Those who do not make reservations but show up anyway are divided (like Gaul) into three parts: the lazy, the thoughtless and the disorganized.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SMARTEST GIRL IN THE CLASS, BUT NOT LIKED": Never seem wiser or more learned than the people you are with. (That advice was given by Lord Chesterfield in 1748, and it's still good for people of all ages.)

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MARGARET TO ATTEND FRENCH BALL

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret will go to the French Riviera resort city of Nice in May for diamond jubilee celebrations of the British - American Hospital there, it was announced this week. With her husband Lord Snowdon, she will attend the hospital gala ball May 6.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Dear Mrs. Farmer:

I am 13 years old and taking sewing for the first time in school. Our teacher told us to make a "scrap book" of all your good ideas so that we can use them later. You always talk about lining things, yet the ones we can afford to buy are not lined. Do we have to line the ones we make?

Sally

Dear Sally:

It's wonderful that you are learning to sew in school. Did you know that there are about 10 million teen-age girls who make their own clothes today?

We must always consider the fabric you will be sewing. Most of the fall clothes are made of wool flannel, orlon flannel, corduroy, tarpoon cloth, bonded wool, ect. All of the fabrics I have mentioned have a great deal of body and are strong and firm. I would say that it would not be necessary to line these jumpers, skirts and dresses.

Lining takes so much more time and adds so much more cost of your garment that it often discourages you from wanting to sew. I have looked over all of the clothes sold to teen-agers and find that very, very few of them are lined, even those costing $30 or more.

As you learn more about sewing and work with more difficult fabrics, there will be more incentive to go to the extra work and eventually you will probably want to line every garment you make.

You must have dreamed of owning a spacious rustic-styled rancher located in a high area of Cedar Hill overlooking the beautiful countryside and golf course. If you have $1,500 and call without delay, we will drive up a long winding, paved driveway, past natural rockeries under the shade of tall magestic oak trees to your dream home—just two steps through the large entry will open to you your home with the perfect floor plan. The long living room, highlighted by a warm central fireplace, features a view picture window. The housewife will be pleased to see her family-sized kitchen with an abundance of cabinets and double sink which leads to an adjoining plumbed utility room. Three in-line bedrooms contain knotty pine built-in wardrobes and bunks in the children's rooms. The handyman will find hours of contentment in the large separate workshop attached to the matching garage and when I show him the expensive hot water heating installation and other modern utilities, he will be most pleased. This home will sell this weekend and therefore I urge you to view it without delay. Terms are most convenient and taxes reasonable.

SALVAGE OPERATIONS began today on a $3,000 float which smashed aground at Clover Pt. during a weekend storm. The float, on its way to Port Washington, North Pender Is., is being torn apart and will have to be reassembled. Owned by Pacific Pile Driving Co. Ltd., the float (for boat mooring purposes) was being towed by the tug Pacific Dolphin when a squall struck Friday. The float snapped its tow and washed in to the rocks off Dallas Rd. Also damaged were eight fiberglass pontoons worth $150 apiece. The 10 by 80-foot float was to be delivered to the department of transport at Port Washington. Loss was covered by insurance.

35-Hour Week, Pay Hike Asked By Carpenters

Vancouver To Set Pattern

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Labor Reporter

Carpenters in British Columbia are seeking a seven-hour work day and a 35-hour week in contract negotiations which began this morning.

They are also seeking a 65-cent raise this year and a further 25 cents in April, 1967.

Current hourly rate for all carpenters in B.C. is $3.49. But because of the seasonal nature of the work, the average work year throughout the province is about nine months.

The present work day is eight hours for a 40-hour week. The current province-wide contract expires in April.

NO STATEMENTS

Talks began this morning between the Provincial Council of Carpenters and the Vancouver Construction Association. A spokesman said at noon it was agreed there will be no statements for newspapers.

Agreement in Vancouver sets the pattern for the rest of the province, although contractors are trying to establish one province-wide association of their own for bargaining and other purposes.

The Provincial Council of Carpenters represents 29 locals with a membership of about 8,000. There are about 700 members of the union's Local 1598 in Greater Victoria.

$2.07 TO START

Other bargaining points sent to contractors around the province include a starting wage for apprentices of $2.07 an hour and three weeks' vacation instead of two.

The president of the Victoria Building Industries Exchange, Bill Dillabough, said the association has been approached by the union but no definite date has been set for talks here.

He said the carpenters are aiming high "and will split down the middle somewhere. It's happened so often."

EVERYTHING from toques to topcoats here awaits shipment by Unitarian Service Committee to needy Koreans. About 3,000 pounds of warmth and goodwill, much of it donated by local schoolchildren, is surveyed by Eric Dowell as it rests in Wharf St. warehouse of Dowell's Cartage and Storage. Clothing, added to the more than $13,000 of Times-sponsored Children of Asia fund, will be sent to join the 2,500 pounds which left before Christmas. Total of 10,000 pounds goes overseas from Victoria each year to USC Asian projects. (Times Photo.)

VISITS NEMATODE AREA

'Here to Listen To Farmers' Says Minister

Canada's new Agriculture Minister Joseph Greene today had a look at the spot where one of his most complicated problems began.

He stopped for a quick look at the J. H. Thompson farm on Martindale Road in Central Saanich where the first discovery of Golden Nematode—a dreaded root crop pest around the world—was made last summer.

Dr. W. P. Campbell, chief of the federal department's plant protection division, who accompanied the minister from Ottawa, gave him a hurried briefing in the field before the party drove into Victoria for a meeting with a farmers' delegation to discuss the nematode problem.

CLOSETED

The minister was closeted in the meeting for most of the three hours he was scheduled to spend in the city as part of a familiarization tour of Western Canada.

Dr. Campbell, who is in charge of the nematode project and spent several weeks here last year, was to remain for about two weeks for further discussions with farmers regarding compensation formulae for those whose fields have been quarantined by federal orders.

Mr. Greene met with Charles Walls, manager of the B.C. Federation, and local farmers Geoffrey Vantreight, representing the root crop and bulb growers, and Ed Lohbrunner, representing nurserymen.

Mr. Greene's only comment to reporters was that he had come to hear what the farmers had to say.

It was understood the meeting would go into the questions of how affected farmers—about nine major potato producers are affected directly and all root crop growers are affected indirectly — should be compensated.

Some farmers want to cleanse their fields which would take up to 20 years in some cases and others wish to sell their lands and relocate elsewhere.

MET BY GROOS

Mr. Greene was met at the airport by Victoria MP David Groos who used to be his seatmate in the House of Commons before he received the cabinet appointment.

The minister arrived in a Department of Transport Viscount accompanied by Dr. Campbell, deputy minister Dr. S. C. Barry, S. B. Williams, assistant deputy minister; John Channon, grain advisor; Ralph Bennett, livestock director, and Bruce Beer, MP for Peel County and parliamentary secretary to Mr. Greene.

On Sunday Mr. Green met Agriculture Minister Frank Richter of B.C. in Penticton along with representatives of tree fruit farmers.

The federal minister was to see other farm representatives in Vancouver before leaving for visits to Alberta, Saskatchewan and Winnipeg centres.

RAIN, HAIL

Snow's Gone But Winter Hangs About

It's not spring yet.

The snow may be gone — in most places — but Victoria is not being spared the worst the elements can do in other directions.

Hail fell in several areas Saturday afternoon for about half an hour, and was described as "quite heavy" by the Gonzales weather bureau.

Rain over the weekend measured more than a third of an inch.

MOVING EAST

It was attributed to a series of weather disturbances moving eastwards. They are responsible for the alternate cloudy and bright periods which are still prevailing.

They also caused wetness elsewhere on the west coast, up to three inches in some places.

Weather will probably clear up tonight, with an expected night temperature of 30 to 32 degrees.

But rain is expected again Tuesday afternoon and evening.

No change is in sight from the present will-it or won't-it-rain conditions, says the weather office.

Perhaps coming with the dampness, robins were seen at a trailer sales office at 2435 Trans-Canada Highway.

Might mean an early spring.

Or maybe they just don't know when to go in out of the rain.

Trial Set On Damage Allegation

Alan H. Robinson, 22, of 2843 Blackwood, pleaded not guilty to wilful damage over $50 when he appeared in central court today.

The charge arose out of a Boxing Day brawl when a group of youths broke into a house party at a Saanich home.

They beat up four men at the residence, broke furnishings and frightened women, police said earlier.

Robinson earlier pleaded guilty to assaulting Joseph Rivard, owner of the home at 200 West Maddock.

Kent Freeman Henley, 1114 Marchant's Rd., has been charged with creating a disturbance by fighting.

Three other youths are sought in connection with the brawl and warrants have been issued for their arrests

Robinson was remanded to Jan. 20 for trial.

GOOD GRIEF! ROASTED PEANUTS?

Linus, Lucy, Schroeder, Charlie Brown and all were rescued from fire Saturday night.

Snoopy was saved too, after muffing his big chance. It was not the faithful dog's barking that saved the Peanuts family.

The credit went to their creator, cartoonist Charles Schultz when his studio was destroyed at Sebastopol, Calif. He saved six strips scheduled for next month. Neighbors pitched in too, saving letters, papers and souvenirs. The studio was destroyed.

Marked Bills Found On Accused: Crown

Marked currency bills, said to have been stolen from a safe in a Victoria feed store, were produced in B.C. Assize Court here today.

They were alleged to have been taken from a safe in the Clark and Cordick feed supply store, 2503 Douglas Street, on Sept. 9 and later found in the possession of Steve Remington of Victoria and Shirley Lalonde of Seattle.

Both pleaded not guilty to one charge of breaking and entering the store and stealing $175 in cash, and a second charge of being in unlawful possession of cash under $50.

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy said some of the currency bills taken from the safe were marked and their numbers had been recorded.

One of the marked bills was found in the possession of Remington when he was arrested at 634 Toronto St. the same morning. Another was recovered from Miss Lalonde that afternoon when she was searched by a medical officer.

Mr. Murphy said the feed store was broken into on the night of Sept. 8 or the early morning of Sept. 9.

THROUGH SKYLIGHT

The store was entered through a skylight and a safe was taken from the front office to the rear of the building where it was pried open and cash removed.

The theft was discovered when the manager opened the premises at 7:45 a.m. Two hours later Victoria police arrested the two accused at 634 Toronto Street.

Mr. Murphy said Remington turned over a sum of money in his possession and one of the bills was marked. Later he surrendered the clothing he was wearing and one of his shoes was marked with a substance known as safe ballast.

Counsel said this substance came from the safe which had been pried open.

Miss Lalonde was examined by a medical doctor and certain bills were recovered from her person One of the bills was marked and corresponded with the record of a marked bill taken from the safe.

Mr. Murphy said he would call police witnesses concerning the arrest of the accused and the money found in their possession.

12-MAN JURY

The trial, which continued this afternoon, is being heard by Mr. Justice Victor Dryer and a 12-man jury selected from a panel of 42.

Earlier, Mr. Justice Dryer addressed the jury panel on their rights and responsibilities under democratic law.

"You and I represent the country in this case and we must observe our oath with all due conscience of the responsibility involved."

Long Distance Calls Dropping Up to 55 Cents

Overnight and Sunday point-to-point long-distance calls outside B.C. will drop by up to 55 cents per three-minute connection, B.C. Telephone said today.

The new rates are proposed by Trans-Canada Telephone System to be effective March 6, subject to Board of Transport approval.

No changes are contemplated in daytime weekday person-to-person and short-haul calls, the company said.

But B.C. Tel said its own rate schedule for long-distance calls within the province is under study.

The company said no further comment could be made on details of the review, but added that it is part of continuing studies with a view to "protecting subscriber interests."

HEAVIER TRAFFIC

The national changes are planned due to increased volume in long-distance traffic, the use of direct dialing and more efficiency in transmission.

Reductions apply to calls made for distances of more than 600 miles.

There would be no reduction, for instance, for calls between Victoria and Alberta points.

Some sample rates compared with existing rates would be:

Victoria-Toronto reduced from $2.35 to $1.95; Victoria-Saskatoon $1.65-$160; Victoria Regina $1.70-$1.65; Victoria - Winnipeg $2-$1.85; Victoria-Montreal $2.50-$1.95; Victoria-Halifax $2.50-$1.95.

Additional rates per minute were to be reduced proportionately.

Impaired Driver Jailed 3 Months

A man with two previous impaired driving convictions today was jailed three months when he pleaded guilty in central court to his third offence.

Court was told Bunt Bains, 617 Manchester, was involved in a minor rear-end collision at 6:15 p.m. Jan. 3 at Douglas and Burnside.

He hit the rear of an auto stopped for a red light and caused about $25 damage. It was snowing at the time.

Court was told he was convicted of impaired driving in October, 1961, and jailed 14 days and previously in Duncan in 1957 when he was fined $150.

Burglars Kick Down Arena Door

Thieves got about $300 in cash and goods in weekend break-ins in the city.

The south end concessions at Memorial Arena were broken into overnight Saturday and $18.50 in cigarettes and candy taken.

Thieves kicked in the store room door to get at the goods.

A skeleton key was used on the back door at the home of Henry Jarvis, 1239 Vista Heights, where a bottle of gin and $30 in American funds were taken, police said.

A thief took $145 from a bathroom powder box in the Imperial Inn room of Miss Loa C. Kinney, Vancouver, Saturday night.

And a portable radio valued at $70 was stolen from the auto of William O. Mills, 3151 Glasgow, when it was parked at the Ingraham Hotel Saturday night, police said.

TOUGH CONDITIONS

'Admiral' Ashe Adds Still Another Laurel

Ned Ashe, 71-year-old "admiral" of the yacht-racing community in Greater Victoria, added another winning ribbon to his sailing toque on Sunday.

In a nine-mile race off Sidney, the winner of last year's Little Swiftsure classic captured first place in the third of a winter racing series for large boats.

He had to contend with strong rip tides and southeasterly wind that blew at 30-knot gale force, gusting to 40.

With his own 26-foot Thunderbird sloop, "May D 11" ashore under wraps for the winter, Ashe borrowed the 20-foot Cal 20 "Santorin", which with two others were the smallest to enter the seven-boat marathon.

The other Cal 20 competitors were George Dufour's "Galenaia" which placed fourth and Peter Young's "Windless Too" which ended up in fifth position.

Crewing with Ned Ashe was Doug Beer, another competent sailor and builder of catamarans, who has captured his own share of silverware in his craft, "Bearcat".

Runner-up to Ashe was Theo De La Mare in his 35-foot sloop, "Tandem". De La Mare had captured top place in the first two of the winter series.

In third place was the 37-foot Warrior sloop, "Concubine", owned and skippered by Frank Bush.

DESIGNER

One of the most enthusiastic members of "Concubine"'s crew was Ray Richards, marine surveyor and architect, who designed her. "Concubine" was built in the local Philbrook's yard, being completed early last fall.

The 25-foot sloop "Trio," owned and skippered by A. A. Stuart Law, placed sixth, while seventh was the 32-foot Nova Scotian-built sloop, "Te-Pah," skippered by owner Don Lawson.

Two more races are planned for the winter series. The next will be sailed in early February and the final contest the following month.

While most owners of larger boats put them under wraps for the winter, this year a small but enthusiastic group of skippers decided to initiate the new program. Much of the planning has been under the leadership of Theo De La Mare.

Sunday's race had been scheduled for the previous week but the weather forced postponement. On Sunday crews were busy cleaning ice off decks of competing boats almost up to the time they left the jetties for the starting line off Armstrong Point.

Acting as committee boat was Oliver R. Summers' motor-sailer "Canadian Fifer," and official starter was fleet captain Neville Life.

Medical Building Approved

Dr. R. A. Sutherland has been given the green light for a new medical building at 3040 Shelbourne Street, south of Hillside Avenue intersection.

Construction of the $18,000 building, designed by Dr. Sutherland, is expected to start shortly.

Morriss Printing Co., 1745 Blanshard, has also been granted permission to proceed with plans for a second storey on its existing plant.

Charles Morriss said the new floor costing $12,000 will be used for bookbinding work.

"We have just outgrown our existing facilities," he said this morning. "We hope to have the new floor in use in about two months time."

The company has bookbinding contracts with the University of British Columbia and various Toronto companies.

KITCHEN RENOVATION

On the hotel front the Dominion Hotel, 759 Yates Street, has been given permission to proceed with kitchen renovation plans.

"We are completely re-designing the kitchen to take care of growing demands," Bill Clark, manager, said. "The $10,500 job is part of our hotel re-design program. When it is completed we shall move on to the next phase of renovating the coffee shop."

The new kitchen will contain pressure cookers and a charcoal broiler for steaks.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the address of James Arness, who stars in Gunsmoke? J.E.P.

A. It is 1456 N. Bronson, Hollywood 28, California, according to Who's Who in America.

Q. A huge crop of thistles has come up in our field. Now they look dead but I know they will double in the spring. How can we get rid of them? E. S.

A. You are too late to burn the weeds as they have already scattered their seeds, so chemical control is needed, says Times gardening expert Hilda Beastall.

She suggests you telephone the provincial agriculture department to find out what chemicals can be used in your location.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

RECORD 1.6 MILLION IN CANADA

6.4% Boost in Union Members

Union membership in Canada last year was a record 1,589,000, says the federal labor department's annual survey of labor organizations

This is 96,000 higher than the previous year, or 6.4 per cent. The percentage increase was the highest since 1956.

Union members represented 29.7 per cent of the non-farm paid workers compared with 29.4 per cent in the previous year.

Nearly three-quarters of all union members belonged to organizations affiliated with the Canadian Labour Congress. In most cases, these unions also were affiliated with the AFL-CIO in the United States.

The biggest union continued to be the United Steelworkers of America, with 110,000 members.

The Canadian Union of Public Employees was second with 84,800 and the United Auto Workers third with 77,500.

In the United States, total union membership last year was 16,841,000 compared with 16,559,000 when the last survey was taken in 1962.

WHY GROW OLD?

How About a New Figure To Go With the New Year?

This is the first in a series of 15 articles in which Josephine Lowman tells you exactly what to do to lose 20 pounds in eight weeks. Each column, in addition to specific information, contains sample menus and exercises to refer back to during the eight-week period.

Lowman

It's a wonderful feeling when the bells ring in a new year! 1966 is a new sheet upon which we can write, and we all plan to record such wonderful things on it. It doesn't have the spilled ink of procrastination or the underlined mistakes of 1965. It is a brand-new clean sheet, waiting for us to write what we will.

Of all the New Year's resolutions made, there is probably none women make so often as the resolve for self-improvement, the determination to lose discouraging, fatiguing and unattractive over weight, to streamline the figure, to improve posture, to take better care of complexion and hair; in other words, to become as lovely as possible.

That is why I bring you my Beauty Improvement Plan in January. I want to help you activate your New Year's resolutions while they are still young and enthusiastic. It is an eight-week plan and you can become a new you in eight short weeks. Thousands of women follow this plan each year with startling success, and over and over again, I have seen near-miracles happen in my classes in just eight weeks.

CLIP MENUS

For nine days I will bring you information and give you guidance so that you will be able to get along by yourself. After that, one article a week for six weeks will help you carry on. Each day I will print reducing menus for one day. I suggest that you clip these from your newspaper. You can repeat them, or if you study them, you will be able to plan similar menus. There are many simple tricks involved and I will analyze these for you early in the game.

Of course, the first thing you need to know is what your ideal weight is. Do not confuse your ideal weight with the average weight for your age. Most people gain weight as the years pass, but this is far from ideal.

Your ideal weight at 50 is the same as your ideal weight was at 25. Don't let this discourage you. You can lose that extra weight! Actually, I think that a woman may look younger and prettier if she weighs about five pounds more at 50 than at 25, but don't go haywire with this idea.

1100 CALORIES DAILY

As you will notice, the menus I am bringing you have around 1100 calories a day. For a loss of from 15 to 20 pounds in eight weeks, don't cut too much less than this.

This will give the average woman a loss of from 2 to 2½ pounds a week. This is as rapidly as you should lose for beautiful results, that is, if you have very much weight to lose.

If you have just a few pounds to lose, you can go after them more drastically, but when there is quite a lot of overweight, you must give your skin time to shrink to the new proportions gradually. Exercise is important to increase tone and redistribute weight most attractively

BREAKFAST

Six ounces orange juice, one poached egg on toast, season with a dab of butter or margarine and sprinkle a little grated cheese on top, coffee with teaspoon of sugar.

LUNCHEON

One lean, small hamburger patty, broiled; one-half cup carrots or some yellow or green vegetable, one hard roll, one glass skim milk (8 oz.), one teaspoon butter or margarine may be used on vegetable and roll.

DINNER

Shrimp cocktail — eight medium shrimp and a tablespoon chili sauce with a little lemon juice, medium slice of ham (not fried; cut off fat), one cup of broccoli, seasoned with lemon juice; one-half cup ice cream.

TOTAL calories for the day —1185.

All you have to do to join my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan is to follow the columns in this newspaper. If you would like to have the BIP Kit which gives you complete directions in a booklet and also contains a chart on which you can plot your progress and watch your beauty line rise as your weight line drops, send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling, with your printed name and address, to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

A Culture Pearl Necklace

FOR GOOD LUCK TALISMAN

A "something old" talisman, a culture pearl necklace given to her by her parents, was worn by Donna May Berger when she became the bride of Robert Christian Bloomfield Saturday evening.

Her gown of crystal sheer featured a fitted bodice with a bateau neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves. Deep pleats from the back neckline extended to a Veed waistline, and swept back to a train from a self-fabric rose. Her scallop-edged veil of silk illusion net misted from a floral headpiece starred with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of yellow rosebuds and white carnations.

Standard baskets of roses and carnations in yellow and white tones decorated Garden City United Church when Rev. R. Whitmore heard vows uniting the daughter of Kenneth G. Berger, 774 Burnside Road West, and the late Mrs. Berger, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Bloomfield, 2715 Forbes Street. Mr. Berger gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's attendants, matron of honor Mrs. Byron Bishop, and bridesmatrons Mrs. James O'Reilly and Mrs. Murray Davis were dressed identically in gowns of aqua-green sheer nylon over taffeta. The bodices featured scoop necklines. Floor-length trains extended from a bow at the back waistline. Wedding ring headpieces held their veils of soft net. They carried cascade bouquets of white and yellow carnations.

James Walker was best man at the ceremony, and guests were shown to their pews by James O'Riley and Randy Colley.

At the reception following in the Club Soho, which was decorated in the yellow and white theme for the occasion, the bride and groom cut a three-tier wedding cake decorated by the groom's mother. Yellow candles in silver candelbra flanked the cake. Lawrence Berger proposed the toast to his niece.

For travelling on honeymoon to Seattle, the new Mrs. Bloomfield chose a royal blue brocade suit with a white feather hat and black patent accessories. A corsage of yellow rosebuds and white carnations completed her ensemble.

For the Filling:

Combine bread crumbs, cheese, onion, green pepper, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce and the remaining ½ can of tomato soup. Spread this mixture evenly over meat. Roll up jelly-roll fashion. Carefully cut into eight 1¼-inch slices. Place in a broad, shallow baking dish. Bake in preheated oven about one hour, draining off fat once or twice during baking.

Crippled Woman Fights for Fares

TORONTO (CP) — A woman crippled by polio 60 years ago is battling with the department of national revenue over her taxi fares.

Margaret Robinson was stricken with polio at five. It left her paralyzed from the hips down, able to walk only with braces and a cane or crutches.

A bookkeeper until she retired this year, she lives in a bachelor apartment on her $76 a month pension.

Miss Robinson cannot climb stairs which means she can't take street cars or subways.

"Taxis are my bread and butter. Crippled people can't exist without them."

In 1963 and 1964 she listed taxi fares as business expenses and deducted them from her income tax. Tax officials say she owes the government that money. They garnisheed some of her final salary in the summer. They cannot garnishee her pension but if she tries to work to supplement it they could garnishee those wages.

"It's a matter of principle and I refuse to give in," Miss Robinson says. "The law must be changed. There are too many crippled people who need some help. I'm no old fuddy-duddy and I'm going to fight."

Several similar cases have been before the income tax appeal board and have been dismissed.

Realism Overdone—

EDINBURGH (CP)—Critics praised the realistic production of Macbeth at the Edinburgh Festival but it was too real for Margaret Waddell, sitting in the front row. When she came out of the theatre, she found her suit spattered with stage blood from the battle scene. The management footed her cleaning bill.

SHOPPING GUIDE

These 'Nutty' Items Sent From Germany

By Penny Saver

Plants of any kind are lovely items to have around the house. Nothing brightens a room more. A shortage of planters prevents some flower-lovers from displaying their carefully-cultivated plants. Others, of course, are not affected by this. Two friends of mine, lacking anything that resembles a flower pot, put their plant in a teapot, and placed it on top of the television set.

I have no teapots to spare, so I was delighted when I found a store that carries delightful planters.

These little creations are imported from Germany, and are made of coconut shells. One type, selling for $3.15, can be suspended from a wall hook. A string of raffia, a fibre from the leafstalks of the raffia palm, and bamboo shoots, attached to the shell with brass rings, makes this possible.

Another, selling for the same price, has crossed bamboo shoots attached to the shell.

A table planter of a coconut on three crossed bamboo sticks, which reminded one young customer of a pot on a fire, sells for $2.69. For the same price is another, supported by three brass legs.

A unique watering can, with a long brass spout following the contour of the coconut at the base, and a curved handle, is priced at $7.98. This item is also supported on three legs.

Imported products from Formosa, made of chrysanthemum wood and carved to follow the natural grain of the wood, are very attractive. A smoker's set, complete with a cigarette box, match holder and ashtray, sells for $5.89.

Vases, shaped like Grecian urns, just the right size for small flowers, sell for $1.98. A larger vase is priced at $3.98.

Bank Account, Build and Color ABC's to Women's Characters

OTTAWA (UPI)—Everything's being boiled down to simple terms these days, even women-rating—in shopping, that is.

Psychologist, newspaper columnist and TV personality, Dr. Joyce Brothers of New York, gave a primer to a predominantly male audience recently.

All that is needed for this exercise is to make a mental note of the type of clothes the subject wears, how she's put together and how she moves. Then you can tell what kind of shopper she is.

She should fit into one of three categories: amiable, bombastic or conservative. From this you should be able to tell whether she likes to buy all the time, sometimes, or to build up a bank account.

The amiable type, says the blonde holder of a Ph.D in psychology, is socially aware of what is correct, which puts her near the top as a style watcher.

She's up to date on the latest products, but doesn't spend money just to be "first on the block." Her clothes are up to date and probably would garb a petite figure.

The bombastic woman, by contrast, is usually a big girl "fairly live, sexy body and walk," says Dr. Brothers of this figure - conscious type; often known to exercise to keep in form. This type of woman would rather spend money than save it. She goes for the latest "new improved formula." She buys flashy clothes and wants to be admired "by everybody."

She buys, buys, buys . . . and gets whistled at.

Moving along the ABC's from "B" to "C" leads to a less voluptuous type.

This is the conservative; she's probably a little under weight and wears unspectacular classic clothes. The opposite to the impulsive buyer, she looks for the best penny for penny value. For her it's "money in the bank" rather than a new wardrobe, Dr. Brothers says.

But in the main women "love" to spend money, she said. "It's one of the psychological differences between men and women."

"Creative shopping," she said, fills an important need for women who no longer have creative outlets such as crocheting and knitting.

But shopping is "much more difficult for women." On purchases women are irrationally motivated. And they are "never satisfied" they have made the right choice. Men, by comparison, reach decisions with ease.

Women in a supermarket, according to a survey cited by Dr. Brothers, "are almost in a state of hypnosis." They glide by friends and neighbors "without even noticing them." And "bump" into displays.

This was recorded by hidden movie cameras which showed the eye blink of women shoppers dropped from the normal 32 per cent to a mere 14 when they were ogling merchandise. Another difference between men and women shoppers is their choice of color. Women's eyes are attracted by red packages, men's by blue.

Color, also, has an effect on people's perception of taste," she says. "It appears the shopper tastes as well as sees the package."

This was proved correct when a biscuit manufacturer wrapped the product in orange - colored packages, "as if they were fresh out of the oven." Sales were increased.

Women come out badly in the fibbing department, Dr. Brothers says. To them its sometimes a "challenge" to their imagination. Other times they tell lies "just for fun."

Men, on the other hand, are cowardly liars. Usually they can't look you in the eye.

Are women better liars than men?

"This," said Dr. Brothers, "is an old myth that is absolutely true."

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Dear Mrs. Farmer:

I am 13 years old and taking sewing for the first time in school. Our teacher told us to make a "scrap book" of all your good ideas so that we can use them later. You always talk about lining things, yet the ones we can afford to buy are not lined. Do we have to line the ones we make?

Sally

Dear Sally:

It's wonderful that you are learning to sew in school. Did you know that there are about 10 million teen-age girls who make their own clothes today?

We must always consider the fabric you will be sewing. Most of the fall clothes are made of wool flannel, orion flannel, corduroy, tarpoon cloth, bonded wool, ect. All of the fabrics I have mentioned have a great deal of body and are strong and firm. I would say that it would not be necessary to line these jumpers, skirts and dresses.

Lining takes so much more time and adds so much more cost of your garment that it often discourages you from wanting to sew. I have looked over all of the clothes sold to teen-agers and find that very, very few of them are lined, even those costing $30 or more.

As you learn more about sewing and work with more difficult fabrics, there will be more incentive to go to the extra work and eventually you will probably want to line every garment you make.

DEAR ABBY . . .

A Real Snowball!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 years old and in our house we have this rule: Nobody can accept a telephone call during supper time. Well, I have told this to all my friends, but this one girl, no matter how many times I tell her, always calls me during the supper hour and I have to say, "I'll call you back later," but she says, "I just want to say this one little thing," and she goes right on talking, and then I get into trouble. I have tried hanging up on her, but she calls back. My family would never just let the phone ring, so this puts me in a very awkward and embarrassing position. Please help me. B. G.

DEAR B. G.: Don't answer the telephone during mealtime, and if she calls, ask whoever answers the phone to say that you are having your supper and cannot leave the table.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me why people will not make reservations for dinners at civic clubs and church doings? Then they show up at the last minute, sometimes bringing a guest or two. They seem to think that "one or two more" won't matter, but if you have to feed 25 or 30 more than you planned on, it makes a whale of a lot of difference. I would like to have the hat they think we pull our food out of.

NO MAGICIAN.

DEAR NO: Those who do not make reservations but show up anyway are divided (like Gaul) into three parts: the lazy, the thoughtless and the disorganized.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SMARTEST GIRL IN THE CLASS, BUT NOT LIKED": Never seem wiser or more learned than the people you are with. (That advice was given by Lord Chesterfield in 1748, and it's still good for people of all ages.)

Heart Attack Kills Shastri

Sask., Nfld. Lashed

By The Canadian Press

Blizzards swept into Saskatchewan and parts of the Atlantic provinces Sunday in a two-fisted wintry wallop. Elsewhere in Canada the sting was mild by comparison.

The raging blizzard that has battered eastern and central Newfoundland for 30 hours continued unabated today. Gales were reaching 85 miles an hour.

The weather office here said more than 15 inches of snow had fallen since the storm began at 4:30 a.m. Sunday. Another four to six inches was expected today.

Most of St. John's was blacked out by a power failure shortly after midnight Sunday night. Although electricity was restored to some blocks of the city by mid-morning there was doubt whether the wires would hold under the fierce gales.

There was no transportation of any kind in the eastern and central part of the province. A few main streets in St. John's were cleared for one-way traffic. A 300-mile stretch of the Trans-Canada Highway between here and Grand Falls was blocked.

TRAVEL IN SNOWPLOW

Hospitals were operating under auxiliary power systems. Only one ambulance was called out and it was accompanied by a snowplow. When the ambulance became hopelessly stuck, the patient, not seriously ill, was taken the rest of the way in the plow.

The city's fire alarm system was disabled. Most homes in the city are heated by oil furnaces. Most cooking is done on electric stoves.

Most radio stations were on the air only intermittently. The St. John's Telegram was prevented from publishing by the power failure.

All schools and most businesses were closed. Memorial University cancelled classes. Mayor William Adams asked people to remain in their homes and Premier J. R. Smallwood called only a skeleton staff into government offices.

Winds whistled at 80 miles an hour in Regina; higher temperatures returned to Alberta and southern Ontario and Quebec while more seasonable rains continued to wash away snow in British Columbia.

Five persons died in two fires during the Maritime storm and in B.C. two persons were killed under a snow slide.

The Saskatchewan storm was moving into Manitoba today bringing cold air and light winds.

In Regina Sunday the only vehicles capable of moving were motor-driven toboggans as high winds drove powdery snow into drifts and cut visibility to zero. All air flights were cancelled.

Twenty cars were abandoned in a one-mile stretch of road near Moose Jaw and in Swift Current police ordered people off the streets.

MANY STRANDED

Many people were stranded but no deaths were reported in the Prairie blizzard.

Four children were killed in a house fire near Halifax and another blaze in Liverpool, N.S., took the life of a seven-year-old boy and injured a man. Road accidents blamed on weather conditions injured at least 11 persons.

Cong Guerrillas Flee U.S. Knockout Drive

SAIGON (CP) — The largest U.S. fighting force of the Vietnamese war demolished a honeycomb of Viet Cong fortifications on the edge of the Iron Triangle 25 miles northwest of Saigon today, but the Viet Cong ducked the knockout punch.

Most of the guerrillas kept away from the U.S. and Australian troops as they scorched the Communist stronghold on the third day of the operation.

Australians operating with the U.S. troops uncovered a big weapons cache left by the fleeing guerrillas.

There were more than 8,000 men in the allied force, but U.S. military spokesman reported only light contact with the enemy, a regiment-sized force thought to be holed up in the 12 square miles of jungle and marshland.

The spokesman reported 22 Viet Cong killed, 38 captured and 269 suspects, mostly women and children, detained. Allied casualties were light, they said.

The Viet Cong units they are chasing are probably less than one-third their number.

Military sources said the troops are clearing the tunnels with tear gas and then blowing them up.

The tunnels are a labyrinth of arsenals, caverns and concrete-lined bunkers below dense jungle territory.

MAKE LIGHT CONTACT

U.S. and Australian troops, supported by a New Zealand artillery battery, have skirmished only lightly with guerrillas since their joint push began two days ago.

This was because the Viet Cong had fled from their subterranean maze "like rabbits from a warren," the sources said.

In one underground Viet Cong hospital, the Australians found food still fresh on the tables. Abandoned guerrilla fortifications were littered with mines and booby traps, hastily planted.

The tunnels uncovered so far are fewer than 20 miles from the Cambodian border. The caverns are stacked with weapons, ammunition, medical supplies and clothing.

The area of the operation, in Hau Nghia province, has been dominated by guerrillas since the days of French rule.

Jets have been making round-the-clock bombing raids, strafing the guerrillas as they emerge.

The Allied force has an armada of more than 200 helicopters at its command, the largest number ever assembled for a single operation.

Slander Action Dismissed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett today won dismissal of a slander suit brought against him by the dismissed chairman of the B.C. Purchasing Commission, George E. P. Jones.

Mr. Justice H. W. McInnes in B.C. Supreme Court ruled that remarks made by the Premier at a Victoria Social Credit meeting last March contained no slander of Jones, either in the natural, ordinary meaning of the words or in the innuendo Jones claimed.

In his ruling the judge upheld the premier's counsel, George L. Murray, who moved for dismissal of the action in the absence of the jury on the grounds that no slander had been uttered.

JURY RE-CALLED

After delivering his 19-page judgment in which he reviewed the whole history of the case of Jones, who was dismissed by an act of the legislature in March, 1965, the judge re-called the eight-man jury and told them he had decided there was no case which could properly be submitted to them and that he had dismissed the action.

The judge said that should Premier Bennett ask for costs, he had no alternative but to allow them.

At no time during the two days of the suit did Premier Bennett appear in court. The case opened Dec. 21 but the following day was adjourned until Jan. 10 while the judge considered arguments on points of law.

Jones' counsel Tom Berger said he had not decided whether to appeal.

The remarks on which Jones based his suit were made by the premier after Jones had been forcibly retired as chairman of the commission with full salary up to Feb. 15, 1966. This would give him the required 10 years' service for pension rights and pay him a pension for life.

'RIGHT POSITION'

The premier, when addressing the Social Credit Association, was quoted as saying: "I'm not going to talk about the Jones boy. I could say a lot, but just let me assure you of this: the position taken by the government is the right position."

Jones' counsel argued that the remarks contained "an innuendo which left Jones the victim of rumor and speculation" and that the inference was that Jones was dishonest and unfit to act as chairman of the purchasing commission.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice McInnes noted that Jones was appointed Feb. 15, 1956, to the position of chairman of the commission which purchases supplies required in the public service of the province, a position of authority which required respect between the commission and the government.

On Oct. 2, 1964, Jones was charged with accepting a bene-

N. VIET TALKING TO U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today there has been direct contact with Hanoi on the Vietnamese situation. There was no further elaboration.

This word came from White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers in response to a question. Moyers declined to say how the contacts were made, who made them or to provide any details or elaboration.

This was the first announcement of contact with the North Viet Nam government since President Johnson began his peace offensive Christmas Eve.

The question that prompted Moyers' remark dealt with an unauthorized trip of three Americans to Hanoi and their report that there had been no contact by the U.S. government with Hanoi.

"They are incompletely informed," Moyers told reporters.

Asked whether this means there has been direct contact with Hanoi, Moyers replied: "That's a safe deduction."

There was no word whether the communication was personal or by telephone nor was there any word of results.

Moyers added he will say nothing more on matters such as these.

Indian PM Dies at 61

TASHKENT, U.S.S.R. (UPI)—Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri died of a heart attack this afternoon, an Indian press officer announced.

Shastri was 61.

The Indian prime minister had been in this southern Soviet city attending a Soviet arranged summit conference on the Indo-Pakistani Kashmir conflict.

The conference ended earlier today after Shastri and Pakistani President Mohammad Ayub Khan signed a declaration renouncing the use of force and restoring diplomatic relations that had been broken off last September by their two nations' undeclared war over Kashmir.

Shastri—a small self-effacing statesman who preferred compromise to conflict—became prime minister of India in July, 1964, following the death of Jawaharlal Nehru.

He had served as Nehru's deputy after the latter had suffered his first stroke in January, 1964.

He died only 12 hours after he had signed a historic declaration with Pakistan renouncing the use of force between the two nations.

The tiny, self-effacing Shastri was stricken soon after he returned from a gala summit farewell banquet given by Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin. A doctor was summoned, but Shastri died 40 minutes afterwards.

Announcement of the Indian leader's death plunged this summit city into confusion and despair.

"What a tragedy, what a tragedy," cried a woman official at the Hotel Tashkent as she awoke correspondents and conference officials to announce: "Mr. Shastri is dead."

Shastri had a history of heart trouble.

Kosygin Scores As Peacemaker

TASHKENT (UPI)—The Soviet Union scored its first diplomatic triumph as an international peacemaker today when the leaders of India and Pakistan agreed to pull back troops from the front lines of disputed Kashmir.

In a nine-point communique signed at the end of week-long peace talks in this Soviet Central Asian city, Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri and Pakistani President Mohammad Ayub Khan also agreed to exchange prisoners and continue efforts toward peaceful relations.

The document was viewed here as an important step toward ending the 18-year feud between India and Pakistan over Kashmir, as well as a triumph for the Soviet Union in its unprecedented effort to mediate peace between two non-Communist nations.

Diplomats said Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, through hours of behind-the-scene efforts, had saved the conference from foundering.

"Kosygin gave the conference a blood transfusion," an Indian spokesman said.

(In Washington, President Johnson welcomed the agreement and said it was a step in the right direction toward peace. Some American officials believed the pact would boost Russia's stock in its struggle with China for influence in Asia.)

'Mediation Behind the Scenes'

Pakistani spokesmen said Kosygin's intervention in the conference "amounted to mediation—but it was mediation behind the scenes."

It was the first admission by either side that Kosygin expanded his role from "good offices" to "mediation." But there was no hint he actually offered concrete proposals.

Aziz Ahmed, the Pakistani spokesman, said the agreement was "a great achievement as far as it goes," but "it did not go far enough."

Ahmed indicated Pakistan had hoped for more detailed arrangements for permanent machinery to settle the Kashmir problem, although the machinery envisaged in the document "may be sufficiently effective."

The spokesman revealed the communique was approved only at 1:30 a.m. today, after Kosygin's final midnight meeting with Shastri.

Ahmed indicated future meetings between the two nations may be held on Soviet soil when he referred to the summit as the "first Tashkent conference."

COMMONWEALTH MEETING ON RHODESIA OPENS TUESDAY

Big Selling Job Faces Wilson in Nigeria

By IAN MACDONALD
Times Ottawa Correspondent

LAGOS, Nigeria—The Commonwealth is at a crisis crossroads in this sweltering African city. What happens here in the next 48 hours could snap the already strained ties that hold together the 22 member countries.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson arrived from London today on one of the biggest selling jobs of his career. He has to convince the angry, resentful African members that the Rhodesian rebels are on their last legs.

Wilson has to show them that Prime Minister Ian Smith's regime will topple through economic sanctions and without the necessity of armed intervention.

There is an air of tension in Lagos, the Nigerian capital, and security is tight. armed policemen and troops are to be seen all over the city of about 700,000 people.

Soldiers in colorful costumes but with a down-to-earth arsenal are guarding the federal Palace Hotel, scene of the conference Tuesday and Wednesday.

Prime Minister Pearson checked in there Sunday after a wearying 13-hour flight from Ottawa. He left the capital by Air Canada chartered DC-8 jet at 4 p.m. Saturday and arrived here close to 11 a.m. local time after an unscheduled stop at Ghana.

Pearson told newsmen at the airport, "I am here to listen and help. I have nothing to pull out of the hat at the moment." The prime minister reserved his view when asked about the use of force in Rhodesia.

Pearson said he would have to hear what Harold Wilson had to say before he could say if there was any need for Britain to revise her policy.

The prime minister got President Kwame Nkrumah out of bed when the plane, with 14 in the official party and four reporters aboard landed at Accra to wait for fog to clear at Lagos.

Ghana and Tanzania have both broken off diplomatic relations with Britain and are boycotting the conference called by Nigerian Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa.

Nkrumha rushed from his residence in casual clothes after he was notified of Pearson's unexpected visit. The prime minister talked to Nkrumah and Ghana's foreign minister Alex Quaison-Sackey for about an hour at Accra airport.

Pearson declined to say what they talked about but Nkrumah apparently renewed his attacks on Britain for its

Gov't Car Insurance New Goal for Labor

OTTAWA (CP) — A major campaign to promote the idea of government automobile insurance will be mounted next month by the Canadian Labour Congress, President Claude Jodoin announced today.

It will be the theme for this year's Citizenship Month observance by the 1,200,000-member labor body. Last year's topic was medicare.

Mr. Jodoin said in a statement that the mounting toll of deaths, injuries and damage on Canadian highways has become a problem of major national importance.

The CLC proposes that the provinces establish commissions to collect and administer auto insurance funds and deal with accident claims.

CASSANO D'ADDA, Italy — A mystery about missing Chirstmas cards was solved here today. Mailman Antonio Carlotti, 56, was accused of dumping the cards in a canal because he got tired of carrying them.

"There was too much work," police quoted him as saying.

"I had been working like a mule during the Christmas period. I did my best to deliver the important letters and parcels in due time. But, gentlemen, let's try to be sensible. Those damned postcards are certainly not very important things. So I threw the lot into the canal. I certainly never thought there would be somebody with the hobby of letter-fishing."

Investigation began last week when residents along Carlotti's delivery route in this north Italian town grew alarmed at the sight of mail floating in a canal.

His escapades brought him a postwar record for robberies and about $62,000 in loot.

LONDON—Angry city-bound businessmen today left their cars—jammed nose-to-tail in a giant pileup—to tangle with crusading housewives and their husbands whom they blamed for the chaos.

Four lanes of rush-hour traffic from different directions were brought to a standstill at suburban Northcolt, near London Airport, when 150 wives stood in the street with placards. They were demanding traffic lights be installed at a pedestrian crossing.

Motorists, late for work, left the mile-long lines of cars. Fighting broke out with sympathetic husbands of the women demonstrators.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Rain was general over the south coast today with a disturbance over Vancouver Island. It has given up to three inches of rain to the west coast of Vancouver Island in the last 24 hours. Snow was to spread across the interior this morning as the system moved inland. A ridge of high pressure will move to the coast later today and clearing is expected in coastal areas this evening. As a result, slightly colder temperatures will occur tonight on the lower mainland. However, the clearing will be of short duration since another Pacific storm is expected to reach the coast late Tuesday. It will bring more rain and strong winds to coastal areas.

Six People Injured In Car-Bus Accident

Seven persons were taken to hospital following road mishaps in the Victoria area Saturday.

Most serious accident involved a new car and a bus at Belmont and Highway 1A at Colwood.

All six persons in the auto were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital but bus occupants were uninjured.

They were 30 children being transported to the Belmont Park naval housing development and driver Robert Maltby, 46, of 921 Pandora.

The car, driven by Kenneth Cooper, 26, of 1000 Brock, struck the side of the bus as it turned off the highway onto Belmont Road, police said.

Mr. Cooper has been released from hospital but his wife, Merna, 19, remained and is in fairly good condition with head and neck injuries.

Other passengers in the car are reported in good condition.

They are Mrs. Madelaine Munroe, 37, chest injuries; Colleen Cooper, 7, Denise Cooper, 4, and Tom Edwards, 12, all with head and leg injuries.

Mrs. Munroe and the three children are from Browning, Montana.

Ronald J. Lamontagne, 2632 Douglas was treated for arm injuries and released from hospital after his auto struck a power pole at Marigold and Burnside Saturday night.

The car sheared off the pole and caused power outages in the area for up to two hours.

The collision caused an estimated $1,175 damage, police said.

handling of the affair.

A few hours later the Ghana government releasd a statement criticizing the British government. It charged that if economic sanctions were to be applied against the illegal Smith regime "this can only be done effectively under the charter of the United Nations."

The statement noted that Britain had opposed the Rhodesian situation being dealt with under the charter. It claimed that the sanctions advocated by Britain, which Canada backs along with almost every other country, are inadequate to deal with the situation.

Ghana also charged that the only effect of the British policy would be to "substitute another settler regime in place of the existing one".

Ghana has a loud voice in the Organization of African Unity which has demanded military action.

Pearson later was taken for a siren-screaming car ride through part of Accra. Along many of the streets were signs berating colonialism and stating that African unity is inevitable. Nkrumah, who rules Ghana with an iron fist, didn't go along for the ride.

Pearson landed at Lagos after 45-minute flight from Accra. He was met by the Nigerian foreign minister and later met Prime Minister Balewa.

The conference is the first major test for the secretary-general of the Commonwealth, Canadian Arnold Smith who was appointed last summer to the newly-created post.

Smith and a staff of about 30 came from London to Lagos a few days ago to help organize the conference.

A spokesman for the secretariat said he did not think some of the Africans are as angry about the Rhodesian situation as they were a few weeks ago, but said they will needs lots of convincing as to the appropriateness of Britain's stand.

The conference was put together in a hurry and some of the arrangements show it. Nigeria has clamped on security that makes getting information difficult.

The Federal Palace—a new six-storey hotel on the Lagos waterfront—is supposed to be out of bounds to all reporters until Tuesday when they will be allowed in briefly.

I talked my way into the lobby Sunday night but was on the verge of being thrown out when Prime Minister Pearson came in and saved the day.

Commonwealth leaders and officials are arriving in Lagos by the hour. About 10 leaders are expected, the other countries being otherwise represented. Apart from the two countries boycotting the session, Australia has only an observer attending. Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies contended the Rhodesian affair was between that country and Britain.

There is disappointment expressed here at the Australian attitude, the Africans being particularly touchy about everything.

'Principal Secretary' Appointed

OTTAWA (CP) — John S. Hodgson, 48, has been appointed "principal secretary to the prime minister," Mr. Pearson has announced.

An economist and career civil servant, Mr. Hodgson has been assistant deputy of defence for the last 30 months, concentrating on financial administration. Mr. Pearson said in a statement that the post of principal secretary has not been occupied in recent years but that it existed before in Canada. Mr. Hodgson will co-ordinate all programs and activities of the prime minister's office.

The appointment follows the departure of Tom Kent who as policy secretary to the prime minister had duties similar to those now assumed by Mr. Hodgson.

Mr. Kent, whose salary was $25,000 annually, became deputy minister of immigration Jan. 1 and will become deputy minister of manpower when that department is created by parliament.

TRANSIT STRIKE

Negotiations 'Completely Meaningless'

NEW YORK (AP)—Marathon negotiations to end the city's 10-day-old bus and subway strike recessed just before dawn today, and the chief union bargainer said they had been "completely unproductive (and) meaningless."

Even as the weary negotiators were leaving, the rumble of converging traffic was building in Manhattan's canyons, City officials said the commuting millions, with a week's bitter experience behind them had started earlier on this second work week of the strike.

The recess ended a bargaining session that started Sunday morning.

Thus, the strike continued with these developments:

—Low temperatures piled added misery upon tens of thousands of commuters forced to walk the windswept bridges into Manhattan;

—Traffic experts invoked new emergency rules to speed the flow of nearly 800,000 cars;

—The Transport Workers Union called for a mass picketing demonstration at city hall;

—Shopkeepers in crisis surged on small business loan centres authorized by President Johnson;

—Leaders in Harlem and other poverty areas organized car pools to transport workers unable to pay cab fares.

—A Democratic state leader said Republican Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller can put up $10,000,000 to help pay New York City transit costs.

—The transit authority resumed its court effort to collect $322,000 a day in damages from the union.

The 34,400 members of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union walked out New Year's Day over wage and fringe benefit demands in a new contract which the transit authority estimated would cost $680,000,000 over two years.

The authority offered a package estimated at $29,000,000, which it said was within the 3.2 per cent non-inflationary limit set by President Johnson.

The union came back with scaled-down demands which totalled $216,000,000 — a sum termed still unreasonable by the authority.

No public announcements have been made on any further narrowing of the gap.

President Johnson, in response to an appeal by Rockefeller, last Friday announced that $20,000,000 would be set aside for the small shop proprietor, who could receive individual loans up to $15,000 at 5½ per cent interest for three years. No collateral is required and hundreds thronged bureaus Sunday to make application.

The union seeks a 30 per cent pay hike, and a reduction in the work week to 32 from 40 hours.

Present pay scales range from $2.75 an hour for change booth clerks to $3.50 an hour for signal maintainers. Subway motormen get $3.46 and bus drivers receive $3.22 an hour.

Herb Book Gourmet's Delight

Culinary, or cooking, herbs are closely associated with vegetables.

If a gardener cares to grow vegetables to please his gourmet palate it is more than likely that a few herbs will also be grown for experimenting together with the vegetables either in raw salad form or when cooked.

Recipes for using these delicacies, as they may well be described, are sadly lacking in modern periodicals, fortunately some excellent books have been published in recent years on the growing and the use of herbs.

One which I have had loaned me for winter reading has the title The Gourmet's Garden, written by Douglas Bartram.

As an Englishman he uses a few words puzzling to Canadian minds such as a tart, which corresponds roughly to a rather shallow pie although usually a tart has an open or latticed top. A flan, I think, is a puff pastry shell to be filled with a mixture after it is lightly baked.

UNUSUAL RECIPES

The book makes really delightful reading, combining the essentials of growing all the well-known vegetables, herbs, tree fruits and bush fruits with a variety of unusual recipes for each kind.

Being written by a man the book is less likely to be dismissed lightly by men readers, for the world's most renowned chefs have, somewhat unaccountably, been men.

Articles and recipes on such subjects as figs, artichokes, leeks and the lowly potato as well as all the cooking herbs to go with them are enough to make all gardeners eager to plan the spring layout.

Varieties in many cases must be adjusted to suit our different climate, soil and growing conditions, but the general information is so complete that it can readily be revised by the average hobbyist, making good reading for January.

Contractor's Bride Wounded

VANCOUVER (CP)—A contractor was killed and his bride of three months suffered a throat wound in a shooting affray in a south-side home here Sunday night.

Police who surrounded the house following the wounding of Mrs. Peter Van Eynsbergen, about 45, heard a shot and found Peter Van Eynsbergen, 50, dead. A rifle was beside the body.

Police said Mrs. Van Eynsbergen was shot in the throat and hand and ran screaming from the house.

Neighbors said the Van Eynsbergens had just returned from a honeymoon in Mexico. He was operator of Peter Van Construction Ltd.

Car Ferries Freed From Ice

SOREL, Que. (CP)—Two car ferries stuck in heavy ice on the St. Lawrence River since Sunday afternoon with 85 passengers and 28 cars aboard were freed today by two federal government icebreakers.

A spokesman for La Compagnie de la St. Laurent, owners of the ferries, the Napoleon L. and Pierre de Sorel, said the ferries reached shore safely with no ill-effects among the passengers despite their 14-hour ordeal.

Temperatures were freezing during their stay in mid-river. A Quebec Provincial Police spokesman said many aboard were driven by hunger to fill up from shipboard stocks of candy bars, cakes and soft drinks.

The boats ply the river between Sorel and Ile St. Ignace, a distance of about one mile. Sorel is 40 miles northeast of Montreal.

The spokesman for the ferry company said the Napoleon L., with 50 persons and 20 cars aboard, became stuck some 1,500 feet from the shore.

The Pierre de Sorel, with 35 persons and eight cars aboard, was stuck some 150 feet from the shore.

Welfare Plans Now Packaged

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Add to the list of items for the next parliamentary session a packaged approach to shared-cost welfare programs.

Federal and provincial welfare ministers Saturday concluded a two-day conference at which they agreed on some existing and some new welfare programs to be grouped under the name Canada Assistance Plan.

Federal Health Minister MacEachen said he hopes the final touches will be put on the plan in time to get it into Parliament early in the session which starts Jan. 18.

The price tag for the federal government will range between $185,000,000 and $250,000,000 a year, depending on the number of optional programs the provinces want included in the welfare package.

Generally speaking the federal government continues to pay half the cost of provincial payments to the needy unemployed and for the first time assumes half the cost of provincial payments to mothers with dependent children and for medical care to welfare recipients.

WILL PAY HALF

If the provinces individually request it, Ottawa also will pay half the cost of provincial payments to the needy between ages 65 and 69 and of blind and disabled allowances.

Mr. MacEachen told a press conference he expects some provinces will want to continue present blind allowance cost-sharing under which Ottawa pays 75 per cent of the cost.

While cost-sharing on a 50-50 basis now is in effect for such programs as aid to the needy unemployed and to the needy aged 65 to 69, the Canada Assistance Plan will provide a different system of determining need.

Some existing programs have ceilings on additional income for recipients which, if exceeded, scale down the amount of monthly welfare payments. Under the new plan, the ceilings disappear in favor of more flexibility in determining individual needs.

Under the new plan, Ottawa also will make contributions towards strengthening public assistance administration and the cost of extending welfare services.

The conference put down for further study the question of increasing family allowances, now paid exclusively by the federal government.

In agreeing on 50-50 cost-sharing on programs under the plan, the conference turned down the request of Ontario Welfare Minister Louis Cecile that the federal share be 75 per cent.

The conference communique said consideration will be given to integrating child welfare and welfare grants programs into the plan and providing special aid for low-income provinces.

The Atlantic provinces had made a pitch for a special cost-sharing arrangement on welfare programs to ensure they can provide adequate levels of assistance to their residents.

fit from a Victoria car dealer, a man who had dealings with the government. Jones had then been relieved of his duties but had refused to recognize an order-in-council relieving him and had remained in his office until the legislature passed an act forcing his dismissal.

DECISION UPHELD

The criminal charges against Jones were later dismissed in county court in Victoria and the decision was upheld in the B.C. Court of Appeal.

Mr. Justice McInnes said that the government had the power to remove Jones from office without further compensation if it was alleging dishonesty against him. But this had not been done. Jones had been provided with compensation in lieu of salary to permit him to draw a pension.

Considering this, said the judge, it was inconceivable that any reasonable persons would conclude or draw the inference (from the premier's remarks) that Jones was being removed from office by reason of misbehavior of dishonesty.

Charges Dismissed Over Identity Lack

Lack of identification of either car or driver resulted in dismissal of two traffic charges against a man in central court last week.

Kanzimierz Potasinski, 220 Linden, was acquitted of failing to remain at an accident scene and careless driving.

The charges arose out of an accident last month when a car similar to that of Potasinski's was seen leaving the scene.

Witnesses only got the last three digits in the licence number of the offending vehicle and they corresponded with the last three of Potasinski's car.

Magistrate William Ostler noted the defendant's car was of "similar color and model" to the one described by witnesses to the mishap.

He said the Crown's case was built around "circumstantial evidence which bristles with suspicion."

But he said the vehicle in question was not positively identified and neither was its

CEDAR HILL SAFE SAYS CURTIS

Golfers Won't Be Stymied

Saanich has no development plans for Cedar Hill golf course, Reeve Hugh Curtis said today.

He said it is doubtful the present council, or another council in the near future, will interfere in a major way with the golf course.

The capital budget plan approved by ratepayers last month provides for purchase of the 100-acre McRae estate which includes the golf course. Purpose is to ensure its contination as open space.

The reeve hoped the attitude of council will be to retain the golf course although there would be some alteration of holes and fairways when Tattersall Rd. is pushed through.

"One rumor currently at large is that Saanich has plans for exhibition grounds," he said. "This is completely untrue."

PHILLIPS
. . . battles poverty

Money Spent On Pet Food, Not Housing

VANCOUVER (CP) — This may be the year of Canada's greatest prosperity, the year of the affluent society; but a quarter of the country's population exist at the near-poverty level, says R. A. J. Phillips, the man who is spearheading the federal government's war on poverty.

The 43-year-old former Canadian diplomat in Moacow told the Vancouver Institute Saturday that of the 25 out of every 100 Canadians regarded as "poor," most are living "in anything from run-down dwellings to outright hovels." This was partly due to the fact Canada spent so little on public housing.

Some $8,000,000 was spen. for public housing in 1964. Yet Canadians spent $297,214,000 on tobacco; $1,079,000,000 on legal liquor, more than $430,000,000 on the horses, both legally and illegally.

On tinned cat and dog food they spent $30,000,000 that year. But on public housing only $8,000,000 when conservative surveys showed Canada's housing deficit at not less than 300,000 units.

"We are building housing units at the rate of 1,100 units a year," he said. "That's why Canadians still live in slums."

Another aspect of poverty was the fact that in Canada, "with one of the highest per capita investments in education in the world, we still have a million people who for practical purposes cannot read or write." They represented "human resources that Canada is wasting." Quite apart from the barrenness of their own lives they are "a drag on Canadian society in both the physical and cultural sense."

Blast In Church

WASHINGTON (AP) — One woman was killed and several persons injured Sunday night when an explosion, believed caused by a gas furnace, blew out the rear of a brick church in a Negro section of the U.S. capital.

IN VERDUN

Blast Kills Prominent Sportsman

MONTREAL (CP)—A prominent sportsman from suburban Verdun was killed and a second man injured today when an explosion caused a concrete wall to collapse at a sports project under construction in Verdun. Rescue workers were digging in the wreckage for other possible victims.

Police said between five and seven men were working on construction of the project, called Chalet II, when the explosion of unknown origin occurred.

Two men were known to have escaped. What happened to the others was unknown.

Killed in the blast was Alexandre Viau, 52, president of Verdun Maple Leafs of the Metropolitan Junior Hockey League. He was reported to have been placing concrete blocks for the project.

Verdun Mayor George O'Reilly said the toll could have been much higher had the blast occurred a few minutes later. A large number of day-shift workers were just arriving at the scene when it occurred.

PIRANHAS DOWN REBELS

CARACAS (AP) — Man-eating piranha fish devoured 21 guerrillas in the Arauca River in southwest Venezuela, the newspaper La Religion reports. The paper, a Roman Catholic Church organ, said the victims were among rebels on a raft who were surprised by a national guard patrol and jumped into the river in a bid to escape.

The Ice-Cold Satire Of George Axelrod

By LEE LANGLEY
Manchester Guardian

George Axelrod is tall, amiably fleshed, and an easy smiler. He also looks boyish, impressionable, and innocuous.

He is none of these. Mr. Axelrod is a destroyer; a smiler with a knife: a tireless Pygmalion who unveils each new goddess with the leery grin of a man who knows he has created a monster.

Masquerading as a comedy writer, he is an ice-cold satirist who has blown a number of chill draughts through the chinks in the American social armour. He is fighting the image of the American male as a simple-minded, wife-ridden boob perpetrated by comic strips, television shows, radio serials, Hollywood movies — "just about every medium except skywriting."

Making Love

It was Axelrod who pointed out that the only time the male wears the trousers in American sex-comedies is while making love . . .

In the context of American humor he hovers midway between Thurber and a "'Playboy" foldout — "there aren't pinups any more, only foldouts, and the girls don't have navels, they have staples in their stomachs."

He shares the apprehensive Thurber flinch from the female of the species, but insists that he writes about all his women with great affection. "You don't trouble to attack things you don't care about. I don't really destroy . . . anyway, the destruction is so gentle you hardly feel it."

George Axelrod is the man who wrote "The Seven-Year Itch." that sad, hilarious fable which pinpointed the situation of the middle-aged married man abandoned by his family to the long, hot, city summer and the advances of any unattached blonde loose in the vicinity.

Women Booed

Most recently, in "How to Murder Your Wife," Axelrod built up a sourly convincing picture of conjugal bile that shook audiences looking for no more than a domestic laugh. At its early showings in the States men broke into spontaneous applause, women into equally spontaneous boos.

"It's hard to explain how the women were allowed to take over in America. The situation sort of snook up on us. First they got the vote, then . . ."

Since Axelrod can clearly write comedy which is not only funny and intelligent but good box office, Hollywood has welcomed him warmly.

He has written, or adapted from his own stage plays, several films, including "Phfft," "Bus Stop," "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" which introduced Jayne Mansfield to a wondering world and which Axelrod disowns as having nothing to do with his play at all. He adapted Truman Capote's "Breakfast at Tiffany's" for the screen, and he also wrote a political melodrama, "The Manchurian Candidate," which was not altogether a comedy and which a number of people, including Axelrod himself, believe paved the way for films like "Dr. Strangelove."

Not Quite Same

"I'm completely uninterested in politics; politicians in general are just power-oriented creatures trying to tell us what to do. It would be nice to have a sane president of the United States, but for a man to want to be president means of a necessity that he's not quite sane."

Axelrod admits that he participates in the social rituals he pillories so accurately in his writing:

"'The Seven-Year Itch' had a lot of me in it, and my guilt feelings. Sure, I'm riddled with guilt feelings, any American male over 25 is. I act like I'm a nonconformist, but scratch the surface and you'll find it doesn't go very deep. They get you young and condition you: this present generation is the first to have escaped.

Seen Threat

"Actually, the new threat is the teen-age one. The kids run things as even the women never have. Do you realize that in 20 years' time two thirds of the population of the United States will be under 25? I guess we'll have to figure out a way to keep the old ones going to maintain some kind of balance . . ."

By way of scoring first blood in the battle, Axelrod has just directed his first film, "Lord Love a Duck"—"a cross between Andy Hardy and Dr. Strangelove."

"It's a savage, savage black comedy about teen-age mores in Southern California. I have a theory that America embodies almost everything that's wrong with the Western world, and California embodies almost everything that's wrong with America. That's where we start from.

"We're being very factual. We've got conversation pits, for instance. Do you have conversation pits here? Then there's a drive-in church—'Worship in the privacy of your own automobile'—I saw that sign up once by the highway, and it occurred to me that if you wished to kneel and you had a sports car, you'd have a pretty difficult job . . ."

Passion for Vulgar

One of the stars of the film is a young Hollywood actress called Tuesday Weld. "She plays a High School girl who dreams with an almost lyric passion for everything that is vulgar. Her punishment is that she gets it; she ends up the cause of an hilarious (I hope it's hilarious) mass murder, and goes off to be a movie queen in a film called 'Bikini Widow' . . ."

When the Monsoons Fail Famine Threatens India

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI — Suddenly, Mother India's cupboard was nearly bare and her 480 million already hungry children feared for the future.

Drought, the worst in a century, was blamed, along with the government's failure to improve agriculture while the population increased by 12.5 million people a year.

Critics said Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri's predecessor, the late Jawaharlal Nehru, was an economic star gazer—a man who dreamed of bigger, better steel mills and dams while his people spent malnourished lives looking for their next meal.

Farmers scratched at the tired, hungry soil with the same tools and techniques their forefathers used centuries ago. India had no "fat" for use in bad crop years. And when the rains failed to come in 1965, the hungry trembled.

Last spring, in Rajasthan state, in western India, man and beast hung on, waiting for the rains. But the rains didn't come.

To the uninitiated, this was the first ominous sign of trouble—thousands of Rajasthanis on the move, trekking east, driving their cattle before them in search of food, water and jobs.

By June, it was clear that only the monsoon—that seasonal deluge of life-giving rain—could save crops in vast sections. But the monsoon didn't come.

The summer monsoon, which normally brings 75 per cent of India's rainfall, was a disastrous failure. A great drought belt extended, from Rajasthan state southeast across the Indian midlands to Andhra Pradesh and Orissa states on the shores of the Bay of Bengal. In the northeast, the rains failed in West Bengal and Bihar states.

Worried officials tallied crop reports from around the nation. No matter how they were added, the figures came nowhere near the record production figure of 88 million tons for all foodgrains in the 1964 season.

In fact, Food Minister Chidambaram Subramaniam predicted India's own crop might be as much as 14 million tons short of its own need.

Plain Answer

Where to get the rest? The food minister told Parliament in November the answer is "a plain and simple one."

"America," he said, "is the only country which can supply the quantity we need—no other country can."

There were immediate howls from leftists and nationalists of all political hues.

After all, they said, India already had accepted $3 billion worth of American food, along with $6.1 billion in economic aid. American wheat was at that very moment pouring into Indian ports at the rate of 20,000 tons per day. When, they asked, is India going to stand on its own feet?

Subramaniam was adamant. Don't play politics with people's lives, he said. Accept American wheat regardless.

Wheat actually is the primary food for northern Indians. They eat it in a form of pancake called chappatti. This is all many ever eat.

Rich In South

In the south, rice is the most important food. People in both sections of the nation eat various millets and pulses (dried beans and peas.)

One great problem faced in increasing wheat shipments is unloading and distributing the grain.

India's stevedores depend primarily on straining human backs for the work turned over to machines in most countries.

In May, 1965, 840,000 tons of American wheat were unloaded in all of India's ports. It was an all-out, emergency effort.

But, now, as much as one million tons of wheat could arrive in the ports in a given month. Can it be unloaded? Can it be distributed over an already over-loaded railway net? No one knows.

American experts feel that if U.S. wheat arrives in unprecedented quantities and if no strikes or breakdowns hamper unloading, and if rationing in the cities works—if everything works, all but "localized famine" in small, backward rural pockets, can be averted.

As for India's long-range prospects, the experts say it will take massive doses of irrigation, improved farm techniques, fertilizer, land reform and hard work to make India self-sufficient.

NEW DELHI—If a poor Indian is homeless, is it sometimes his own fault?

This startling question may not crop up very often abroad, where most people assume that the hungry and shelterless multitudes in India's cities rightly command the world's sympathy. But it has just been raised here in India by none other than Home Minister Gulzarilal Nanda, thought one may doubt if he meant to do so.

With a muffler around his neck, and his shoulders hunched against the cold, Mr. Nanda has taken a midnight walk through the poorest streets of this city to talk to the people who habitually sleep on the pavements. Their plight excites a modified public interest here each winter, when for a short while India is a cold country and some of the homeless die of its rigors.

For using his feet in this way Mr. Nanda is entitled to far more credit than he could claim for it in other lands. Indian political leaders do not as a rule mix with the common people, and for doing so Mr. Nanda has previously invited only derision. But this time he seems to have set out with certain assumptions, which have led Indians to question his kind intent.

'Psychology'

Mr. Nanda let it be known in advance that he was interested in "the psychology" of those whose only home is the sidewalk. As he walked about he woke up sleepers bedded on the concrete and asked them leading questions. As a result he soon confirmed what he seemed to suspect—that many of them prefer these austere quarters to the night shelters allegedly provided for them by the municipality. They protested that the shelters were bug-infested, overcrowded, unhealthy and hedged about by rules ill-suited to the way of life acute poverty dictates.

Legal Ban

These answers did not seem to satisfy Mr. Nanda. At all events he told the reporters who were following him that he would impose a legal ban on side-walk sleeping, and so force the homeless to go indoors each night.

Had he gone through with this, it wouldn't have been the first time in world history that the homeless have found themselves treated as miscreants. For centuries in England they were hounded by a series of Poor Laws. And when a change in human attitudes demanded it, both in Britain and in the United States, Christian dogma was invoked to justify wealth as the reward of virtue and to condemn poverty as the natural result of improvidence.

Shiftless Gaiety

However, it turned out there were legal impediments to Mr. Nanda's idea for a ban on sidewalk-sleeping. On reflection, he may be glad that this is so. For though each year many homeless die of cold, it would be wrong to suppose that most of those who survive are discontented with their lot. Indeed, in their society you often find the sort of shiftless gaiety, the sense of total and irresponsible freedom, which were also enjoyed for example by Francois Villon and his wild friends in medieval Paris. It might well be fatal to disturb this equanimity before India can afford to spend more on housing the poor than she spends now on building fine Government office blocks and flats for Members of Parliament.

It might, on the whole, be prudent to let sleeping sidewalk dwellers lie.

Canadian Labor's Frailty Begins in the Centre

By DOUGLAS FISHER
Former NDP MP for Port Arthur

Fisher

Donald Secord is a unique specimen among Canadian labor executives. He is the only elected leader in the last decade to speak out on the central problem of Canadian labor, that is "the structural and psychological fragmentation imposed by international unionism."

The statement referred to is an address delivered in November, 1960, to the London Labor Council by Mr. Secord, who is national secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers. Representative quotations from Mr. Secord's speech are reproduced below:

"Canada is unique in that it inherited a trade union structure which was created to meet problems in another country with an economy markedly different and immensely larger and more diversified than our own . . .

"Basically, the Canadian trade union movement consists of a weak centre—the Canadian Labor Congress—which is a sort of United Nations in which are associated some 300 unions, ranging in size from the powerful 90,000-member United Steelworkers, down to unions of 200 or 300 members. All but a few of these unions are international—that is they have their head office in the United States, and a constitution drawn up at conventions where an overwhelming majority of the delegates are American . . .

* * *

"A few international unions are doing an excellent job. Their Canadian sections are moving towards a kind of 'dominion status' on the path to autonomy. They are producing Canadian publications and allowing Canadian members to express themselves in Canadian conferences . . . On the other extreme there are unions like the Operating Engineers where, in the 1960 convention, Canadian members who tried to have a Canadian vice-president elected from the convention floor were crushed by an iron heel.

"The hierarchy of that union chose as its spokesman on the motion, a man described in evidence before the McClellan Committee as a New York gangster.

"I believe it is unfortunate that a country the size of Canada has inherited a union structure evolved in a much more populous country . . . It seems obvious to me that unions below a certain size do not have the resources to function with maximum efficiency . . .

"I suggest to you that instead of 300 unions, we should have approximately 25, and that within these 25 separate industry and trade bargaining groups should exist. I further suggest that Canada requires a much stronger central labor body than the AFL-CIO or the CLC. Ultimately, the CLC should have sufficient prestige to co-ordinate the collective bargaining policies of affiliates . . .

"I do believe that we should have fewer unions and larger ones and, if international unionism is the reason we can't have them, then to this extent I am opposed to international unionism . . .

* * *

"The only way to improve the image of the labor movement is to improve the labor movement and the only way to improve the labor movement is to locate and identify its frailties, its iniquities and its perversities and to do so with objectivity and with candor.

"I stand by the necessity of a continuing examination and debate, in the full view of the millions of Canadian workers, of the principles and the objectives, of the methods, of the accomplishments, and of the weaknesses of the trade unions of this country. And I have not the slightest doubt that as we set about this task, we will rally to our support a greater measure of public understanding than the labor movement of this country has yet experienced."

The "examination and debate," alas, did not take place. Frank Hall gave the word that all this was heresy, anti-union and anti-American. On the other hand, Mr. Secord was not the head of his union, and therefore not in the best position to force an exchange with defenders of the status quo. Also, national and international unions were soon fated to unite their efforts to deal with the ugly problem of Hal Banks and the Seafarers' International Union.

It is worth noting that from the earliest stages of the struggle against the SIU through to the Norris Industrial Inquiry the main leadership of the forces of decency in the labor movement came from Elroy Robson, now retired, but at the time vice-president of CBRT, and supported throughout by Mr. Secord.

China-Japan Draw Closer Through Growing Trade

By STANLEY KARNOW
The Washington Post

HONG KONG—Japan is expected to become Red China's principal commercial partner this year—a marriage between Asia's chief capitalists and paramount Communists that promises significant political consequences for the future.

Over the past four years, Sino-Japanese trade has soared more than five-fold to an estimated 1965 total of $470 million. Analysts here conservatively predict that it will jump at least another 15 per cent in 1966, with Japan replacing the Soviet Union as China's primary trading associate.

This boom has largely evolved from political and economic factors that, among other things, again testify to Peking's skill at mixing dogmatism with pragmatism.

Its ideological dispute with Moscow, which caused the Chinese a good deal of economic grief, has caused Peking to reduce its dependence upon the Soviet Union. Thus Sino-Soviet trade has dropped from $740 million in 1962 to less than $500 million last year.

Courted Business

At the same time, Peking has courted Japanese businessmen while vilifying Japan's foreign policy. In Hong Kong last Tuesday, for example, a Japanese trade mission just down from China disclosed that it had signed a contract to sell the Chinese $8.6 million worth of steel. The next day, responding to a Japanese journalist, Chinese Communist Foreign Minister Chen Yi called Premier Eisaku Sato's government a "cat's paw of U.S. imperialism."

Though trade with China amounts to barely 3 per cent of Japan's total foreign trade, it is crucial to certain Japanese industries.

Last year China bought about 30 per cent of Japan's chemical fertilizer production. China is also an important market for Japanese steel, machinery and synthetic fibres. Perhaps more important, Japanese businessmen are impressed by China's potentialities—an Eldorado of 700 million customers.

Bulwarked

These businessmen are bulwarked, moreover, by influential figures within Japan's ruling Liberal Democratic Party such as the octegenarian Kenzo Matusmura. He believes that China's revolutionary rigidity can be softened by trade and prosperity.

Actually the Chinese profit more significantly than the Japanese from their trade. Their commerce with Japan represents some 15 per cent of China's total foreign trade. In addition, the Japanese buy rice, soya bean, minerals, hog bristles, low grade iron ore and other products that the Chinese might not sell as easily elsewhere.

These advantages are a reason why, despite occasional lapses, the Chinese have subordinated politics to business in their dealings with Japan. They have learned that politics does not pay.

In late 1960, the Chinese selected 50 "friendly" Japanese companies considered politically sympathetic, vowing to trade only with them. Of course, several of these firms were dummies for Mitsubishi, Mitsui and other big Japanese corporations.

By November, 1962, the late Tatsunosuke Takasaki, a prominent Liberal Democrat, was able to negotiate a private trade agreement with Liao Cheng Chih, president of the China-Japan Friendship Association. This accord called for $1 billion trade between 1963 and 1967.

In accepting the Liao-Takasaki agreement, moreover, Peking dropped demands that Japan support Red China's admission to the United Nations and break its relations with Taiwan. In short, Peking separated business from politics.

But this separation of Mammon from Mao Tse-tung has not entirely held up. It broke down, at least temporarily, from an incident whose origins reach back to 1962.

In that year a Japanese company sold a $20 million synthetic textile factory to China, financing the deal with a low-interest, long-term loan from Japan's Import-Export Bank. This deal aroused the indignation of the Chinese Nationalists who then had other grievances against Japan.

Japanese leaders have a certain respect for Nationalist China's President Chiang Kai-shek, who was himself educated in Japan. Chiang has waived Second World War reparations from Japan. He has also encouraged Japanese investment on Taiwan, a former Japanese colony. Furthermore, Japan's annual trade with Taiwan of over $250 million is substantial.

In response to the Nationalist's outcry, therefore, former Japanese Premier Shigeru Yoshida privately promised Chiang that the Import-Export Bank would henceforth refuse credit for sales of plants to Red China. The present premier has not repudiated Yoshida's promise.

Refused Loan

Thus early last year, when the bank declined to finance the sale of another synthetic textile plant as well as a freighter to China, Peking charged that Japanese policy was being dictated by Chiang Kai-shek. Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai further demanded that Yoshida's promise be formally repudiated.

But Peking has not committed the same error twice. Despite its political attacks, it has steadily contintinued to trade with Japan. And in the process it has inevitably drawn Japan closer to China.

After setting quotas on Japanese imports, the U.S. cannot effectively plead for restricting Japan's China trade as well.

Western specialists here acknowledge that ultimately the Japanese may not be able to resist pressure to turn their trade patterns into diplomatic relations—a prospect that would vastly alter the Far East political balance.

SIGN OF MODERN POET

By NANCY ROSS

WASHINGTON—"When people come up to me and say, 'I write poetry too'," said Stephen Spender, "it's like saying 'I have a cold too.' The obvious answer is 'If you write poetry, then I don't'."

The English poet and critic, consultant in poetry in English to the Library of Congress for this academic year, addressed the Arts Club of Washington and discussed the role of the modern poet.

"Very few write poetry. One sign of being a poet today is that you have no confidence that you do write poetry at all."

He went on to explain that poets of the Old Testament were inspired by God; Renaissance poets by patrons. Moreover, according to Spender, there is no longer a concept of organic society as existed in Elizabethan times.

Shakespeare depicted the cruelty of children as an unnatural act. In King Lear, the ingratitude of Regan and Goneril "who might have gone to Sarah Lawrence," he said, is reflected in nature itself, a storm on the heath.

"But," said Spender, "modern poets don't live in the kind of society in which inspiration can be taken for granted." The Beatles and Alan Ginsburg might be called inspired writers, he said, "although I don't know whether their inspiration doesn't come more from demonology than theology.

"No modern poet," said Spender, citing T. S. Eliot and Ezra Pound, "has felt certain that he is as great a poet as poets of the past. He may have had moments of elation, but he accepts this as part of meglomania."
